Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (Media Coverage of Elections) Regulations, 2008

ARRANGEMENT OF SECTIONS

Section

1. Title.
2. Interpretation.
3. Election programmes and advertisements to be broadcast.
4. Allocation of air time on television and radio.
5. Election broadcasts.
6. Election advertisements.
7. Election publications.
8. Conduct of broadcasters, print publishers, presenters and reporters during an election period.
9. Records of political matter broadcast or published.
10. Appeals.
11. Repeal.

IT is hereby notified that the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission, in terms of section 19 of the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission Act [Chapter 2:12], has, with the approval of the Minister, made the following regulations:—

Title

1. These regulations may be cited as the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (Media Coverage of Elections) Regulations, 2008.

Interpretation

2. (1) In these regulations—

"air time" means the time given by broadcasters to political parties and independent candidates to broadcast their election material;

"election advertisement" means any advertisement promoting a political party or candidate during an election period;

"election broadcast" means any election programme or election advertisement that is aired by a broadcaster;

"election matter" means any election advertisement, election programme or election publication;

"election programme" means any of the programmes referred to in section 3(2) that are broadcast during an election period;

"election publication" means any publication made by a print publisher in relation to an election;

"equitable", in relation to the coverage accorded to political parties and candidates by broadcasters and print publishers, means fair treatment in news, current affairs and discussion programmes or features, and should not be construed to mean equal treatment;

"prime time" means the period between 1800 hours and 2200 hours every day.

(2) Any word or expression to which a meaning has been assigned in the Act, the Broadcasting Services Act [Chapter 12:06] and the Access to Information and Protection of Privacy Act [Chapter 10:27] shall have the same meaning when used in these regulations.

Election programmes and advertisements to be broadcast

3. (1) Each of the stations of a public broadcaster shall ensure that when broadcasting election programmes or election advertisements—

(c) accept gifts, favours or special treatment by political parties or other persons interested in the election that compromise their professional integrity.

(4) Journalists accredited under the Access to Information and Protection of Privacy Act [Chapter 10:27] to cover an election during an election period shall not do anything whether in the course of their duties or otherwise and whether by way of action, speech, attitude or manner, that may compromise their professional integrity.

(5) Every broadcaster and print publisher shall afford political parties and candidates the right of reply where a report aired or published under the editorial responsibility of the broadcaster or print publisher contains inaccurate information or unfair criticism based on a distortion of facts, and such right shall be given within twenty-four hours in a programme or column of similar weight and audience.

Records of political matter broadcast or published

9. (1) Broadcasters and print publishers shall make a written record of election matter broadcast or published no later than twenty-four hours after it is broadcast or published, which record shall contain the following information—

(a) the name and the address of the representative of the political party or candidate responsible for submitting the election matter to the broadcaster or print publisher;

(b) in the case of an election broadcast, the transmission date and time and duration of the broadcast;

(c) in the case of election matter other than an election broadcast, the publication date of the election matter;

(d) any other information which the broadcaster or the print publisher deems necessary.

(2) Broadcasters and print publishers shall retain for at least six months after an election period the record referred to in subsection (1).

Appeals

10. (1) Any political party or candidate contesting an election who is aggrieved by any decision of a broadcaster or print publisher in terms of these regulations may appeal to the Commission, giving the grounds of the appeal within twenty-four hours of being notified of the broadcaster's or print publisher's decision.

(2) An appeal in terms of subsection (1) shall be made in form MC1 set out in the Schedule.

(3) The Commission may, before deciding an appeal lodged in terms of subsection (1), request the appellant and the broadcaster or print publisher, as the case may be, to appear before the Commission and make such oral submissions in connection with the appeal as the Commission considers will be of assistance to it in determining the appeal.

(4) The period between the lodging of the appeal in terms of subsection (1) and its determination shall not exceed two days and, if the appeal has not been determined after that period, it shall be deemed to have been determined in favour of the appellant.

(5) The Commission may, if it finds a complaint to be well-founded, grant the relief sought by the complainant or such other relief as it thinks fit in the circumstances.

Repeal

11. The Broadcasting Service (Access to radio and television during an Election) Regulations, 2005, published in Statutory Instrument 22 of 2005, are repealed.

THE 2008 HARMONIZED ELECTIONS: MEDIA MONITORING (PRINT MEDIA)

SUMMARY REPORT

PREPARED BY THE ZIMBABWE ELECTORAL COMMISSION

December 2008

1. OVERVIEW OF MEDIA LANDSCAPE IN ZIMBABWE

1.1. Print Media in Zimbabwe

Zimbabwe's media landscape is characterized by a wide range of periodically printed newspapers and magazines. This plurality in media ownership has entailed diverse opinions finding space through the various media outlets operating in the country. Zimbabwe has more than 85 registered and operating newspapers and magazines.

1.2. Public Owned Media

Media ownership is divided into two major groupings that is public owned and private owned. The public media grouping is characterized by government having controlling interests while the private one media entails those media houses owned by private individuals and companies. Government has a controlling stake in the Zimbabwe Newspapers 1980 Limited (Zimpapers) through the Zimbabwe Mass Media Trust and New Ziana which publishes ten provincial papers. Zimpapers publishes two daily newspapers, the Herald and the Chronicle and the weeklies the Sunday Mail, Sunday News and Manica Post. It also publishes the Trends Magazine (entertainment and leisure magazine), Kwaedza and Umthunya (vernacular weeklies), Zimbabwean Travel (Leisure and tourism) and the New Farmer (farming magazine).

1.3. Privately Owned Media

Zimbabwe has a number of privately owned newspapers. There are three major national weeklies which include the Modus published Financial Gazette and the Standard Press/ZimInd which publishes the Standard and the Independent. The three papers cover political, economic and social issues and they all have national coverage and distribution.

There is a proliferation of Community Newspapers in all the country's provinces. These include the Gweru Times, Network Guardian, Makonde Star, Masvingo Star and the Business Review. Most of the Community Newspapers are published weekly. (See Annexure 1)

1.4. Foreign Media

A number of foreign published newspapers are in circulation in the country. These include the South African published titles:- The Sunday Star, Mail and Guardian, Sunday Times and The Star. These papers have been carrying considerable content on the political developments in the country.

The Zimbabwean, a United Kingdom publication and its weekly sister paper have been in circulation for some years. These two titles' content is 100% Zimbabwean.

Besides the above, Zimbabwe is host to a number of dominant world media organisations which include Reuters, Agence France Presse (AFP), Aljazeera (which later relocated to South Africa), SABC, China Radio International and the Post newspaper of Zambia.

1.5. Amendments to Media Laws

The amendments to the country's electoral laws brought with them a new dimension providing for guidelines on election reporting by the print media. While there were regulations covering election reporting by the public broadcaster no such regulations were in place for the print media. The legislature, in a bid to empower the Commission to regulate the conduct of news media in relation to elections, introduced a new provision in the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission Act [Chapter 2:12] on media coverage of elections (Part IVA of the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission Act). It further empowered the Commission to make regulations to monitor the conduct of both the public broadcaster and the print media in relation to their coverage of political parties and candidates during an election period. Hence the promulgation of the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (Media Coverage of Elections) Regulations, 2008, Statutory Instrument 33 of 2008.

It should be stated that Zimbabwe is one of the few countries that has legislation providing for the coverage of elections by print publications. Generally, most regulations on election reporting are concerned with the electronic media. This is so because of the nature of the electronic media. National television stations, by virtue of their public funding, are required to follow set guidelines that govern their conduct. Naturally, they are expected to educate, inform and entertain the public on various issues and developments taking place within and outside national borders. Non-partisanship and neutrality on the part of the print media are not common phenomena because that resource is not as limited as the electro-magnetic spectrum available in broadcasting. Equally, investment in broadcasting is more expensive than in the print media.

On the other hand, newspapers are usually private owned and are founded therefore upon certain ideological beliefs and interests. The promulgation of election guidelines was a major step in trying to extend and enforce internationally agreed principles on the part of the print media regarding election reporting.

1.6. Accredited Journalists

A total of 122 foreign and over 400 local journalists were accredited to cover the 2008 elections.

2. RATIONALE

The report analyses election related reportage by the major newspapers during the 2008 elections. These papers include titles published by Zimpapers, the Financial Gazette, the Independent and the Standard. This selection has been based on readership levels and print-run, geographical reach and, hence, the power to influence opinion at a national scale.

2.1. Coverage of Political Parties and candidates

The coverage of any programme or event by the media should be seen as two fold. Firstly, it is the responsibility of the media to inform and educate their readers on the different political parties, policies and candidates. These are fundamental principles guiding the media in a democracy. Secondly, the extent to which a political party is covered is determined by the extent to which that political party has managed to rollout a political or campaign programme. Some parties launched their campaign programmes earlier than others and so they got a head start as compared to those that came in late.

Much coverage centred on the three main political parties, that is, ZANU-PF and the two MDC formations and also on the independent Presidential candidate, Simba Makoni. Naturally so, the press and the electorate were interested in what these parties and respective candidates were offering. This being the case, other smaller parties and candidates did not get much coverage. In all, a total of 17 political parties fielded candidates in the 29 March elections.

From the analysis, ZANU-PF was extensively covered by both the public and private media than any other political party or candidate. ZANU-PF was presented by the private media as not only a party in chaos but one that had nothing to offer during and after the elections should it win. ZANU-PF was reported as responsible for all the problems bedeviling the country and so, in the same vein, could not offer any solutions to the same if re-elected to form the next government. Zimpapers publications presented ZANU-PF as the only party with a clear ideology; it was ready to defend the gains of the liberation struggle. The opposition was deemed western sponsored with no agenda of their own. The puppet tag given to the opposition characterized Zimpapers' publications throughout the whole period.

The Independent and Standard gave ZANU-PF a picture of a party in chaos, rocked by defections, with a top membership yearning for change in leadership. The Financial Gazette, made a separation between ZANU-PF and its leader, where the latter was portrayed as someone who had lost control of the party, was imposing himself and therefore had to leave the throne and pave way for another party member to take over.

The announcement of Simba Makoni as a presidential candidate brought new editorial dimensions to the privately owned newspapers. The MDC Tsvangirai (henceforth to be referred to as MDC-T) was now perceived as having lost its chance to wrestle power from ZANU-PF. The MDC faction was reported in good light for taking a position to rally behind Makoni. Suddenly, the MDC-T was portrayed as a party in chaos, with no clear policy framework and unable to deliver a winning formula to the electorate. There were attacks on Morgan Tsvangirai as incapable of reaching any decision, a dictator and, above all, unable to unify the people of Zimbabwe.

3. THE 29 MARCH 2008 ELECTIONS

3.1. Analysis of the Independent and Standard Newspapers

Stories on ZANU-PF centred on the perceived problems bedeviling the party and the attendant economic problems affecting the country. ZANU-PF was portrayed as a party responsible for these economic problems: it had no capacity, let alone a clue on how to deal with these problems. Most of the accusations were not verified. The Commission observed that there was use of anonymous sources in most of the stories.

The editorial support for one of the contesting candidates was visibly clear. This distorted the objective analysis or presentation of other contesting parties. The failure of the two MDC formations to unite presented challenges to the editorial slant of the papers. The MDC-T was rapped for being arrogant, while the failure of the two to unite was perceived as giving ZANU-PF an easy win.

The pronouncement by Trevor Ncube, the owner of the papers, for his support for Simba Makoni, led to a complete shift in the editorial stance of the papers. The paper carried opinion pieces by various authors who shared the same thinking. The two publications became campaign agents of Simba Makoni and the MDC faction which backed him.

The papers' ideological framework could not be easily ascertained except its open cry for the dislodgement of ZANU-PF from power. This invariably affected the objectivity and fairness on how ZANU-PF and other parties were covered. At the end of the day, most stories carried on ZANU-PF and MDC-T were neither objective nor fair.

The bias with which most reports were carried had the effect of denying the papers' readership the opportunity of getting the other parties' side of the story. This bias affected the manner in which the papers treated issues concerning the electoral process.

The papers carried many advertisements run by various civic organisations which decampaigned ZANU-PF.

Most of the stories by the papers were full of the writer's opinions making it difficult for the public to separate a real story from comment.

The electoral process was portrayed as uneven and the body that manages it, the ZEC, was portrayed as biased in favour of ZANU-PF.

3.2. The Financial Gazette

The Financial Gazette presented ZANU-PF as a party riddled with problems and corruption with no capacity to turn around the economy. The paper did make an attempt in its stories to separate Mugabe from ZANU-PF. Although it believed in some people within ZANU-PF, it was clear that Mugabe was seen as the major problem and needed to be voted out.

The denigration of ZANU-PF was made to run concurrently with the presentation of MDC as the only hope for Zimbabwe. ZANU-PF's policies on the economy were heavily attacked.

The entry of Simba Makoni into the presidential race had a resultant shift in the editorial stance of the paper. Simba Makoni was presented as the only hope for Zimbabwe.
Most of the articles on ZANU-PF were based on anonymous sources making it difficult for the reader to ascertain the veracity of the stories. The paper was biased against ZANU-PF and gave its support to the MDC and Simba Makoni.

The paper failed its readers by not making an effort to educate and inform them about the electoral process and amendments to the electoral laws.

3.3. The Zimpapers

The Herald and its sister's publications had the same editorial thrust throughout the election period. Although the papers covered other smaller parties and other candidates, its support for ZANU-PF was clear.

The Zimpapers publications' ideological stance was well put forward. It called for support and defence of the 'gains of the liberation struggle'. Only ZANU-PF was presented as the option and other parties and candidates, the two MDC formations and Simba Makoni, respectively, were portrayed as puppets representing western interests, with no agenda of their own.

The two MDC formations were heavily castigated for lack of a clear political ideology and appreciation of the history of the liberation struggle, considering the fact that they were "established and sponsored by the British and their allies". There were personal attacks on Tsvangirai and Makoni as individuals. The two MDC formations and Makoni were seen as having no stature to manage the affairs of the country and were only there to advance the interests of their sponsors.

Zimpapers covered extensively the election campaign of ZANU-PF and its presidential candidate. However, any coverage of the two MDC formations and Makoni was negative.

Zimpapers Publications also made use of opinion writers who shared the same ideological stance. However it was also difficult to ascertain whether coverage was on party or government issues. In the Commission's view, the use of undisclosed sources by both the public and private media made it difficult for the readers to authenticate the stories published by the media.

4. PRESIDENTIAL RUN-OFF AND THREE HOUSE OF ASSSEMBLY BY-ELECIONS

4.1. The Standard/Independent

The papers' support for the MDC-T presidential candidate was quite clear. ZANU-PF was described as a party that would stop at nothing to win the election. It was portrayed as a violent party which had engaged youth militia, soldiers and war veterans in waging attacks on opposition supporters, leading to the death of some MDC supporters. However, the paper's constant use of anonymous sources in most of its reports weakened the credibility of its stories.

From the onset, The Standard adjudged the election as not free and fair. Besides, the police force was accused of bias towards ZANU-PF.

The publications portrayed a link between ZANU-PF and ZEC where the latter was reported as partial, functioning under instruction from the former.

Advertisements from ZANU-PF and MDC-T and various civic groups were published in the papers.

4.2. The Financial Gazzette

The paper's editorial thrust was not so much the removal of ZANU-PF but Mugabe in particular. The paper's choice of president was not quite clear, although it evidently wanted to see Mugabe out of power. This notwithstanding, he paper questioned Tsvangirai's credentials as a leader. It advocated for a government of national unity which it deemed the answer to the country's economic and political problems. According to the paper, both the MDC and ZANU-PF needed each other to run Zimbabwe and there were reports of the parties engaging in talks, on the sidelines, for a Government of National Unity. However, the paper singled out what it termed "power hungry extremists" within ZANU-PF whom the paper blamed for hiding behind the party to stick to power. These were the individuals the paper accused of engaging in a "terror campaign" to ensure a ZANU-PF victory in the run-off.

ZANU-PF was portrayed as a party that would use any unorthodox means to win the election. In the event of such a win, the paper warned that the country would need to brace itself for the worst economic crisis ever.

Although the paper carried statements acknowledging the involvement of both contesting parties in political violence, it only reported on alleged violence committed by the ruling party supporters.

President Mbeki came under serious attack by the paper for failing to "publicly criticise" ZANU-PF leadership and for allegedly doing a raw job as Zimbabwe's mediator.

ZEC's capacity to handle the run-off was also questioned. The Financial Gazette believed ZEC did not have the financial human and moral and capacity to conduct the elections.

The extension of the run-off to 90 days instead of the 21 stipulated in the legislation was also criticised and seen as causing a constitutional crisis. The Financial Gazette questioned the fairness of the run-off, maintaining that the playing field was heavily biased towards the ZANU-PF presidential candidate. It was not clear whether any clarification had been sought to enlighten the readers on what had necessitated the extension and, generally, the interpretation of the electoral laws.

Generally the private media refrained from the use of hate speech during the period leading to the 29 March elections. The situation took a dramatic twist during the presidential runoff campaign period and the papers resorted to name calling and the use of unrestrained language.

4.3. Zimpapers

Zimpapers publications' support for the Zanu-PF presidential candidate was very clear. The MDC leader was presented as "a western puppet" with the mere intention of reversing the country's "independence gains". The paper portrayed the run-off as a war between Zimbabwe and Britain and its allies, rather than between the ZANU-PF and MDC-T presidential candidates.

From April up to the election week, attention was given to the surge in political violence. The Herald's reportage on this painted a picture of ZANU-PF supporters as victims of horrible attacks from the opposition. However, it also agreed with reports from the police and the United Nations country team which attributed political violence to both parties.

The paper only published ZANU-PF and a few other organisations advertisements calling on people to vote for the ruling party. They also published ZEC advertisements. The Zimpapers blamed the MDC-T's late start to campaign on the party leader's decision "to go on a self imposed exile" while wasting campaigning time.

The suspension by government of some operations of some NGO's was a move welcomed by the paper, which accused these NGO's of vote-buying on behalf of the MDC.

The Herald was hard hitting on the opposition, blaming them for the country's economic woes after calling for "illegal sanctions". The paper regularly pointed to an uneven playing field because of those sanctions imposed on the country, which, according to the publications, was the reason for the MDC-T's 'near win' in March 2008.

Although the paper refrained, just marginally, from hate speech it resorted to name-calling, occasionally referring to MDC-T supporters as "thugs, puppets and sell-outs".

Zimpapers also published reports on the voting process which most readers had not understood before, besides carrying reports on the ZEC's preparedness ahead of the run-off.

5. SUMMARIES OF MEDIA VIEWS ON CONDITIONS FOR A FREE AND FAIR ELECTION

As already noted above, the public media extensively covered the election campaign by the ZANU-PF, while the private and foreign media were on the side of the two MDC formations. The following represents summaries of the media views on some of the issues not already captured above.

5.1. The Zimbabwe Electoral Commission as a credible electoral body

The composition and capacity of ZEC to organize and manage the elections was subjected to extensive debate even before the announcement of the sitting of the nomination court. The private media portrayed ZEC as biased in favour of ZANU-PF and not independent, while the public media made an effort to establish the state of preparedness of ZEC to conduct the pending elections.

There was an outcry by the MDC-T over the alleged small number of polling stations allocated to urban areas which were reported as MDC-T strongholds as compared to those allocated to rural areas which were purportedly reported by same as ZANU-PF strongholds. The problems earlier prophesied by the media on the number of polling stations vis-à-vis the voters, however, did not materialize. It was reported on the polling day that there were short queues in cities contrary to predictions earlier made and over-reported on.

Other matters the media reported on included the conduct of the voter education exercise which was reported as inadequate, the postal ballot system which was reported as flawed as it did not allow observers to be present when the applicant for the postal ballot cast their vote, amongst others.

Most statements on ZEC were meant to present the electoral body as incapable of presiding over an electoral process producing credible results. Most of the attacks were biased and did not solicit comments from the ZEC. The public media, to its credit, made an effort of informing and educating its readers on the election process, from the sitting of the nomination court, amendments to electoral laws and how the elections were to be conducted. ZEC's advertisements on the above were flighted frequently in both the public and private media.

5.2. Canvassing for support

During the entire election period, the private and foreign media accused ZANU-PF of vote buying through various government schemes. The public media reported on such cases as government's quest to empower its citizens at the same time castigating NGO's that were accused of using food to sway voters to vote for the MDC-T with claims of threats to withhold food should the MDC-T lose.

5.3. Access to media

There were complaints by the MDC-T that they were being denied access to the public media, added to allegations that the public media was being used to campaign for ZANU-PF, at the same time decampaigning the MDC-T. ZANU-PF, on the other hand, alleged that the private and foreign media were on a warpath to discredit it and at the same time championing the cause of the MDC-T.

5.4. Results

From reports carried by both the public and private media, ZANU-PF was not willing to accept the results in the event that it lost the election. Similarly, the MDC-T was reported as also not willing to accept the results in the event of a ZANU-PF win, alleging an uneven political playing field. At the end of the day, both parties accepted the outcome of the elections and also the need for a run-off election.

With regard to the final presidential results, the public media celebrated the win by the ZANU-PF presidential candidate and his subsequent inauguration. Mugabe's win was seen and reported as a triumph over imperialist forces bent on derailing the gains of independence, through the MDC-T. The public media also reported on the stated willingness and readiness of President Mugabe to engage the opposition parties in a dialogue to deal with the political and socio-economic situation in the country.

The private and the foreign media carried reports on the unwillingness of some western and SADC countries to deal with a Mugabe government.

5.5. Withdrawal of MDC-T Presidential Candidate

Both the public and private media reported the withdrawal of Morgan Tsvangirai from the race, citing an uneven playing field, alleged violence and disruption of his campaign programme. ZANU-PF and the public media accused Morgan Tsvangirai of having failed to put up a campaign programme, a shortcoming that led to his withdrawal .They said he had anticipated well the imminent defeat he was facing. Tsvangirai was accused of following instructions from 'his masters' in Europe and in the United States of America on what move to take concerning the elections. The public media reported the withdrawal of Tsvangirai as a legal nullity following the rejection of his submission by the ZEC. There were varied interpretations on the legal provisions on the withdrawal of a candidate during a run-off, with consensus indicating that a candidate could only withdraw 21 days before the initial race – the 29 March, 2008 date.

6 COVERAGE OF THE ELECTIONS BY THE INTERNATIONAL MEDIA

Zimbabwe's 2008 elections were a major story throughout the world during the period under review. From 22 March to 4 April 2008, the story appeared in all news bulletins of major international news agencies which include the BBC, CNN, Euro News, Sky News, Al Jazeera, SABC, CNBC, ARD of Germany among others. The period from the first week of June 2008 to the first week of July 2008 witnessed the Zimbabwe election story being broadcast and covered by prominent world media organisations. Some of the international news organisations were accredited and hence operated legally within Zimbabwe, although some based their reports on hearsay and speculation and actually operated on Zimbabwean soil clandestinely, hence illegally.

7. POLITICAL ADVERTISING

Prior to the 29 March election, political parties were able to place their advertisements in both the public and private media during the campaign period. Interesting to note, however, was the absence of ZANU-PF advertisements in the private media.

The run-off election campaign period was witnessed by ZANU-PF placing campaign advertisements in both the public and private media. MDC-T advertisements only appeared in the private media. The MDC-T claimed that the public media was denying it space to flight its advertisements but no official complaint was ever received by the Commission. (Note: The Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (Media Coverage of Elections) Regulations provide for a mechanism for a person aggrieved by the decision of a broadcaster or print publisher to report to the Commission for redress.)

8. CONCLUSION

The gazetting of Statutory Instrument 33 of 2008: Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (Media Coverage of Elections) was a major development in providing for guidelines in the conduct of the media during an election period. Although the guidelines provide for balanced, fair and objective reporting by the print media on all participating parties and candidates, it was difficult generally for the media to adhere to these guidelines. This maybe so as the print media, is by nature, partisan.

The print media did not stick to universally agreed principles of reporting objectively, impartially, fairly and correctly. This is evidenced by most reports based on anonymous sources and hearsay, and the inability of reporters to seek comment from other contesting viewpoints.

The print media failed to inform and educate their various publics on the electoral laws, the voting process and, indeed, the entire electoral process. Most reports which criticized the electoral process did not bother to seek comment from ZEC. If comment was sought, it was solicited from preferred sources with the same thinking as that of the paper.

The print media, however, should be commended for, generally, refraining from the use of hate speech during the period leading to the 29 March 2008 elections. This, unfortunately did not prevail during the entire election period; the period prior to the presidential run-off election saw all papers engaging in name-calling and the use of unrestrained language, just marginally falling short of using hate speech. The Commission would like to remind all media that balance, fairness and objectivity should be the cornerstone of all editorial content bearing in mind that media are guided by the professional goals of informing, educating and entertaining the public. There should be clear separation between facts and opinion in the coverage of elections.

THE 2008 HARMONIZED ELECTIONS: MEDIA MONITORING (ELECTRONIC MEDIA)

SUMMARY REPORT

PREPARED BY THE ZIMBABWE ELECTORAL COMMISSION

December 2008

1 INTRODUCTION

This is a report on the coverage of the 2008 Harmonized and Presidential run-off election in Zimbabwe. It assesses the level of compliance with the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (Media Coverage of Elections) Regulations, 2008 in particular, compliance with the coverage of Election programmes, advertisements and news and current affairs programmes by the public broadcaster, Zimbabwe Broadcasting Holdings (ZBH).

2 OVERVIEW OF THE BROADCASTING LANDSCAPE IN ZIMBABWE

The Zimbabwe Broadcasting Holdings, which is wholly owned by government, has four radio channels namely Radio Zimbabwe, Power FM, Spot FM and National FM and one television station, ZBC-TV. Radio is by far the most accessible and popular medium in Zimbabwe with at least 45 percent penetration. Zimbabweans can also access foreign stations available through the digital satellite television service (DSTV), digital satellite radio service (DSRS), Short Wave, Medium Wave and the Internet.

The Broadcasting Authority of Zimbabwe regulates the provision of broadcasting services and the provision of broadcasting systems in Zimbabwe and the public broadcaster; ZBH is licensed in terms of the Broadcasting Services Act (Chapter 12:06).

3 WHAT THE COMMISSION MONITORED

Election programmes

The Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (Media Coverage of Elections) Regulations, 2008, required the public broadcaster to broadcast, free of charge, the following categories of election programmes:

3.1 Presentation of election manifestos and policies by political parties or candidates to the electorate without being interviewed.

3.2 Programmes in which there are discussions relating to elections.

3.3 Programmes in which there are interviews with candidates or representatives of political parties relating to the elections.

Election advertisements

The regulations also require each of the stations of the public broadcaster to allocate four hours of available purchasable time during an election period for election advertisements. This time is to be distributed equitably to political parties and candidates contesting the election in question, taking into consideration the number of constituencies being contested by the respective parties.

The broadcasting of news and current affairs programmes

The broadcasting of news and current affairs programmes during an election period does not differ from the normal journalistic practice of a broadcaster during non-election periods. Normal considerations continue to apply during an election period with news value judgement still being maintained.

The public broadcaster is expected to comply with the Broadcasting Services (Licensing and Content) Regulations of 2004. In addition to the above regulations, the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (Media Coverage of Elections) Regulations, 2008, have guidelines on the coverage of news and current affairs programmes during an election period by the public broadcaster. All stations of the public broadcaster are expected to, all the time, comply with Section 8 of the Regulations, which provides for broadcasters to ensure that, during the election period, news and current affairs programmes or features relating to the election in question are presented in a balanced, fair and accurate manner.

4 HOW COMPLIANCE WAS MONITORED

In this regard, the Commission charged with monitoring and ensuring compliance with the Regulations requested the public broadcaster to provide it with a schedule of the election programme categories referred to above covering all the political parties and candidates. The schedules of election programmes for the March 2008 Harmonised Elections and the June 2008 Presidential Run-off election are attached as Annexes (1) and (2)

In assessing the schedule of election programmes provided by the public broadcaster, the Commission focused on the following areas:

- that all political parties and independent candidates were included on the schedule;
- that all political parties and independent candidates were treated equitably on the allocation of broadcasting airtime;
- that the election programmes were to be transmitted during prime time.
- the Commission adopted the following strategy:
- a meeting with ZBH to discuss the Regulations,
- monitoring of the election programmes broadcast, and analysing transmission reports;

- correspondence with the public broadcaster, to provide feedback and make recommendations.

5 MARCH HARMONISED ELECTIONS

Election programmes

Each of ZBH's five stations prepared broadcast schedules for election programmes for transmission during prime time. Election programmes were allocated to all the political parties and independent candidates contesting the elections. The parties were CDP, FDU, MCD, MDC, MDC-T, PUMA, UPP, VOP, ZANU NDONGA, ZANU-PF, ZAPU FP, ZDP, ZIYA and ZPPDP. There were one hundred and seventeen independent candidates.

Coverage of political parties and candidates: presentation of election manifestos and policies

Each political party was allocated two twelve-minute slots while independent candidates were allocated two five-minute slots during the election period.

On ZBC-TV 12 political parties, namely CDP, MCD, MDC, MDC-T, PUMA, UPP, VOP, ZANU-PF, ZAPU FP, ZDP, ZIYA, ZPPDP, an independent presidential candidate, Simba Makoni and twenty-three legislative independent candidates presented their election manifestos while ZANU NDONGA and the FDU did not take up the time allocated to them. (Annex 3)

Twelve political parties, one independent presidential candidate and twenty-three legislative independent candidates presented their manifestos on Radio Zimbabwe, Spot FM, National FM and Power FM. (Annex 4)

Coverage of political parties and candidates: discussion programmes

Each political party and presidential candidates, apiece, was allocated an hour for the discussion programme, whilst group discussions with independent candidates present on each recording day were also scheduled.

FDU, MCD, MDC, MDC-T, PUMA, VOP, ZANU-PF and ZDP took part in the scheduled discussion programmes on ZBC-TV while CDP, ZANU NDONGA, ZIYA and ZPPDP did not. There ware no discussion programmes for independent presidential candidates because only one candidate turned up for the recording. (Annex 3)

Six political parties, namely ,FDU, MDC, MDC-T, PUMA, ZANU-PF and ZAPU-FP participated in discussion programmes on all the four radio stations.

Coverage of political parties and candidates: interview programmes

All parties were allocated two thirty-minute slots for interview programmes on ZBC-TV, Spot FM and Power FM. Radio Zimbabwe and National FM allocated an hour each for Shona and Ndebele broadcasts in this programme category.

Thirteen political parties utilised the time allocated to them on television but ZIYA did not. (Annex 3)

On Radio Zimbabwe, Power FM, Spot FM and National FM, interviews were carried out with twelve political parties and two independent presidential candidates. (Annex 4)

Coverage of political parties and candidates: advertisements

Each station of the public broadcaster was allocated four hours of advertising time for election advertisements. This was distributed to political parties and candidates. MDC-T and ZANU-PF were allocated 60 minutes on each station, other parties three minutes and thirty seconds and Independent candidates thirty seconds each.

Three political parties, MDC, MDC-T, ZANU-PF and independent presidential candidate Simba Makoni took up advertising airtime allocated to them. While ZBH had requested for additional advertising airtime on behalf of some political parties and independent presidential candidate, Simba Makoni the Commission advised ZBH to work within the prescribed time. The rest of the political parties and independent candidates did not take up the advertising opportunity offered by ZBH stations.

A violation of Section 6(2) of the Media Coverage of Elections Regulations that provides that election advertisements shall be transmitted in such a manner that one election advertisement does not follow immediately before or after another was brought to the attention of ZBC-TV by the Commission. The station took corrective action.

The fact that there was demand for more advertising air time from political parties and an independent candidate towards the 29 March 2008 harmonised elections points to the need for a review of time allocated for advertisements.

The Commission also noted that some political parties and independent candidates took some time to respond to calls for advertisements, putting to question their state of preparedness in this area.

Assessment

ZBH stations complied with the regulations in broadcasting the stipulated election programmes, namely presentation of election manifestos and policies, discussion and interviews for political parties as scheduled during the harmonised election period. Independent presidential candidates also presented their election manifestos and participated in the interview programmes. Independent legislative candidates were allocated time for the presentation of election manifestos but the stations did not allocate them time for interview and discussion programmes.

All programmes were broadcast during prime time and were repeated during the course of the following day. The Commission took note of public concern and ZBH rectified this anomaly after the intervention of the Commission.

The Commission took note of public concern with respect to the conduct of some interviewers during discussions and interview programmes, in violation of Section 8(2) (a), which provides that a presenter shall not "express their personal views in such programmes or articles" in so doing, conducting the interview in a manner that casts doubt over their impartiality.

NEWS COVERAGE

Altogether 3349 news bulletins on elections were monitored on the public broadcaster's four radio stations and 621 reports on elections that were featured on ZBC-TV news bulletins were also assessed in the period from 29 February to 28 March 2008.

Assessment of coverage of different political parties

Reports during this period focused on campaign messages of different political parties and independent candidates and the level of preparedness of the ZEC to conduct the Harmonized Elections in one day. The news broadcasts provided important information to voters on the policies of political parties and independent candidates.

An analysis of the coverage of news on ZBC-TV and the four radio stations during the election period shows that, although most political parties and independent candidates received coverage, parties fielding candidates in all constituencies featured more.

During and after polling day, the public broadcaster, especially the four radio stations, kept the nation informed of the voting process and the peace that prevailed. The Zimbabwe Electoral Commission announced the results of the House of Assembly, Senatorial and Presidential elections live on ZBC-TV and the radio stations as they came.

Everything taken into account, the Commission concluded that the public broadcaster's capacity to give equitable coverage to all contesting political parties and candidates could have been hampered by lack of resources, given the fact that there is only one Bureau Chief in each province. Political parties could also have played an important role in ensuring that the public was informed about their positions on issues of national significance if they had informed ZBH on campaign activities lined up by their parties during the campaign period. Only ZANU-PF submitted to the public broadcaster a programme of its events for the election period.

6 JUNE PRESIDENTIAL RUN-OFF ELECTION

Election programmes

Coverage of political parties and candidates: discussion programmes

In the run up to the Presidential run-off election, ZBC-TV introduced two programmes, Zimbabwe Today and Melting Pot where discussions on issues relating to the election were held with panellists selected from MDC-T and ZANU-PF and political analysts familiar with the Zimbabwean political landscape.

The focus of the debates was not only on party electioneering but was valuable in enlightening the electorate on issues of significance to the country. These included the role of the local and foreign media, the importance of fairness and balance in their reporting, the value of independence and economic empowerment, and the electoral process and the occurrence of post election disturbances. Other issues discussed were the illegal sanctions imposed on Zimbabwe by western countries and how these sanctions have made the playing field uneven and biased against the ruling party and government ahead of the Presidential Run- off election.

Coverage of political parties and candidates: advertisements

Zimbabwe Television and the four radio stations carried ZANU-PF party advertisements. There were no advertisements covering the MDC -T party campaign.

In a letter written to the MDC-T party during the last week before the run-off and copied to the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission, the public broadcaster cited inappropriate language and misleading information contained in some of the MDC-T advertisements as reasons for not airing the advertisements presented as a package. The public broadcaster sought advice from MDC-T on whether to proceed with the unoffending advertisements while awaiting corrective measures on the others. The MDC-T party did not authorize the broadcasting of those advertisements that the broadcaster considered appropriate and no corrective action was taken on the others.

NEWS COVERAGE

4134 reports were monitored on Radio Zimbabwe, National FM, Sport FM and Power FM, while 784 reports were monitored on ZBC-TV.

Major issues covered during this period included the recounting process of disputed Harmonised Elections results in 23 House of Assembly Constituencies, the announcement of the presidential poll result, post election violence and the presidential run-off election.

All the four radio stations and ZBC-TV updated the electorate on the vote recounting process in the 23 disputed lower house constituencies and the progress in the verification and collation of harmonised presidential election results. This was followed by the announcement of presidential election result in which no candidate attained the requisite 50% + 1 vote. The news broadcasts also provided valuable information to voters on the date and preparations for the presidential run off election and House of Assembly by-elections.

All the radio stations and ZBC-TV covered the Presidential run-off election with news broadcast informing voters on what was happening at polling stations throughout the country. The Commission was also able to update the electorate with results on radio and television.

Assessment of coverage of political parties during the Presidential Run-off election and the House of Assembly By-Election

On the 25th of May 2008, ZBH covered the launching by the ZANU- PF Presidential candidate, Cde Robert Mugabe, of the party's campaign for the June 27 Presidential Run-off elections at the party's headquarters in Harare. From this time ZBH extensively reported on ZANU-PF campaign rallies, while the party's election advertisements were broadcast during this period. However, there was no coverage of MDC-T campaign rallies, with ZBH citing non-submission of campaign schedules as the reason for not doing so.

Current Affairs Programmes

Programming outside news and election programmes was also monitored. A television current affairs programme, Media Watch featured informational programming, including voter education, election processes, trends on observing elections, the role of election observers and the role of the media during an election was also monitored.

The Commission also had programmes and news releases on radio and television, which provided voters with information on, how and where to register, how to check the voters registers the nature of the election and voting procedures. The programmes were vital in providing information to members of the public. Jingles developed by ZEC were also played on both radio and television to educate the electorate on some of the voting processes. Panellists were also invited to discuss trends on observing elections and the role of election observers.

However, the Commission observed that ZBH could have done more to educate its listeners and viewers on the various stages of the electoral process.

7 Conclusion

The public broadcaster in general complied with the Zimbabwe Electoral (Media Coverage of Elections) Regulations of 2008 during the 29 March harmonised elections. ZBH tried its best to take corrective measures in those areas calling for such. In the June Presidential Run-Off elections commendable effort was made to have panellists from the two contesting political parties; MDC-T and ZANU-PF participate in discussion programmes. It makes it easier for ZBH for political parties to submit their campaign rallies.

8 Recommendations

The gazetting of the Zimbabwe Electoral (Media Coverage of Elections) Regulations, 2008 which was done well into the election period, did not give the public broadcaster enough time to effectively and efficiently schedule election programmes.

In future, regulations pertaining to access of political parties to radio and television should be gazetted at least three months before the commencement of the election period to enable broadcasters, who prepare their programme schedules in advance per quota, to schedule and publicise the broadcast dates of election programmes well in advance. Such an arrangement will also enable the broadcasters to effectively market the available political advertising airtime.

For these media regulations to be fully effective, amendments requiring political parties and candidates to submit their campaign schedules to broadcasters may need to be put in place.

To improve the coverage of future elections, the national transmission network for radio and television should be upgraded and developed to cover the whole country. This will enable listeners and viewers across the country to tune to local stations in order to follow developments related to national issues, elections included. In the 2008 elections, it was noted that foreign stations targeted at Zimbabwe were received in the country and were mainly accessed by some opposition political parties and activists.

RE: PRESIDENTIAL RUN OFF AND HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY BY ELECTIONS PRELIMINARY REPORT – 26/06/2008

In terms of section 6 (4) E of the electoral Act (Chapter 2:13) the Minister of Justice Legal and Parliamentary Affairs is vested with the power to invite individuals representing local organizations and eminent persons from within Zimbabwe to observe Elections in Zimbabwe, hence the invitation of the Zimbabwe National Drivers Union (ZINDU) to observe the Presidential Run- Off and House of Assembly by elections of 27th June 2008 respectively.

Following the no winner Presidential Results in the harmonized elections of 29 March 2008 which included the Council; House of Assembly; Senatoral and Presidential Elections as a New SADC Elections format. (ZEC) the Electoral Commission Authority in Zimbabwe announced a Run - Off of the two top Presidential candidates namely; Cde. Robert Gabriel Mugabe of ZANU (PF) and Mr. Morgan Tsvangirai of (MDC T) interms of the amended Electoral Provisions of the Zimbabwe Government Constitution. All this process was done with consultation from SADC observer mission head -of delegation; the Minister of Angola who was appointed by the President of Angola who heads the department of Politics and Security organ in SADC, together with President of South Africa Cde Thabo Mbeki who is an appointed authority to mediate. In the Political affairs of Zimbabwe between two MDC formations and the Ruling Party ZANU (PF). As local observers we were supervised when (ZEC) announced the Run - Off that MDC T which was to contest the Run Off election left the country for reasons best known to its President Mr. Morgan Tsvangirai while the ZANU (PF) candidate Cde. R.G. Mugabe took it to the electorate in Zimbabwe in order to garner support since he had trailed (MDC T) in the harmonized 29th March 2008 Presidential, elections by 43% to 47% respectively.

In the Run-Off Campaign process MDC T leashed violence in some parts of the country including murdering of freedom fighters and ZANU (PF) top leaders in some Provinces. This did not go down well with the Government as the previous elections had been held in a peaceful manner. Government then deployed more Police details wherever violence by either ZANU (PF) or MDC had been perpetrated. But as local observers violence was provoked by MDC T and not ZANU (PF). Ofcourse ZANU (PF) could not stand role and watch their supporters being victimized hence it was now violence to violence of the major political parties leading to the day of vote casting. (ZEC) must be applauded for the legal firminess it took when Mr. Morgan Tsvangirai announced his candidature withdrawal four days before the 27th June 2008 Presidential Run- off date.

Internationally, Continentally and Regionally, ZEC had announced their readiness to conduct the Run Off Presidential elections as its Mandate from African Union; SADC and the Republic Government of Zimbabwe, and therefore for any Presidential candidate to be stubborn with the electoral laws was unacceptable; hence the official withdrawal of Mr. Tsvangirai was invalidated in terms of Section 107 of the Electoral Laws of Zimbabwe; and the elections proceeded with all candidates being voted for, legally.

As local observers who are well vested in the politics of Zimbabwe the MDC T is representing the interests of Britian; America and their allies in a bid to institute an illegal regime change which is unconstitutional and we as local observers endorse the holding of 27th June 2008 elections as Free and Fair when compared to other countries in Africa and the World over.

In conclusion we also wish to bring to the attention of the ZEC chairperson that the sitting Government of Zimbabwe is a revolutionary Government and the Western countries and their puppet. Government in Africa should not use elections as a means of protecting their interests in Zimbabwe and continue of exploit Zimbabwe and as is the case of illegal sanctions imposed by Britain and its allies, which have caused unfortold suffering as at this point in time in Zimbabwe.

THE PRELIMINARY REPORT OF THE PRESIDENTIAL RUN-OFF OF JUNE 2 –JULY 10, 2008 BY ZNASMEs OBSERVER TEAM

A. THE PRE-ELECTION PERIOD

1. PARTY POLITICAL COMPAIGNS

Since the announcement of the Presidential Election run-off on June 2, 2008, the two parties into the race were campaigning with mixed approaches. While ZANU PF was campaigning freely and using democratic approaches like holding of rallies, displaying campaigning materials like pamphlets, banners etc MDC was using violence on ZANU PF supporters as a way of campaigning in addition to fliers, pamphlets, banners etc. However, some of the advertisement by MDC was not flighted by ZBH because of their inappropriateness on tone, language and information.

The democratic approach used by ZANU PF saw the party gaining a lot of political ground with a large number of former MDC supporters joining ZANU PF which ultimately led the MDC candidate to withdraw from the race.

2. THE ROLE OF THE PRINT AND ELECTRONIC MEDIA

Throughout the period the two parties were free to use both the print and electronic media. Reports on political rallies were aired on radio and television and in the press. The two candidates were given space on both print and electronic media through interviews by journalists. However, in most cases the MDC candidate was not willing to participate

3. POLITICAL VIOLENCE

Since the announcement of the presidential run off Zimbabwe has experienced unprecedented cases of political violence in most rural areas where ZANU PF has strong support. These politically motivated cases of violence were perpetrated by MDC and only a few cases were reported of ZANU PF retaliating on what MDC was doing. Most of the reported cases of MDC politically motivated violence were in provinces like Mashonaland Central, Manicaland, Mashonaland West and some parts of Masvingo. In fact all provinces experienced some cases of political violence but at the moment most of the areas are now peacefully and geared for the election. Country wide the MDC initiated the violence, has more cases of violence reported to the police, has more people apprehended by the police while ZANU PF was forced to retaliate, has few cases of violence reported and less people apprehended by police for political violence.

4. ZEC VOTER EDUCATION AND PREPAREDNESS.

ZEC officials in all areas of Zimbabwe held voter education sessions at ward level to the extend that all voters are aware of what is required when going for voting.

In addition all logistics for the election, polling stations are already in place as well as the ballot boxes including the polling officers and agents, the provision of the necessary transportation for the ballot boxes and other items required for voting.

5. INTERNATIONAL MEDIA

Journalists from friendly international countries are in the country to observe the election. These journalists are moving freely in the country interviewing officials from both parties and from visiting all areas to assess the situation. Most international media campaigns for MDC and not ZANU PF which depends entirely on local media

6. ROLE OF THE ZRP

The Zimbabwean government after seeing an ever increasing cases of politics violence especially after the announcement of the presidential elections results of March 29, 2008 deployed ZRP personnel in all areas and has so far done a splendid job and very professional in carrying out their role in ensuring law and order, peace and tranquility in the whole country. Because of their effectiveness in apprehending MDC hooligans Zimbabwe is now experiencing peace and ready for the presidential elections of June 27, 2008 in the presidential run off.

B. THE ELECTION ITSELF

1.BEFORE THE ELECTION

On the Election Day June 27, 2008 people started queuing outside the polling stations as early as 5.00am in the morning indicating their willingness to participate in the election despite the distribution of pamphlets by the MDC advising people not to go the election. The people were walking freely and on their on without any influence from the two contesting parties. They were not wearing party regalia as well as not singing party songs or shouting of party slogans as required by the electoral law. Reports from all corners of Zimbabwe clearly indicated that the atmosphere at each polling station was peaceful and conducive for a free and peaceful election but not fair as most people came to the polling stations with empty stomachs because of the illegal sanctions imposed by the west.

2. THE POLLING ITSELF

Reports from our observers country wide clearly indicated that ZEC officials at the polling stations ensured that voters followed all the laid down requirements of our electoral process and was confirmed by our members:

- the checking of the voter's identity
- the checking of voter's hands for the presence of visible inedible ink to ensure that they have not voted more than once
- the confirmation that the voter's name is in the voters roll and the issuing to such voter of only one ballot paper
- The confirmation that the name of the voter is cancelled in the voters roll by putting a line across.
- That the voter dips his or her left small finger in the visible inedible ink for voting purposes.
- That those without proper identity or have their names not appearing in the voters roll are assisted and recorded.

The polling started at seven o'clock in the morning and closed at seven o'clock in the evening at all stations as so far recorded from reports received. The collating, verification and counting immediately commenced with all polling agents and some observers present. No reports of any misunderstanding or disagreements on the process were received. According to reports received MDC polling agents or officers were not present. After counting and agreement by all present the results were posted at each polling station for all to see and witness the outcome of their voting

C. CONCLUSION AND COMMENTS FROM THE TEAM

Reports from the team's observers clearly indicate that the election was carried out under a very peaceful and free atmosphere despite the perpetration of violence by the MDC soon after the announcement of the March 29, 2008 Presidential election results which left a number of ZANU PF supporters killed injured and their property destroyed in most parts of the country. Reports from those areas also confirmed that because of professional and effective role of the police the election was carried out under a peaceful and free environment. However, the election was not fair because of the prevailing illegal economic sanctions called for by the MDC which is negatively impacting on the lives of the generality of Zimbabweans. The sanctions are mend to effect regime change in Zimbabwe through people voting against the ruling party, ZANU PF.

Reports from our observers country wide clearly show that the elections were carried out under peaceful and free atmosphere conducive for democratically conducted elections. Therefore, the Zimbabwe National Association of Small and Medium Enterprises (ZNASMEs) hereby declare that the election was free and peaceful but not fair because of the reasons given above, the results which should be acceptable to both parties - Z ANU PF and MDC-, interested organizations, institutions and individuals.

A detailed report for the Presidential run off and bye elections for the period June 2-July 10, 2008 will be submitted within the next two week.

THE ACP ELECTION OBSERVER MISSION IN ZIMBABWE

At the invitation of the Government of the Republic of Zimbabwe, the Committee of Ambassadors of the African, Caribbean and Pacific (ACP) Group of States, during its 803rd Meeting held in Brussels, Belgium, on 28 February 2008, decided to mandate an ACP Election Observer Mission to observe, on behalf of the ACP Group, the Harmonized Presidential, Parliamentary and Local Elections to be held in Zimbabwe on 29 March 2008.

This decision is in line with the support and solidarity that the ACP Group has always shown to the Government and people of Zimbabwe particularly in the context of the difficult cooperation relationship between Zimbabwe and the European Union (EU) in the framework of the ACP-EU Cotonou Partnership Agreement.

It will be recalled that since February 2002 and as a result of the consultations held between the European Union and the Republic of Zimbabwe in the framework of Article 96 of the Cotonou Agreement, the EU has been applying restrictive measures in its cooperation with Zimbabwe on grounds relating to "political violence, free and fair elections, protection of the freedom of the media, independence of the judiciary and illegal occupation of properties". These restrictive measures resulted inter alia in a limited access of Zimbabwe to funding from the 9th European Development Fund (EDF).

The ACP Election Observer Mission, led by H. E. Mr. Hanno B. RUMPF, Ambassador of the Republic of Namibia in Brussels and comprising also H. E. Mr. Toko Diakenga SERÃO, Ambassador of the Republic of Angola, and Mr. Mahamane Aoudou CISSÉ, from the ACP Secretariat, arrived in Harare on Wednesday 26 March 2008.

The Election Observation Mission is part of a wider effort of the ACP Group to contribute to the resumption of full cooperation between the Republic of Zimbabwe and the European Union and to the full participation of Zimbabwe to the programming exercise of the 10th EDF for the benefit of the Zimbabwean people.

The Mission will start its work on Thursday 27 March. The main objective of the Mission is to observe the voting process with particular reference to compliance with technical procedures established to safeguard the integrity of the electoral process. To this end, the Observer Mission will focus its attention on specific issues assessed essential in maintaining overall freedom and fairness of the voting process and the environment.

The Mission intends to first consult with the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC) and from there to make contacts with as many concerned parties as possible, including government officials, political parties, civil society actors and other election observer missions, as well as some diplomatic missions and embassies. The ACP Election Observation Mission will visit a number of polling stations, both in Harare and in the rural areas on polling day.

ANNEXES: 1. Elections observation checklist

2. Press release on arrival

3. Press release on departure

I. CONTEXT

1. At its 803rd meeting held on 28 February 2008, the Committee of Ambassadors exchanged views on a letter received from Mr. Simbarashe S. MUMBENGEGWI, Foreign Minister of Zimbabwe, inviting the ACP Group to come and observe the harmonised presidential, legislative, senatorial and municipal elections scheduled for 29 March 2008.

2. The Committee of Ambassadors decided to honour the invitation and instructed its Chairman, H.E. Mr. Mohamed MOUSSA CHEHEM, Ambassador of Djibouti, to set up an election observer mission, define its terms of reference and organise the observer mission in liaison with the Secretariat.

3. The Committee of Ambassadors' decision was taken in the spirit of the ACP Group's solidarity with its Member States, and in the framework of promoting intra-ACP political dialogue.

4. The ACP Election Observer Mission to Zimbabwe (ACP-EOMZ) was made of the following members:

   - H.E. Mr. Hanno Burkhard RUMPF, Ambassador of Namibia, Head of Delegation;
   - H.E. Mr. Toko Diakenga SERÃO, Ambassador of Angola; and
   - Mr. Mahamane Aoudou CISSÉ, Expert, ACP Secretariat.

5. This report covers the period from 27 to 31 March 2008.

II. MANDATE AND OBJECTIVE

6. The mandate of the ACP-EOMZ was to observe the electoral process in Zimbabwe and provide the Committee of Ambassadors with an objective assessment of the credibility of the elections based on criteria relating to transparent, free and democratic elections, the correct application of the electoral law, compliance with the technical procedures and taking account of the basic democratic principles. The observation exercise should also include an assessment of the general atmosphere before, during and after the elections.

7. The ultimate aim of the Mission was, on the one hand, to consolidate the framework of intra-ACP political dialogue, and on the other, contribute to helping Zimbabwe re-establish its rightful place in the concert of nations, especially through the resumption of full cooperation with the European Union, the ACP Group's main partner.

III. PREPARATION AND METHODOLOGY

8. The Mission began with two meetings with the Embassy of Zimbabwe in Brussels on 17 and 25 March 2008. The aim of these meetings was to finalise the practical arrangements for the trip: issuance of visas, organization of a team to receive the delegation upon its arrival in Harare, the necessary logistics for the mission, and the return trip at the end of the exercise.

9. Upon its arrival in Harare, the ACP-EOMZ established its work programme which included the following: visit to the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC), meeting with the media, representatives of the government, political parties and civil society, embassies and diplomatic missions, other election observer missions, location of various polling stations in and around Harare, observation of the actual voting process, and assessment of the immediate post-electoral situation.

10. The ACP-EOMZ also agreed to observe the voting process on the polling day using the observation checklist attached hereto in Annex 1.

IV. ACP-EOMZ ACTIVITIES

11. In the days leading up to the elections, the ACP-EOMZ conducted the following activities:

a) Accreditation

12. On 27 March 2008, the Mission went the Central Bureau of Accreditation to register and to obtain the election observation kit comprising a badge, a t-shirt and an observer cap. The Mission availed itself of the occasion to briefly exchange views with the Head of the Bureau, who was also one of the deputies of the Chairman of the ZEC.

b) Contact with the media

13. The ACP-EOMZ then issued a press release to announce its arrival in Harare and the aim of its visit (see Annex 2).

c) Meetings with various actors

14. The first political actor that the ACP mission met was Dr. Nathan N. SHAMUYARIRA, Secretary for Information and Publicity of the Zimbabwe African National Union – Patriotic Front (ZANU-PF), the ruling party, who highlighted the transparency of the electoral process and the free access to the media for all the political parties. He also emphasized the hostile attitude of some western countries, especially the United Kingdom and the United States, which, through the sanctions imposed against Zimbabwe, have seriously hindered the actions of the Zimbabwe Government. He pointed out that despite that hostility, Zimbabwe has remained a peaceful country, without famine or conflict. Dr SHAMUYARIRA was pleased with the presence of observers such as SADC and the ACP Group which could testify to the peaceful and democratic electoral process.

15. The ACP Mission also met with Mr. Gabriel CHAIBVA, spokesperson for the Mutambara faction of the Movement for Democratic Change (MDC). Mr. Chaibva, for his part, vehemently denounced the impartiality of the media, both private and public, as regards coverage of the facts and events relating to the elections, and the disparity in the air time granted to the various candidates, which in his view was in favour of the existing powers.

16. Mr. Chaibva also denounced the manner in which the electoral registers were established. On the other hand, he acknowledged that the electoral process was taking place in a peaceful atmosphere. It must be pointed out that the Mutambara faction of the MDC supported Mr. Simba MAKONI, an independent candidate in the presidential elections, but also contested the parliamentary and local government elections.

17. The ACP Election Observer Mission attended the last meeting of Mr. Simba MAKONI, former Minister of Finance and an independent candidate who was contesting for the presidential elections. Mr. MAKONI essentially outlined his vision for society should he win the elections. The ACP Mission also met with Dr. Ibbo MANDAZA, Mr. MAKONI's spokesman, who severely criticised the manner in which the electoral registers were prepared, and the counting of the ballots, stressing that the thousands of ghost voters could well falsify the results in favour of the ZANU-PF.

18. Despite of the contacts made, the ACP Mission was unable to meet any representative of the MDC faction led by the main opposition leader and candidate in the presidential elections, Mr. Morgan TSVANGIRAI, or Mr. Langton TOUNGANA, another independent candidate in the presidential elections. Indeed, on the eve of the elections, all the officials were quite busy with last- minute preparations.

19. The ACP Mission attended the coordination meeting of the various observer teams, chaired by the Head of the AU election observer team, Dr. Ahmad Tejan KABBAH, former President of Sierra Leone. A team of SADC observers, led by Mr. Jose Marcos BARRICA, Minister of Youth and Sports of Angola, and a team of observers from the Pan-African Parliament, led by Mr. Marwick KHUMALO, also attended the meeting.

20. Like the other team leaders, the Head of the ACP-EOMZ, Ambassador RUMPF, briefly stated the objective of the ACP Mission, and the methodology it intended to apply to ensure that the observation of the current electoral process was carried out as objectively as possible. All the participants were of the opinion that the electoral process had so far been peaceful and remarkable as far as freedom of speech was concerned, given the various contradictory viewpoints expressed in the audio-visual and written press. They agreed to work together throughout the election period and, if possible, collate their observations and exchange reports subsequently.

d) Pre- election observation

21. On the eve of the elections, the ACP Mission travelled to several provinces including Harare, to locate and visit the various polling stations. The aim of this exercise was to assess the technical preparedness of the polling centres and to speak with the election agents. The observation bore on the internal arrangement in the polling stations, their accessibility, especially to persons with reduced mobility, the availability of election materials (polling booths, ballot boxes, indelible ink, ballot papers and electoral lists) as well as the security at the polling centres.

22. All the polling stations visited were in order as far as accessibility, space and security are concerned. The requisite election materials were generally available, with the exception of ballot papers and the electoral registers which, for reasons of security, we were told, would be brought to the polling stations at the last minute.

23. The atmosphere in the towns and villages visited as well as the surroundings of the polling stations was normal with no apparent sign of tension.

24. On the basis of the observation made on the eve of the polling day, the accounts received and after cross-checking the observations made with all the other observer missions, the ACP-EOMZ can say that the prevailing atmosphere in Zimbabwe on the eve of the elections was remarkably calm and peaceful and that everything was ready and in order for the elections.

e) Observation of the elections

25. On the polling day, ACP-EOMZ travelled to four provinces – Harare, Mashonaland West, Mashonaland Central and Mashonaland East – and followed the voting process in the following 8 polling stations:

| Polling station | Constituency | Province |
|---|---|---|
| Shawasha Hostels Tent B | Mbare | Harare |
| Lord Malvern High School B | Hatfield | Harare |
| Govans | Norton | Mashonaland West |
| Primary School | Norton | Mashonaland West |
| AFM Corner Mukwa | Norton | Mashonaland West |
| Henderson Research Station | Mazowe | Mashonaland Central |
| Mazowe Veterinary College | Mazowe | Mashonaland Central |
| Chiremba Primary School n°2 | Goromonzi | Mashonaland East |

26. The ACP-EOMZ focussed in particular on the Shawasha Hostels Tent B polling station in Mbare. It arrived there at 6:30 to observe the sealing of the four ballot boxes for the four elections and the opening of the polls at 7:00. It observed the voting process for a part of the morning, from the time the voter entered to the time he/she left.

27. The ACP-EOMZ then went to each of the other seven above-listed polling stations in turn, in order to observe and assess the following elements:

- arrangement and accessibility of premises;
- presence of all the election material, in particular ballot paper and electoral lists;
- presence of party representatives or candidates;
- competence of polling station personnel;
- waiting time and voting time;
- voting procedure;
- stamping of ballots;
- secrecy of voting;
- voter identification procedures and checks to ensure he/she had not already voted);
- presence of law enforcement officers;
- assistance to voters, in particular those who could not read; etc.

28. The ACP-EOMZ also made a point of talking with the returning officers, election agents, and voters as they left the stations, to check whether everything had been conducted properly. The same method was applied at all the stations visited.

29. At the end of the day, the ACP EOMZ returned to the Shawasha Hostels Tent B polling station to observe the closing of the polls at the set time (19:00), and the counting of the votes.

Observations and notes

30. Order and calm reigned in all the polling stations that the ACP-EOMZ visited, as well as in the buildings surrounding the polling stations. At no time were the queues too long, and priority was given to the elderly, pregnant women, and people with reduced mobility. No incidents which might impede the elections were observed.. The election agents seem to have been well-trained beforehand and demonstrated sufficient competence to deal with the voting process.

31. Security at the polling stations was ensured by uniformed police officers. Their presence was very discreet and did not seem to bother the voters. At least two party representatives or candidates were present at each polling station, without any altercation or dispute. In some cases, the voters were unable to exercise their right to vote either because their names were not on the electoral list of the polling station, or they did not have the required identification documents. Nonetheless, such cases were relatively few in number and did not at any time lead to incidents. Only once did a voter express doubts as to the reliability of the electoral lists.

32. At the Shawasha Hostels Tent B polling station in the constituency of Mbare, the counting of the votes was conducted in a remarkably professional manner under the supervision of a conscientious, meticulous and obviously impartial returning officer. The people in charge of counting the ballots seemed to be well trained and applied all procedures dealing with the reconciliation of ballot papers and the number of people who had voted as well as the counting of ballots and the joint determination of spoiled ballot papers. This methodology was approved by the various parties who observed this process. The results of the four elections were then posted at the entrance of the polling station. The next day, the ACP EOMZ was able to verify that the results still posted were consistent with those obtained the previous day.

33. The operations observed in all the polling stations were free from any irregularity or malicious manipulation. The ACP-EOMZ did not hear any particular complaint from the voters, nor did it note any intimidation attempt by anyone.

34. The ACP-EOMZ released a press release before leaving Harare (see Annex 3).

V. CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

35. The ACP Election Observer Mission to Zimbabwe was in Harare, Zimbabwe, from 26 to 31 March 2008 to observe the general elections held in that country on 29 March 2008. It was therefore a short mission, limited not only with regard to time–two days before and two days after the polls–, but also space, for the delegation was unable to cover the entire country. As such the ACP EOMZ does not claim to have carried out a comprehensive observation of the electoral process, as it did not, for example, observe the election campaign, nor the process for establishing the voters' lists.

36. The ACP-EOMZ also regrets that it was unable to observe the population's reaction to the outcome of the elections, since it left Zimbabwe prior to the publication of the results. In that respect, Ambassador RUMPF requested and was able to meet with the Chairman of the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC), Mr. George CHIWESHE, to enquire about the situation and express his opinion with regard to the risks relating to a lengthy delay in publishing the results of the elections.

37. Nonetheless, based on its observations as well as testimonies from other election observers (SADC, AU, Pan-African Parliament, COMESA and diplomats on-site), The ACP-EOMZ is of the opinion that the harmonised elections (presidential, legislative, senatorial and municipal) held in Zimbabwe on 29 March 2008 were conducted under free and democratic conditions. Without prejudice to the final results of the elections, the ACP-EOMZ is pleased with the peaceful and orderly manner in which the exercise of that fundamental right was carried out by the citizens of Zimbabwe, and hopes that social and political peace will be maintained an a sustainable manner so as to promote economic development and growth in the country.

38. Although the ACP-EMOZ considers the March 2008 electoral process in Zimbabwe satisfactory, it would nonetheless like to make a few recommendations that might contribute to further improving future electoral processes. The equipment in some of the polling stations needs to be updated, and in the absence of electricity, the counting of the ballots could be carried out with the help of candlelight or storm lamps.

39. The process relating to population census, and registering voters on the electoral lists should be improved. Finally, the delay for publishing the election results should be shorter so as not to fuel conjecture and doubt, and thereby avoid any suspicion of manipulation.

40. The ACP-EOMZ recommends that the Committee of Ambassadors send a letter of acknowledgement and encouragement to the Government of Zimbabwe, together with a copy of this report, as well as a congratulatory message to all the candidates elected in the different elections.

41. With regard to future election observation missions, the ACP-EOMZ recommends as follows:

- The observation mission should stay at least one week in the country concerned: four days before and two days after the elections, so as to be able to meet as many stakeholders possible, and to conduct debriefing sessions with other observation teams following the elections;

- The mission should be made up of enough people to be divided on-site into two teams, each comprising two ambassadors and an Officer from the ACP Secretariat. That would enable observation of the process over a larger area of the country concerned.

- The two Officers from the ACP Secretariat should arrive in the country concerned two days prior to the commencement of the mission, in order to set up the logistics, identify locations and organise the work of the mission;

- An ACP election observer kit should be developed, including an outfit (e.g. vest and cap) bearing the ACP logo and all necessary documentation; and

- Upon deciding to dispatch an election observation mission, the Committee of Ambassadors should plan for the possibility of a second round of elections in the country concerned. The size and duration of the observation mission to the second round may be reduced.

VI. ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

42. The ACP-EOMZ would like to thank H.E. Ambassador Gift PUNUNGWE and Staff of the Embassy of the Republic of Zimbabwe for their kind assistance with the physical organisation of the delegates' trip (visas and logistics in Harare).

43. It would also like to thank the Zimbabwean authorities for facilitating its accreditation and travel within the country. The EOMZ thanks in particular Mr. Mr. Robson MUCHINI, Protocol Officer of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Zimbabwe, who spared no effort to make the ACP delegation's stay as useful and productive as possible.

44. Ambassador RUMPF and Ambassador SERAO, also express their thanks to the ACP Secretariat, particularly with respect to the professional and efficient support that was provided at all time, before, during and after the mission by M. Mahamane Aoudou CISSE, whose contribution to the success of the Mission was invaluable.

THE ACP ELECTION OBSERVER MISSION IN ZIMBABWE

At the invitation of the Government of the Republic of Zimbabwe, the Committee of Ambassadors of the African, Caribbean and Pacific (ACP) Group of States, during its 803rd Meeting held in Brussels, Belgium, on 28 February 2008, decided to mandate an ACP Election Observer Mission to observe, on behalf of the ACP Group, the Harmonized Presidential, Parliamentary and Local Elections to be held in Zimbabwe on 29 March 2008.

This decision is in line with the support and solidarity that the ACP Group has always shown to the Government and people of Zimbabwe particularly in the context of the difficult cooperation relationship between Zimbabwe and the European Union (EU) in the framework of the ACP-EU Cotonou Partnership Agreement.

It will be recalled that since February 2002 and as a result of the consultations held between the European Union and the Republic of Zimbabwe in the framework of Article 96 of the Cotonou Agreement, the EU has been applying restrictive measures in its cooperation with Zimbabwe on grounds relating to "political violence, free and fair elections, protection of the freedom of the media, independence of the judiciary and illegal occupation of properties". These restrictive measures resulted inter alia in a limited access of Zimbabwe to funding from the 9th European Development Fund (EDF).

The ACP Election Observer Mission, led by H. E. Mr. Hanno B. RUMPF, Ambassador of the Republic of Namibia in Brussels and comprising also H. E. Mr. Toko Diakenga SERÃO, Ambassador of the Republic of Angola, and Mr. Mahamane Aoudou CISSÉ, from the ACP Secretariat, arrived in Harare on Wednesday 26 March 2008.

The Election Observation Mission is part of a wider effort of the ACP Group to contribute to the resumption of full cooperation between the Republic of Zimbabwe and the European Union and to the full participation of Zimbabwe to the programming exercise of the 10th EDF for the benefit of the Zimbabwean people.

The Mission will start its work on Thursday 27 March. The main objective of the Mission is to observe the voting process with particular reference to compliance with technical procedures established to safeguard the integrity of the electoral process. To this end, the Observer Mission will focus its attention on specific issues assessed essential in maintaining overall freedom and fairness of the voting process and the environment.

The Mission intends to first consult with the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC) and from there to make contacts with as many concerned parties as possible, including government officials, political parties, civil society actors and other election observer missions, as well as some diplomatic missions and embassies. The ACP Election Observation Mission will visit a number of polling stations, both in Harare and in the rural areas on polling day.

PRESS RELEASE

ACP ELECTION OBSERVER MISSION IN ZIMBABWE

At the invitation of the Republic of Zimbabwe, an Election Observer Mission of the African, Caribbean and Pacific (ACP) Group of States set up in Harare from 26 to 31 March 2008 with a view to observing the Harmonised Presidential, Parliamentary and Council Elections held in Zimbabwe on Saturday 29 March 2008.

The ACP Election Observer Mission comprised H. E. Mr. Hanno B. RUMPF, Ambassador of the Republic of Namibia in Brussels, as the Team Leader, H. E. Mr. Toko Diakenga SERÃO, Ambassador of the Republic of Angola, and Mr. Mahamane Aoudou CISSÉ, from the ACP Secretariat. Its main objective was to observe the voting process as well as the counting of ballots and the attendant reconciliation of votes cast and unused ballot papers.

The Mission's pre-electoral observation activities included inter alia briefing and discussions with the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC), political party leaders and other accredited international and regional observer missions. The Mission also visited several polling stations in Harare and in rural areas with a view to assessing the state of technical preparedness of the polling centres a few hours ahead of the opening of polling stations.

On polling day, the ACP Observer Mission travelled to four provinces and followed the voting process at various polling stations in different constituencies. In particular, the Mission attended the opening and closing of the poll as well as the counting of ballots in one polling station in the constituency of Mbare.

At all polling stations visited, the ACP Mission observed that polling material and facilities were in order and that the procedures were correctly followed in terms of closure, sealing and layout of ballot boxes, guiding of voters, stamping of ballot papers, secrecy of the ballot, etc. In all cases, agents of at least two of the contesting parties were present. The voting operations were conducted in an orderly manner at all 8 polling stations where voting was observed.

In a few cases, voters could not cast their votes either because their names were not found on the voting roll of the particular polling station or because they did not hold the proper identification papers. However, this only occurred in very few cases. The ACP Observer Mission observed no malpractice or irregularity at any of the stations visited.

The ACP Election Observer Mission was particularly impressed by the calm and peaceful atmosphere that prevailed before, during and immediately after polling day.

From what it observed, the Mission views the conduct of the voting process as orderly, transparent, democratic and fair.

The ACP Election Observer Mission wishes all the best to the people of Zimbabwe.

REPORT OF THE ALGERIAN DELEGATION ON AN OBSERVATION MISSION OF THE HARMONISED ELECTIONS -PRESIDENTIAL, LEGISLATIVE, SENATORIAL AND LOCAL- OF THE 29TH MARCH 2008 IN ZIMBABWE.

The present report is addressed to the kind attention of Honorable Justice George Mutandwa Chiweshe, Chairperson of the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission. It contains remarks and observations which were noted, by the Algerian Delegation which I was honoured to lead, in the framework of an observation mission of the Presidential, Legislative, senatorial and local elections organized on Saturday 29th March in Zimbabwe, following the official invitation extended by the Zimbabwean Government to the Algerian Government.

On its observation mission, the Algerian delegation visited several polling centres around Harare City, Chitungwiza and Norton Towns where it witnessed various stages of the voting exercise: start of polling, progress, close and counting of votes. The delegation had also contacts with members of other observation missions, notably, Panafricain Parliament, SADC and COMESA.

1. GENERAL OBSERVATIONS

- Elections took place in a peaceful and serene atmosphere and good conditions of material organisation ;
- Elections took place, in general, in a manner that was regular, fair and transparent ;
- The voting exercise was carried out with a good voter turn up at the level of the polling stations visited ;
- Necessary materials and arrangements were in place at the polling centres, which gave rise to a normal progress of elections ;
- The voting was free and took place in a calm and disciplined way without any notorious incident being noticed ;
- The voting procedures and the mechanism provided for by the electoral law were adhered to within the Polling Stations ;
- Not a single irregularity was noted all along the voting exercise ;
- The opening and closing hours of the voting exercise, fixed from 07:00 am to 07:00 pm, were observed ;
- The equipment and necessary voting materials were already in place at the time of opening of the polling stations visited ;

- Each member of the polling station (Chairman and assessors) were easily identifiable by their badges and were already in their positions; so was the case with party representatives; there was not a single unauthorised person within the polling station ;
- The personnel in charge of the polling stations were diligently and appropriately executing the tasks assigned to them, demonstrating experience and readiness going as far as explaining to the voters who had difficulties in exercising their duty ;
- On the side of the voters, who turned out in large numbers, a high level of civic education was noted as well as their consciousness in as far as the major stake assumed by these elections is concerned ;
- Voters did not face difficulties in exercising their electoral duty ;
- There were cases of voters whose names did not appear on the voter's register who were not allowed to vote, and this was in conformity with the electoral law ;
- No interference or influence peddling was noted in the relation between the voters and the polling officials and so is the case with the candidates' representatives ;
- The voters were not subjected to any threats or intimidation;
- Security was tight at the polling stations and the police constables posted there in no way did they interfere in the smooth running of the voting exercise ;
- The counting of the ballots started immediately upon closure of the voting exercise; It was carried out in thorough transparency.

2. PARTICULAR OBSERVATIONS

- In all the polling stations visited, the delegation of observers witnessed an orderly and responsible voting process, during which the official polling agents and the representatives of the candidates, on one hand, and the voters, on the other hand, accomplished their duty in a civic and responsible manner ;
- We were able to note great mobilisation of voters and very often long queues were seen in front of the accesses to polling stations; therefore the participation rate recorded in the late morning, was already remarkable ;
- According to several voters, polling officials and candidates' representatives, the good participation rate is ascribable to the good sensitisation of the people during the electoral campaign ;
- It was as well noted that the electorate comprised of a sizeable number of youths and women which denoted their motivation towards the importance of these elections to the future of their country ;
- The delegation had to attend the counting exercise standing until the end; It started right after the closure of the voting and was led by the head of the polling station assisted by his collaborators, in the presence of the candidates' representatives, other international observers as well as the public that turned out in large numbers, in an atmosphere marked with mutual respect seriousness and conviviality.

In conclusion, I wish, on behalf of the Algerian delegation which took part in the observation of the presidential, legislative and local elections in Zimbabwe, both those who came from Algiers and from the Algerian Embassy in Harare headed by His Excellency the Ambassador, Mr Ali Mokrani, to congratulate the people and the Government of Zimbabwe as well as the Electoral Commission for the successful organization of these elections which, according to several observers, were regular, fair, transparent and peaceful.

We take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks to the Zimbabwean Government for the invitation extended to the Algerian Government to allow the achievement of this observation mission, this initiative is in line with the friendly, solidarity and cooperation relations which linked the two brotherly countries.

As a good rule, need we remind that an objective evaluation ought to take into account the positive developments that came up in Zimbabwe and the difficulties it also continues to meet. This 29th March was a landmark date in the history of Zimbabwe. We are convinced that this success does not only foster the entrenchment of the rule of law in Zimbabwe, but also the consolidation of pluralistic democracy and good governance in Southern Africa in particular and in Africa as a whole.

The support staff arrived in Harare on 20 March 2008, and set up its Office and Meeting Room, 114, First Floor, and 702, Seventh Floor at Holiday Inn Hotel, Harare. The Observer Mission arrived in Harare between the 23rd and 26th of March 2008

2.0 OBJECTIVE AND MANDATE OF THE MISSION

2.1 In line with the African Union Guidelines for Elections Observation and Monitoring missions, the mandate of the Observation Mission was to make an honest, independent, impartial and objective observation and assessment of the general environment and the organization and conduct of the elections.

2.2 More specifically, the group was expected to:

- consider all the factors that might impinge on the credibility of the electoral process as a whole
- determine in its own judgment whether conditions existed for the voters to express their will freely
- determine whether the results of the elections reflected the choices of the people

2.3 As requested, the Mission would submit a report to the AU Commission, which would then forward it to the Government of Zimbabwe. In the report, the Mission would propose actions on institutional and procedural matters that might improve the holding of subsequent elections.

3.0 COUNTRY PROFILE

Zimbabwe is a landlocked country situated in South Central Africa between the Zambezi and Limpopo rivers. It is bounded to the North and Northwest by Zambia, to the South by South Africa, to the East and Northeast by Mozambique and to the Southwest by Botswana. Zimbabwe is part of the great plateau, a major feature of the geography of the Southern African Region. Zimbabwe's total land area is 350.580 Sq Kms. Administratively, Zimbabwe is divided into 10 provinces as follows:Harare Metropolitan Mashonaland West, Mashonaland Central, Mashonaland East, Manicaland, Masvingo, Matebeleland South, Matebeleland North, Midlands, and Bulawayo Metropolitan.

3.1.1 According to the 2007 census, Zimbabwe has a population of 12,311,143 which represents a growth rate of 0.6% as compared with the 10.400.000 estimate of 1992.

3.1.2 Shona and Ndebele are the two major indigenous languages, while English is the official language.

3.1.3 Ethnicity/race: African 98% (Shona 82%, Ndebele 14%, others 2%), mixed and Asian 1%, white less than 1%.

3.1.4 There are two main religions in Zimbabwe: Syncretic (part Christian, part indigenous beliefs) 50%, Christian 25%, Indigenous beliefs 24%, Muslim and others 1%.

3.1.5 The literacy rate is 91% (2003 est.).

4.0 BACKGROUND

4.1 History

The history of Zimbabwe has evolved over the centuries from the foundations of a great African civilization with an encounter with European civilization. Following the mid-19th century turmoil in Transvaal and Natal, the Rozwi Empire came to an end. A treaty was signed with the British South Africa Company in 1888 allowing them to mine gold in the kingdom, now under Ndebele rule. There was a clear portrayal of the conflict between black and white after the referendum of 1922 in which the Whites opted to become a self-governing colony rather than become part of the Union of South Africa. This effectively excluded most blacks from the vote, despite the colony's theoretically non-racial constitution.

4.1.1 In 1930 a land act was passed which excluded Africans from ownership of the best farming land further enhancing white supremacy. A labour law, enacted in 1934, prohibited the Africans from entering skilled trades and professions. As a result of these actions, Africans were forced to work for subsistence wages on white farms, mines and factories. Thus, the gradual radicalization of the African labour force occurred due to terribly poor wages and conditions. By 1953, the mining and industrial concerns were in favour of a more racially mixed middle class as a balance to the radical elements in the labour force. Also in 1953 a federation of Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesian (now Zambia) and Nyasaland (now Malawi) was formed. The federation was dominated by Southern Rhodesia (now Zimbabwe). But it disintegrated in 1963 following the resistance from African nationalists.

4.2 Politics

The prolonged armed struggle by the nationalists against the racist minority of Southern Rhodesia, as it was then known, and its debilitating effects on the economy forced the white government to accept to dialogue. In order to participate in the proposed dialogue, the leadership of the armed struggle formed political wings which latter transformed into political parties. At the forefront of this move was the Zimbabwe African People's Union (ZAPU), mostly Ndebele, led by Joshua Nkomo. It was shortly joined by the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU), mostly SHONA, a break-away group under Ndabaningi Sithole. After the collapse of the federation in 1963, both ZAPU and ZANU were banned and the majority of their leaders imprisoned. At the same time, as a response to Britain's refusal to grant independence to Southern Rhodesia, Ian Smith, the Prime Minister, called for a unilateral declaration of independence (UDI).

4.2.1 In the May 1965 all white elections, Smith's party won all 50 parliamentary seats, and in December, that year UDI was declared. Britain declared Ian Smith's action illegal and imposed economic sanctions. In 1968 the UN voted to make the sanctions mandatory but they were largely ineffective because Western powers busted the sanctions. As a result Rhodesia's economy continues to grow. Both ZAPU and ZANU intensified campaigns of guerrilla warfare around 1966, and guerrilla raids led to an emigration of white from Rhodesia.

4.2.2 With Angola and Mozambique becoming independent in 1975, the power balance considerably altered within Rhodesia as it forced South Africa and the USA to rethink their attitudes in the region as they attempted to protect their economic and political interests. Attempts were made by both countries to pressurize Smith to accept the nationalists. With the support of Zambia, the nationalist groups were convinced to come together under the united front of Muzorewa's African National Congress. Subsequently, the imprisoned nationalist leaders were released.[1]

4.2.3 The "Lancaster House Agreement" was reached at a conference held in September 1979 at Lancaster House, London, between Britain and representative groups of Rhodesia, including the Rhodesian government under Ian Smith and Black Nationalist groups. The agreement terminated the UDI and led to a smooth transition to the independent state of Zimbabwe in 1980. The Lancaster Agreement among other things stipulated that a fund was to be established by the UK government to enable the transfer of white owned farms to black Africans through willing buyer and willing seller. In the same year, Ian Smith subsequently called for a non-racial election. Mugabe's ZANU party now renamed ZANU-PF won the election but the whites retained most of the guarantees that Smith wanted.

4.2.4 However, the bitter rivalry between ZAPU and ZANU continued, degenerating into guerilla activities between the two. Nkomo (ZAPU) left for England and did not return until Mugabe guaranteed his safety. Subsequent talks resulted in the unification of the two rival parties. In 1988 the law guaranteeing whites 20 seats in parliament was rescinded and in 1990/1991 the government declared that half of the land belonging to white farmers would be allocated to blacks.

4.2.5 In 1999 the Movement for Democratic Change (MDC) was formed and it became the main opposition Party. It broke away from ZANU-PF as a result of pressure from

[1] However, continuing talks failed to bring the two sides to an agreement, despite changes to the nationalist "line-up", now called the Patriotic Front, a union of ZANU and ZAPU. Ian Smith, in the face of an exodus of large numbers of whites, tried to make a deal with Sithole and Bishop Muzorewa whereby power would be handed over to them provided that certain guarantees were accorded to the whites: minimum of 28 seats in the 100 seat parliament; a veto over legislation for 10 years; white control of the army, air force, police, judiciary and civil service. It failed and the war intensified.

the working class due to massive unemployment, inflation etc. Subsequently, in 2000, the ZANU-PF launched the land reform program in favour of the majority of the population and veterans of Zimbabwe's war for independence, aimed at reversing the imbalance created by the British colonization that left one-third of Zimbabwe's arable land under the ownership of 4,000 whites.

4.2.6 The political upheaval in March 2007 resulted in the convening of the SADC extra-ordinary Summit which mandated President Mbeki of South Africa to carry out negotiations with the Zimbabwe government and all parities for peaceful settlement. The negotiations resulted in constitutional amendments that met some of the demands of the key political stakeholders, including the government and the political parties. While acknowledging the need for a new constitution, the parties, given limited time, agreed on Constitutional Amendment No. 18 which provided for the holding of harmonized elections on a single day. This Bill was jointly sponsored in Parliament by the Government and the opposition. In the same vein the two parties sponsored the Bills which amended the (a) Public Order Act, (b) Access to Information and Protection of Privacy Act and (c) Broadcasting Services Act. The passing of these Bills in the Parliament appeared to have reduced tensions between the government and opposition parties and the creation of better political environment for the harmonized elections.

Issues in Political Development

(a) Constitution: Zimbabwe currently operates with the constitution which has been in place since the attainment of independence in 1980. This has been amended over the years as deemed fit by the government and the opposition parties to address critical political issues to maintain political stability and development. While these constitutional amendments have been useful, the general feeling of most stakeholders in the country is that there should be a comprehensive constitutional conference to review the constitution. The outcome of the constitutional conference would be a new constitution that, inter alia, takes into account the unique character of the country with clear articulation of the division of power among the three arms of government and promote equitable development of Zimbabwe. There is need to have a new constitution which should be submitted to referendum in order to have sound political development.

(b) Land Reform: Land reform remains the most important political and economic issue in Zimbabwe today to which satisfactory solutions are yet to be found. With the retrieval of the land from those who had appropriated it, the challenge of the program is how to redistribute land equitably and in a manner that will enhance economic growth, productivity and sustainable development in Zimbabwe. The Lancaster House Agreement is the point of reference for land issue in Zimbabwe. There are concerns that one party to the agreement has not fulfilled its obligations as anticipated. However, the government has been actively addressing this matter, but it is doubtful if the programs embarked on are leading to desired set objectives.

4.3 ECONOMY

4.3.1 The Zimbabwean economy is currently experiencing enormous difficulties which pose serious challenges to the well-being of the people. The economy relies heavily on livestock, agricultural crops, such as maize, tobacco, cotton, and sugarcane, and on related manufacturing industries, such as textiles and sugar production. Mining, primarily of gold, is also a major activity. Other minerals include diamonds and platinum. The deterioration of the economy began in 1997 following the decision to implement the provisions of the new constitution regarding land reforms ,which resulted in the collapse of the agricultural sector. The deterioration of the economy was further exacerbated by the imposition of sanctions in 2002 in addition to the calculated denial of credit facilities to Zimbabwe by International Financial Institutions and diminished financial support from bilateral sources. In 2006 the real growth rate of the economy was -4 percent. Thus inflation rose from 300 percent in 2003 to over 100,000 percent in 2008. Unemployment has reached an unprecedented high level of 80 percent. According to the World Health Organization, Zimbabwe has the world's lowest life expectancy.

4.3.2 The country is now looking to the East for economic cooperation for development. Some countries in this region, in particular China and Russia have shown increasing support. But more substantial international economic cooperation and internal mobilization of resources are necessary to halt the decline and put the economy on the path of growth. Also, the promotion of sustainable economic growth and development would depend on the implementation of sound macro-economic policy.

Issues in Economic Development

(a) Hyper Inflation and Unemployment

The current astronomical level of inflation in the country has resulted in an unprecedented aggravation of poverty and created uncertainties in the prospects for economic growth and development. This has been compounded by high levels of unemployment and migration of Zimbabweans into other countries. The government has taken some measures in this regard nevertheless the persistence of these two problems indicates that more result-oriented macroeconomic policies would need to be articulated and implemented. There would be a need for sound fiscal and monetary policies to address revenue and currency circulation. Furthermore, there is need for better and stronger agricultural and industrial policies to rejuvenate the agricultural and industrial sectors as increases in output from both sectors are vital to the fight against the run away inflation and rising unemployment.

(b) International Co-operation

The sanctions imposed on the country have had more devastating effects on the economy rather than the targeted individuals. The sanctions have affected the industrial and agricultural sectors as it denied both sectors as it has denied additional new capital for the sustenance of production and expansion. It has also resulted in humanitarian crises of large proportions. These sanctions should be lifted immediately and unconditionally to allow the country have more access to multilateral and bilateral funds for economic growth and development. The lifting of sanctions is justified both on humanitarian ground and international law. The removal of sanctions is also desirable to enable Zimbabwe engage more fully in international trade and access to technology.

5.0 THE LEGISLATIVE FRAMEWORK

5.1 Constitution: Zimbabwe is a Presidential/Parliamentary democracy. The Constitution provides for a President who is the Head of State, and Head of Government and Commander-in-Chief of the Defense Forces. The President is elected by voters registered on the common voters roll, and holds office for a period of five years.

5.2 PRESIDENT

The President is the Head of State and Head of Government and Commander-in-Chief of the Defence Forces. The President takes precedence over all other persons in Zimbabwe. The term of office is 5 years concurrent with the life of Parliament.

5. 3 PARLIAMENT - Currently, the Parliament consists of two Houses,

5.3.1 THE SENATE consisting of 93 members, 60 of them elected by voters registered in the sixty senatorial constituencies, (6 for each one of the 10 provinces), 10 shall be provincial Governors, 2 shall be the President and Deputy President of the Council of Chiefs, 16 shall be chiefs, being two chiefs from each of the provinces, other than the metropolitan provinces and 5 shall be appointed by the President.

5.3.2 THE HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY consists of 210 members.

5.4 LOCAL COUNCIL

The Local Council has 1,958 Wards.

5.5 JUDICIARY – Judicial authority in Zimbabwe is vested in the Supreme Court and the High Court and subordinate Courts. The Chief Justice is the Head of the Judiciary. The Chief Justice and Judges of the Supreme Court are appointed by the President in consultation with the Judicial Service Commission.

5.6 THE OMBUDSMAN – The constitution provides for the office of Ombudsman, appointed by the President. The main function of the ombudsman is to investigate any action taken by any officer or authority in the exercise of administrative functions where it is alleged that an aggrieved party has suffered injustice as a result of the act of the authority/officer. This function is extended to include investigating alleged violations of human rights.

6.0 ELECTORAL INSTITUTIONAL FRAMEWORK

6.1 ZIMBABWE ELECTORAL COMMISSION

6.1.1 This is a constitutional body that is overall in charge of the organization and running of elections. It was set up under Article 61 of the electoral Act. The Chairperson, a Judge of the High Court or a person qualified to be appointed as such, is appointed by the President acting on the advice of the Judicial Service Commission. The other four Commissioners are appointed by the President from a list of seven names submitted by a multi-party parliamentary committee.

6.1.2 Zimbabwe's signing of the SADC Protocol and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections paved the way for the creation of the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission, which took over the electoral functions of the Registrar-General and the Electoral Directorate. Through its office of Registrar-General of Voters, the ZEC is responsible for the registration of voters and the custody of the voter's roll. Its other important functions are running elections and voter education and delimitation of constituencies.

6.5 CHANGES IN THE LAW

6.5.1 Following the signing of the SADC Protocol and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections, Zimbabwe has introduced the following changes in its Electoral Act:

- Electoral Court to expedite review of any complaints
- Regulations relating to political party access to the media
- Voting period reduced from two days to one day
- Counting of votes to be done at polling stations
- Use of visible indelible ink to mark voters
- Use of translucent ballot boxes

7.0 POLITICAL PARTIES

7.1 There are eleven registered political parties namely: ZANU-PF, MDC (Tsvangirai), MDC, UPP, ZDP, VP, PUMA, ZANU-Ndonga, ZCDP, FDV, ZPPDP; All of them contested seats for the House of Assembly.

7.2 Political Parties receive funding proportionate to the votes received in the last election.

8.0 PRE-ELECTION OBSERVATIONS

8.0.1 Pre-election observations were first carried out by the AU Pre-election Assessment Team from 6 to 12 March 2008. The Team concluded that the preparations towards harmonized elections in Zimbabwe were largely satisfactory in the context of the AU conditions for organizing credible, legitimate, free and fair elections as stipulated in the AU Durban Declaration of 2002 and taking into account the realities on the ground. These were further corroborated with the findings of the observers in their interactions with stakeholders from 26 to 27 March 2008 before their departure to the provinces. The Observer Mission had consultative meetings with the Chairman of the ZEC, SADC, COMESA and Pan-African Parliament Observer groups and senior officials of the main political parties.

8.0.2 These consultations culminated in further clarifications in the following key areas of the elections:

8.1 VOTER EDUCATION

8.1.1 The Chairman of ZEC confirmed that the Commission undertook country-wide voter education to ensure that voters fully understand the electoral process since this was a precondition for smooth voting on the elections day. The Commission had deployed four voter educators to each of the 1,958 wards. It was learnt that some Civil Society Organizations had been denied participation in this exercise. According to the ZEC Chairman, these CSOs did not abide by the relevant Zimbabwe laws.

8.2 VOTERS REGISTER

8.2.1 The Zimbabwe Electoral Commission is responsible for registration of voters and for custody of the voters roll. The Chairman of ZEC stated that the Commission completed voters registration in January 2008. The number of registered voters is 5,934,768. Voters' register was open for public verification until 28 March 2008.

8.3 THE MEDIA

8.3.1 The Observers noted that Government has made some efforts to ensure equitable and fair coverage of all political parties, and independent candidates. The access to the media was wider and fairer than in previous Elections. However, the general observation was that ZANU-PF had more news coverage both in depth and length than the other parties.

8.4 CAMPAIGNING

8.4.1 Political Parties campaigned vigorously throughout the country. The campaigns mostly took the form of rallies which attracted large crowds. There were no complaints of tearing down of campaign posters, nor of violent acts against competing parties. Campaigns were peaceful, free of violence, intimidation and harassment.

8.5 ENVIRONMENT

8.5.1 The Observers noted a peaceful environment in the days before the elections. Unlike the previous elections which witnessed high levels of political intolerance and violence, efforts had been made by the government and all other stakeholders this time to hold peaceful elections. The Observers were satisfied that the electoral environment was calm and peaceful throughout the country and that the people would be able to go out and vote freely. Measures to contain violence and to create a peaceful environment for the holding of free and fair elections had proved effective.

9.0 DEPLOYMENT OF AU OBSERVER MISSION

9.0.1 The leader of the Observer Mission, Dr Tejan Ahmed Kabbah, remained in Harare, where he did his own observation of the polling and took care of other duties related to the observation mission.

9.0.2 Members of the Observer Mission were on Thursday 27th March,2008 deployed in groups of two to eight (8) provinces as indicated in the table below:

DEPLOYMENT OF OBSERVERS

| Name | Province |
|---|---|
| Hon. (Rtd.) Justice Lewis M. MakameMr. Chefeke Dessalegn | Harare |
| Hon. Mrs. Loide L. KasingoMr. Thaddeus Menang | Bulawayo |
| Mr. Pius Ikpefuan AyewohDr. B.J. Okello | Matebele Land North |

| Ms. Yvonne KhamatiMr. Minah Winston | Manicaland |
| Hon. Mr. Mbonda EliMr. Elmabruk Bahlul | Midlands |

9.0.3 Members covered their assigned provinces extensively visiting as many rural and urban constituencies and polling stations as possible.

10.0 OBSERVATION ON THE ELECTIONS

10.1 OPENING OF THE POLLS

10.1.1 Observers noted in general that the polls opened on time at 07.00hrs and that all prescribed procedures were followed. Voters lined up patiently in queues and waited calmly for their turn to cast their votes.

10.1.2 It was also observed that ZEC officers, police officers, political party agents and other observers were present during voting process.

10.2 VOTING MATERIALS

10.2.1 It was further noted that voting materials in sufficient quantities were in place. These included ballot paper booklets, ballot papers, indelible ink, stamps, seals, padlocks, gas lamps, candles, wax and results slips.

10.3 PROCEDURES & THE POLLING ATMOSPHERE

10.3.1 The presiding officers followed the procedures for the elections witnessed by political party agents and observers. The presiding officers showed them the empty boxes, sealed and locked the boxes and position them in front of the polling booths. This facilitated transparency and easy accessibility. Following this, polling officers took their seats and the presiding officers checked all the materials, before the voters were processed to vote. At most polling stations visited the queues of voters had considerably dwindled by late afternoon.

10.3.2 Provision was made for the recording of the names of the persons turned away and the reasons thereof; and of those assisted to vote; and of those people who were allowed to vote although they did not have voter cards provided they produced valid certificate of registration.

10.3.3 On the whole, the atmosphere was peaceful, calm and orderly in all polling stations visited. There were no reported acts of intimidation.

10.4 EFFICIENCY OF POLLING OFFICIALS

10.4.1 Most polling officials appeared to be knowledgeable of the election procedures and voting system. They carried out their functions efficiently and professionally. By and large, there was close collaboration between presiding officers and the rest of the officials. In some cases however some police officers went beyond expected role without adversely affecting the polling process. For example, it was observed that a police officer enthusiastically took it upon himself to display an empty ballot box at the beginning of voting.

10.5 SECRECY OF VOTE

10.5.1 The polling booths were properly set up and arranged in such a way that voters could cast their votes in secret. However, persons needing assistance to vote were assisted by the presiding officer, in the presence of a polling official, the overseer and a police officer.

10.6 POLL CLOSING PROCEDURES

10.6.1 The procedures for closing the poll were strictly followed. The doors were shut on time; ballot boxes were unsealed and unlocked. The number of ballots used was ascertained before counting began.

10.7 THE COUNT

10.7.1 Verification of the ballots cast was done jointly by the presiding officer, polling officers, and political party agents. At the end of the counting, the votes obtained by each candidate were added up by the presiding officer in the presence of the polling staff, party agents, monitors and observers. Finally, where there were postal ballots the ballots cast for a candidate were are added to the final tally of the candidate concerned.

10.8 GENDER ISSUES

10.8.1 The African Union Observers noted with satisfaction that there were substantial female polling officers vis-à-vis their male counterparts at the polling stations. It was also noted that expectant women and women with babies were given priority to vote. However, there was a paucity of female candidates across the country.

11.0 CONCLUSION

11.1 The Harmonized Elections were held in a peaceful and orderly manner and the polling arrangements made it possible for the voters to freely choose their preferred candidates, for the Presidential, Senatorial House of Assembly, Senate, and Local Councils, through the casting of a secret ballot. The respective ballot papers and boxes were distinguished by different colours.

11.2 The arrival and preliminary statements of the AU Mission on the elections are annexed to this report.

12.0 RECOMMENDATIONS

Electoral Management

1. Decentralization of Powers of ZEC

A Local Council: should continue to be declare at ward level local council results.

The House of Assembly: The results should be declared by the constituency returning officer.

Senatorial: The Senatorial results should be declared by the appropriate election officials at that level.

ZEC: should continue to endeavor to embrace best practices in electoral management in the continent, with emphasis on the AU Guidelines on Democratic Elections.

ZEC : should seek to promote easy and fair access of Parties and Candidates to the print and electronic media.

2. Voters Register

The right to vote is a constitutional and a fundamental right. Therefore, requirements for a citizen to register as a voter should be such that they are readily met by the generality of the people.

It is the view of the AU Observer Mission that it would certain be desirable to make the voter register polling station specific. This will cut down on costs and the number of officials required to administer the poll at the polling station. It will also make it easier to verify election results; enhance transparency and limit the possibility of multiple voting.

The Voters register should be ready and displayed in good time. Voters should be encouraged to inspect the displayed register.

Voter education should be used to encourage voters to participate at every stage of the process including the electoral display of the voters roll.

3. Delimitation of Constituencies

The Observer Mission was concerned about the substantial number of voters who were turned away at polling stations and could not vote. This was for several reasons, one of which was the changes made to the constituency boundaries following the 2004 delimitation. It is important that people are sufficiently educated and informed whenever a redrawing of constituency boundaries is done.

4. Assisted Voters

To enhance the secrecy of the vote and instill confidence, the Observer Mission recommends that persons needing assistance to vote be allowed to bring people of their own choice (such as a relative or friend) to assist them and it should be clearly stated that polling officials, political party agents and police officers should not be involved in assisting such voters.

The role of police officers should be limited to the maintenance of peace and security and they should not be allowed into the room where ballots are being cast.

5. Certified Copies of Poll Results

For reasons of transparency and verifiability, the AU Observer Mission recommends that agents of competing candidates should be given signed and certified copies of the poll results. This would make it possible for each candidate to tally the total votes from polling stations in a constituency and eliminate any doubts. Also, in case of a dispute, the certified results could be used as a basis for resolving it.

6. Accreditation Fees

As in the previous polls, the Observer Team had to comply with the payment of the accreditation fee of US Dollars 100 per observer. Despite the clear guideline contained in the AU Declaration on the Principles Governing Democratic Elections in Africa, that "Member States should refrain from imposing any fees and/or charges on AU Observers ...", the AU Observer Mission observed that the recommendations made earlier on this issue during the parliamentary elections of March 2005 were not taken into consideration by the Zimbabwean electoral authorities. All the invited to observer the elections should be exempted from paying.

9. Election Date

The AU Observer Team recommends that the dates for periodic elections should be firmly fixed in law to enable political parties and candidates prepare adequately.

THE PAN AFRICAN PARLIAMENT ELECTION OBSERVATION MISSION TO THE 2008 HARMONIZED ELECTIONS IN ZIMBABWE

INTERIM STATEMENT

In compliance with a decision of the Bureau of the Pan African Parliament (PAP), an Election Observation Mission was established to observe the 2008 Harmonised Elections in Zimbabwe on 29 March 2008. The Mission's overall objective is in line with the African Union (AU) Article 3 of the Constitutive Act and Article 3(3) of the Protocol Establishing the PAP.

In line with this objective, the PAP Mission to the 2008 Harmonised Elections in Zimbabwe had its following specific objectives:

- To assess whether the 2008 Harmonised Elections in Zimbabwe met the guidelines set out in the OAU/AU Declaration on the Principles Governing Democratic Elections in Africa, as well as in the recently adopted AU Charter on Democracy, Elections and Governance.
- To determine whether these elections were conducted in accordance with the constitutional and electoral framework in force in the country;
- To establish whether the results of the elections were a true reflection of the democratic will of the people of Zimbabwe;
- To make recommendations for possible actions that could be taken to improve the holding and conduct of subsequent elections in Zimbabwe and on the African continent.

The mandate of the Mission is, therefore, to make an independent, impartial and objective assessment of the electoral process in Zimbabwe.

Composition of the Mission

The PAP Mission was composed of nineteen (19) Members of Parliament drawn from the five regions of Africa and included Parliamentarians from both ruling and opposition parties in their countries of origin. However, as per the principles of the PAP, the Members of this Mission represented neither their countries or governments, nor their political parties, but the Pan African Parliament.

Methodology adopted by the Mission

In order to ensure a systematic and comprehensive observation of the elections in Zimbabwe, the PAP Mission adopted the following methodology:

- Pre-deployment orientation workshop. With the support of EISA, PAP held a three-day orientation workshop from 19-21 March 2008 in Midrand, South Africa. The aim of the workshop was to provide the MPs with an opportunity to discuss in detail the concept and mechanics of election observation.

- Pre-polling briefings with election stakeholders in Harare. Upon arrival in Harare on 22nd March 2008, the Mission held extensive briefings with the election stakeholders. These included the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC), political parties, civil society organizations (CSOs), the police academics and the media. During these briefings, Members had an opportunity to learn about the electoral system, the legal framework, the level of preparedness as well as the main concerns of the different stakeholders in Zimbabwe.

- Meetings with stakeholders and observation of the campaign. Following the briefings in Harare the Members of the Mission were divided into ten teams of two MPs and one support staff each. On 26th March 2008, the teams were deployed to the ten provinces. On arrival in the provinces, the teams held meetings with different local election stakeholders. The teams also observed rallies and other campaign activities.

Concerns raised by stakeholders

During the meetings with the various stakeholders, a number of concerns were brought to the attention of the Mission. The mission noted among others the following concerns:

- The imbalance of the distribution of polling stations in both rural and urban constituencies in relation to the total number of voters per polling station
- Delayed availability and non-updated voters' roll
- The intimidating presence of police officers in the polling stations.
- The inflated number of ballot papers printed
- Inadequate information and transparency of the Postal ballot
- Access to state media and inequitable allocation of time and space
- Independence and the role of the Electoral Commission
- Statements made by the heads of the different security services
- Non-consultation on the delimitation of constituency boundaries and allegations of gerrymandering
- Inadequate Voter Education and Information
- Inconsistent adherence to electoral legislation and regulations
- Possible vote rigging

Preliminary Observations and Findings

With these concerns in mind, the mission made representation with the relevant authorities including the Chairperson of the ZEC, Commissioner of Police, political parties, etc. After deployment, teams familiarised themselves with the political environment prevailing in their areas of assignment. They were able to assess the level of preparedness particularly on the part of the polling staff in readiness for the 29th March 2008. On election-day, the teams were up to the task, waking up very early in the morning and coming back to base in the early hours of the following morning, having observed the opening, closure and counting processes. These activities allowed the Mission to make the following preliminary observations and findings:

- The mission would like to begin by noting the fact that the 2008 Harmonised Elections in Zimbabwe took place against positive constitutional and legislative reforms.

- After observing the opening, closing and counting at the different polling stations, the teams concluded separately that generally the voting was conducted in a transparent and efficient manner. The fears of the different stakeholders relating to the number of polling stations and their capacity to process the voters did not arise. Indeed, the Commission provided three voting booths in all polling stations and furthermore in urban areas the Commission provided for composite polling stations i.e polling stations with more than one voting rooms.

- The voters roll was not accessible to the public timeously and to the various stakeholders. The soft copies provided were not user friendly and the format used (jpg) made it very difficult to carry out any analysis of the voters roll something which also raised suspicions of calculated vote rigging

- The Mission noted with concern a suspected case of gerry-mandering in Harare North Constituency and deployed a team to verify the matter. Subsequently, the mission sought clarification from the ZEC. In response, the Electoral Commission indicated that that the law provides for a communal address system whereby the community members can be registered using the same address. The Mission is of the view that the communal address registration system can be abused and give rise to gerry-mandering which can unduly influence the outcome of the election.

- The Mission noted that for the purpose of the harmonised elections, the ZEC conducted a delimitation exercise and published a report. It would appear, however, that the newly demarcated boundaries have not been well publicised creating confusion to some voters who ended up being deprived of the opportunity to vote.

- The Mission noted with concern that stakeholders were not well informed about how, when and where the postal voting would take place.

- The Mission was informed that the Commissioner of Police, Chief of Staff of the Zimbabwe Armed forces as well as the Commissioner of Prisons made statements according to which they would not salute any president elected apart from the incumbent President. Representation was made to the Assistant Commissioner who stood in for the Commissioner of Police seeking clarification regarding these statements, but the reply was unprofessional and regrettable. These statements violate the professional ethics of the security services and goes against the spirit of a democratic electoral process by its intimidatory nature. Furthermore, the Mission decries the fact that the appropriate authorities, who are expected to protect the integrity of the electoral process failed to denounce such unfortunate outbursts .

- The Mission learnt that the voter education and information which legally is conducted by ZEC was inadequate. Many stakeholders that briefed the mission believe that part of the reason for the insufficient voter education was the lack of involvement of other stakeholders such as CSOs. However, the various teams of the PAP reported that the number of spoilt ballots which normally indicates the level of the voters' understanding of the process, were relatively low. PAP Mission would recommend, that the ZEC should devise mechanisms that allows for continuous voter education programmes.

- The Mission observed and analysed the electoral campaign. The Mission noted with satisfaction the fact that the campaign took place in an environment of peace, order and high levels of tolerance. The Mission commends both the people of Zimbabwe and the political leadership for the level of maturity and tolerance demonstrated during the campaign and the voting process which removed the NO-GO-AREAS from its political lexicon. The mission however was concerned by the prevalence of negative campaign messages which may have led to some incidents of violence. The Mission would like to condemn in the strongest terms any act of violence and in this respect commends the police for its zero-tolerance. The police displayed a high degree of professionalism on the voting day inside and outside the polling stations.

- The donations which were made on the eve of the elections in the form of buses, computers, cars, food and agricultural implements, etc, send a negative message and were presented to the Mission by other stakeholders as some form of electoral bribery. Whilst the Mission appreciates that the government in power has certain obligations towards improving the welfare of the citizenry, it nevertheless believes that the timing of such generosity was unfortunate

- The Mission learnt that, the ZEC had printed a total of 9 million ballot papers for each of the two elections. This number represents about 50% in excess of the total number of the registered voters. Opposition parties as well as civil society groups raised consistently with the mission their dissatisfaction with the issue. When the mission raised this issue with ZEC, the Chairman indicated that it was for "strategic reasons".

- The Mission was satisfied with the legal provisions aimed at ensuring the independence, impartiality and transparency of the ZEC. The mission also applauds the transparent and efficient manner with which the ZEC has managed the voting process. The Mission calls upon the ZEC to reach out to all political players, civil society organisations, etc with a view to quell the level of suspicion and mistrust prevailing currently.

- Certain allegations made by some stakeholders were proved to be unfounded and baseless

Conclusion

Notwithstanding the above, the Mission has concluded that the environment for holding an election was conducive. It is the Mission's considered view that the irregularities that where detected were not so many as to compromise the flow of the electoral process. However the Mission is concerned that two days after the closure of the polls, the overall outcome of the elections remains unknown. This concern was communicated this afternoon to the Chairperson of the Commission.

On the overall, the basic conditions of credible, free and fair elections as contained in the OUA/African Union Declaration on the Principles Governing Democratic Elections in Africa of 2002 were reflected in the Zimbabwe Harmonised Elections, thus far. Nonetheless, the post-election phase which forms part of the entire electoral process, including the announcement of results, remains a concern and needs to be closely monitored.

Finally, the Mission would like to convey its deep gratitude to the government and people of Zimbabwe for inviting the Pan African Parliament Observer Mission. The Mission would further like to commend the ZEC for its cooperation and the manner with which it availed itself to the Mission

ELECTORAL COMMISSIONS FORUM OF SADC COUNTRIES

THE OBSERVATION STATEMENT SUBMITTED TO THE ZIMBABWE ELECTORAL COMMISSION

INTRODUCTION

The Electoral Commissions Forum (ECF) of the Southern African Development Community (SADC) countries received an invitation from the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission dated 19th May 2008 to observe the Presidential Run-off elections and three House of Assembly by-elections held on the 27th June 2008 in Zimbabwe. In response to this invitation, the ECF duly deployed a 25 member Observer Mission.

The Mission hereby presents this statement on its observations. A full report including recommendations will be availed at a later stage.

About ECF-SADC

This is an autonomous body of electoral commissions in the SADC region which cooperate and support each other on electoral matters. The Forum is governed by a constitution that seeks to promote:

- Conditions conducive to free, fair and transparent elections
- Democracy as a political system of responsible and accountable government through the electoral process.

The rationale behind the Forum observing elections in the SADC region, is to assist fellow election management bodies identify areas requiring improvement in elections administration.

Mission Composition

The Electoral Commissions represented in the Observer Mission were from the following countries:

Botswana, Democratic Republic of Congo, Lesotho, Malawi, Mozambique Namibia, Republic of South Africa, Tanzania, Zanzibar and Zambia

The first delegates arrived in Harare on the 20th June, 2008 and the Mission was led by Malefetsane Nkhahle, a Commissioner of the Independent Electoral Commission of Lesotho. Prior to this mission, a 21 member ECF mission observed the March 29th harmonised elections.

Mission activities

The Mission organised a seminar where a number of stakeholders were invited to make presentations on the following:

(a) The state of preparedness by the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission.
(b) Media and elections; Impartiality and coverage of contesting parties.
(c) The perspective of contesting political parties on elections.
(d) The Zimbabwe Electoral System and
(e) The perspective by Civic Society and Non Governmental Organisations.

The Mission also held consultative meetings with other observer missions such as SADC, PAN-African Parliament and African Union to share notes about the context in which elections will be conducted.

Pre election period briefings

The interactions with various stakeholders revealed some factors which the Mission noted could affect the conduct of elections and the context within which elections would take place. Some of the concerns brought to the Mission's attention were as follows:

- The anxiety associated with delay in the announcement of results of the March 29th elections
- Reports of politically motivated violence and intimidation of voters in the period leading to the Run-off elections.
- Acts of violence blamed on both contesting political parties ( ZANU-PF and MDC-T) and consequent withdrawal of MDC-T as a contesting party, citing widespread violence and intimidation of MDC supporters as the reason. Arising from the withdrawal was the issue of whether the election would continue or not.
- A hostile environment, not generally conducive to the holding of credible elections.
- Arrest of 120 ZEC officials following the harmonised elections.

- MDC was repeatedly prevented from campaigning freely by ZANU-PF supporters.
- Rampant harassment of opposition candidate, officials and supporters, media as well as human rights activists perceived to be MDC-T sympathisers.
- Total lack of coverage of opposition candidate by public media.
- Unlike in the harmonised elections, the campaign adverts in the public media were exclusively ZANU-PF.
- Inadequate voter education.
- Restricted number of local observers.
- Inadequate interaction between Zimbabwe Electoral Commission and stakeholders.

Deployment

The deployment covered four of the ten provinces in Zimbabwe, namely; Harare, Mashonaland East, Mashonaland West, Mashonaland Central. Harare was covered by two teams. All the teams managed to make pre-poll visits in their assigned provinces to familiarize themselves with the location of the polling stations and to assess the level of preparedness on the part of the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission.

Observations

The Mission noted the following:

- In terms of coverage, the state media exclusively covered the campaigns by the ruling ZANU-PF with no coverage of opposition party, MDC-T.
- The principles of equitable access to public media were not complied with. The opposition – MDC- T was not granted airtime to communicate its messages.
- Absence of local observers under the umbrella- Zimbabwe Electoral Support Network (ZESN) due to their withdrawal from participating in the Run-off elections.

Notwithstanding the above, the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission proceeded to finalise the preparations for the elections.

With regard to polling day, the Mission observed that:

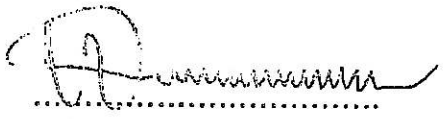

- The opening of polling stations procedures were adhered to.

- There were only agents from one contesting party (ZANU-PF). MDC did not deploy any agents due to withdrawal of its candidate from the elections.
- Foreign observers were seen at some polling stations visited.
- Election materials were adequate in all polling stations visited.
- The lay-out within the polling stations facilitated smooth and logical flow of the voting process.
- The polling staff were adequately trained.
- Several voters were turned away from polling stations due to non-appearance of names in the voters roll, reporting at wrong polling stations and late registration.
- There was a high number of spoilt ballots which was not the case during the harmonised elections.
- There were cases of active security personnel involvement in the voting and counting processes which rightly ought to be the responsibility of electoral staff.
- There was low voter turn-out at most polling stations visited.
- The closing of poll and counting procedures were adhered to.

Concluding Remarks

On the basis of the fore-going statement, the Mission is of the opinion that the elections were conducted in compliance with the laws of Zimbabwe. In addition, the Mission is satisfied that ZEC was adequately prepared to conduct the Presidential Run-off elections. However, the Principles for Election Management, Monitoring and Observation in the SADC Region (PEMMO)[i] guidelines on the Pre- Election phase such as campaigning, media, use of public resources, political violence and intimidation were not adequately complied with.

THE PAN-AFRICAN PARLIAMENT ELECTION OBSERVER MISSION TO THE PRESIDENTIAL RUN-OFF AND PARLIAMENTARY BY-ELECTIONS IN ZIMBABWE

INTERIM STATEMENT

Prior to the arrival of the main Mission team on 14 June 2008, an Advance Team of ten (10) MPs and eight (8) support staff was deployed on 8 June 2008 with the objective of assessing the prevailing pre-election environment by monitoring the state of preparedness and the political developments in the country. Following their accreditation the Advance Team visited the suburbs of Harare and neighbouring provinces of Mashonaland East, Central and West and Manicaland. The Team also held preliminary meetings with a number of election stakeholders in Harare.

On 14 June, the main group of observers arrived in Harare. Between the 17 and 18 June 2008, the Mission held briefings with election stakeholders. The Mission invited the presidential candidates, civil society organisations, University of Zimbabwe academics, the media and diplomatic corps.

The Mission adopted an open-door policy which allowed individual members of the public to bring to the Mission's attention any election-related incident.

On 19 June, the Mission deployed a total of sixteen (16) teams to all ten provinces.

1. The Pan-African Election Observer Mission:
    - cognisant of the report of the Advance Team;
    - considering the three days intense interaction with various stakeholders;
    - analysing reports from the Mission's Observer teams; and
    - noting the results of investigations carried out in the field; the mission observed the following:

i. The prevailing political environment throughout the country was tense, hostile and volatile as it has been characterised by an electoral campaign marred by high levels of intimidation, violence, displacement of people, abductions, and loss of life:

- The Mission observed traces of intimidation and violence in all provinces it visited. Houses burnt down, people assaulted and sustained serious injuries.
- Violence disrupted normal life of ordinary Zimbabweans and led to internal displacement of people. The Mission visited various locations of the evicted and displaced.

- A number of cases of abduction, some of which resulted in deaths, were reported. The Mission visited aggrieved/bereaved families, obtaining an officia post-mortem report and attended the funeral of one such victim.

ii. Hate speech, incitement of violence and war rhetoric instilled fear and trepidation amongst voters. Statements made by esteemed leaders in Zimbabwe make it difficult to dismiss claims of state-sponsored violence and it is highly regrettable.

iii. Restrictions on the fundamental civil and political rights such as freedom of assembly and freedom of movement:

- The Mission was able to attend star rallies organised by the Presidential candidate of ZANU-PF. However, it noted with grave concern that the MDC Presidential candidate was not accorded the opportunity to hold rallies.
- The Mission was disturbed by the numerous arrests that the MDC Presidential candidate was subjected to. Such a move is inconsistent with a free-flowing electoral process.

iv. Overwhelming lack of access to the public media by the Opposition:

- According to Section 3 of the Electoral Act, the ZEC failed to ensure that there was "reasonable access to the media" by both parties. Regrettably, the State-controlled media was used as a vehicle to discredit the opposition candidate in all forms.

v. Political tolerance in Zimbabwe has deteriorated to the lowest ebb in recent history:

- Compared to the Harmonised Elections held in March 29, the level of tolerance between ZANU-PF and MDC supporters leading up to the 27 June Presidential Run-off Election had deteriorated to unprecedented levels. On account of an electoral process, neighbours have turned enemies, Zimbabwean against Zimbabwean, etc.
- In this Presidential Run-off, the Mission observed a number of defaced and ripped election posters.

vi. Numerous road blocks by militia-type groups allegedly identified with the ruling party, seriously curtailed free movement of ordinary Zimbabweans and commuters:

- Some of the Mission teams experienced these road-blocks first hand.

vii. Restrictions on accreditation of local observers:

- The Mission noted that the rules of accreditation that obtained in March for local observers had changed leading to dramatic scaling down of the number accredited. For instance, the Zimbabwe Election Support Network (ZESN) which covered all the polling stations in an efficient manner were regrettably offered limited accreditation which compelled them to pull out from observing the electoral process.

viii. Lack of transparency of the postal voting process, coupled with allegations of lack of secrecy of the vote:

- Numerous complaints received by the Mission indicated that the postal voting was conducted in a non-transparent manner. Attempts by the Mission to observe and verify were met by denial of access.

When raising the issue with ZEC, the Mission was informed that, as the la stands currently, the commanding officer is the only authority who grants acce to observers using his/her discretion.

ix. Politicisation of security forces led to lack of impartiality and loss of confidence in th voting process:

- Overall, the Mission noted that the leadership of the security forces have n changed their position of overt support to the ruling party despite calls, followir the March Harmonised Elections. The discriminatory treatment in grantir permission for the holding of campaign rallies, reluctance to arrest allege ZANU-PF aligned individuals perpetrating violence, is cause for concern.
- The Mission was dismayed by uniformed police officers on duty wearing th ruling party regalia.

x. The independence and impartiality of the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission is rendere questionable. The role of ZEC in this particular election has been more wanting than th previous election. Its deafening silence was alarming and created a perception of sequestrated body.

2. Voting Day

The voting day was fairly quiet. Voters proceeded to cast their ballots in an orderl manner.

- Generally, voter turn-out was relatively low. It is unclear if some voters heede the call to boycott elections or it was mere voter apathy. It is surprising thougl that the MDC Presidential candidate who withdrew from the Run-off, was stil voted for by a significant number of voters.
- In many polling stations visited by our Mission, it was noted that certain male dominated groups intercepted voters and gave them pieces of paper on which they were required to write the serial number of their ballots.
- An unusually high percentage of spoilt ballots were recorded in the polling stations where our Mission observed the counting process. Unpalatable messages were written on many of those spoilt ballots.

3. Conclusions:

i. In view of the above the Mission concludes that the current atmosphere prevailing in the country did not give rise to the conduct of free, fair and credible elections.

ii. Conditions should be put in place for the holding of free, fair and credible elections as soon as possible in line with the African Union Declaration on the Principles Governing Democratic Elections

iii. In the interim, the PAP Mission calls on the SADC leaders working together with the African Union to engage the broader political leadership in Zimbabwe into a negotiated transitional settlement.

A Preliminary Report of the Regional Joint Faith Based Initiative (RJFBI) observer mission

1. Introduction

The Church in Southern Africa took part in observing the Zimbabwe Harmonized Elections of March 29, 2008 under the coordination of the Regional Joint Faith Based Initiative (RJFBI). The RJFBI is an association of three regional organisations namely The Ecumenical Documentation and Information Centre in Southern Africa (EDICISA) an arm of the Fellowship of the Christian Councils in Southern Africa (FOCCISA), the Inter Regional Meeting of Bishops of Southern Africa (IMBISA) and the Association of Evangelicals in Africa (AEA). The RJFBI 's goal is '...to work together for a region whose citizens are politically aware and active, demanding good governance, accountability, transparency, respect for rule of law and human rights from its leaders'.

The Church under the banner of RJFBI equipped by the belief that they have a God given mandate to be involved in the affairs that concern humanity, to speak for the voiceless majority against all forms of oppression be it natural or man made. Trained and deployed nine hundred (900) local observers and ninety(90) regional observers from African countries participating in the three association of the RJFBI. The local and regional observers were seconded by various church denominations structurally associated with the member associations of the RJFBI. It was unfortunate that the church team of observers was frustrated by the non-accreditation of the regional observers in spite of all the pleading of the local organisers. Armed with spirit of collaboration, the regional observers seriously prayed for successful conducting of elections under the guidance of the Holy Spirit. The regional observers tried their best to understand the election process through the press and the interaction they were having with Christians of their member churches to keep their spirits up. At the end of the process the RJFBI observers expressed their frustration about the failure to have regional observers registered.

Motivated by the human suffering in Zimbabwe characterised by deteriorating living conditions of the majority of the citizens for the (past)last few years, RJFBI decided to make a contribution towards the realisation of one of the objectives of SADC pertaining to "The Deployment of Human Rights Monitors" in Southern Africa, starting with Zimbabwe as a case in point. The SADC objective says: "promote the development of democratic institutions and practices within the territories of State parties and encourage the observance of universal human rights as provided for in the charters and conventions of the African Union and the United Nations respectively."

2. Main Concerns expressed during the run up period by various stakeholders

During the training (of) RJFBI local and regional observers, (they) were sensitized to concerns expressed by various local, regional and international individuals, groups and organisations since all documented material has a bearing on the opinion making of the electorate and the final recognition of the election results for them to be declared free and fair or otherwise.

The major expressed concerns included the following:

- Fears of administrative electoral chaos and vote rigging that may be precipitated by allocation of fewer polling stations in the urban areas (the strongholds of the opposition);
- The range of legal provisions believed by the opposition that they would give the ruling party an advantage such as non-disclosure of the company that prints ballot papers, the number of ballot papers printed as well as the inspection and audit of all the printed ballots;

- Distribution of food and farming equipment or any other goods by political parties or their agents as this can be deemed as "carrots dangled to entice unsuspecting prospective voters",
- The observed inconsistency in the Electoral Act between section110(3) and 3 (1) of the second schedule to the Electoral Act "...in the event of none of the Presidential candidates getting a majority of the votes cast";
- The implied generation of culture of fear among the electorate as the Zimbabwe's service chiefs made utterances that they would not salute either Mr. Morgan Tsvangirai or Mr. Simba Makoni (even if they won presidency?);
- The suspected poor preparations for the elections by the Zimbabwe Government because of short time of preparation for the elections from the time President Mugabe announced the date of elections in January 2008;
- The expressed fear that the Zimbabwe Government was going to prepare and conduct the elections with a constrained resource base of "... an economic meltdown – a shrinking economy, rocketing inflation, shortages of most basic goods and collapsing public services – in a country once known as a regional bread basket."
- Alleged poor application of rushed constitutional amendment 18 to the electoral law as well as the process of delimitating the boundaries of the constituencies for senators and members of the House of Assembly;
- The alleged regular violation of new electoral laws resulting from the negotiations between the ruling ZANU-PF and the opposition MDC such as the need for the state owned media to give equal treatment to all contesting candidates and parties; as well as the heavy filing fees imposed on party candidates who had no access to state funding; and
- Providing the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission with the monopoly of conducting voter education countrywide in the short period of the run-up to the elections, a mammoth task that should have been shared with the members of the civil society and the churches as practiced in some previous similar elections.
- Use of obviously provocative campaign adverts on other presidential candidates by the ruling ZANU PF in the print media.

The Church prayed that the Government clear up all these allegations and make public corrections to the public statements made by people in key positions like security and prison chiefs. Since (a good percentage) the majority of the voters were active Christians, freed from the bondage of sin by Christ, the Church did not expect national leaders of Zimbabwe, a fledgling nation in many respects at the moment, to make public statements that have the power of threatening voters from making free and considered choices of local government leaders, parliamentary representatives and the President. Christianity teaches its members to always hope for a better future with the intervention of the Almighty.

3. Main areas for observation by the RJFBI Observer Team

Against all odds, the local and regional observers were able to prepare this report, a summary of what observers were able to note during the run-up to the elections and on the day of the elections on the 29th March, 2008 including immediate post election period. The observers needed to take into account the concerns that had been expressed by various stakeholders of the elections.

3.1 Observation of the legal requirements of preparing and conducting elections

By and large, the Commission made all the arrangements for the elections within the scope of the legal framework provided for by the Constitution of Zimbabwe, the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission Act [Chapter 2:12], the Electoral Act [Chapter 2:13] and the Electoral Regulations, and the recently enacted Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (Media Coverage of Elections) Regulations 2008. The legal framework had been improved upon in an attempt to incorporate the ideas in the SADC Principles and Gusidelines Governing Democratic elections. However some of the stakeholders had criticised the speed with which some of the changes had be done in Parliament. The changes were rushed through in order to beat the legal deadlines for preparing for the elections that had been announced for March 2008.

3.2 National Mobile Registration Exercise

National mobile registration was done from the 18th June 2007 to the 17th August 2007 under the supervision of the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission, which gives a period of nine weeks to cover the whole country that was later divided into 1958. During that period 121 233 people were registered. This means that on average there were approximately 62 registered in each ward. During the mobile registration, only 34 629 were transferred from one constituency to another. Since this transfer was done before the delimitation process carried out from 5th December 2007 to10th January 2008, it means voters were transferred from one constituency to another using the old constituencies rather than into wards, the new areas people were registered at which to vote for the harmonized elections. It becomes more logical that the delimitation exercise was supposed to take place before the mobile registration.

3.3 Inspection of the voters roll

It can be argued that the inspection period carried out from 1st February 2008 to 14th February 2008 was an opportunity for all voters to check their new wards for voting purposes, many of the voters who had been voting many times in the past may not have taken the inspection seriously. They assumed that they already knew their traditional voting centres in the areas they were living. This should partly explain why many people were unable to vote when they did not find their names at the places they had voted in the past. Some people who were able to identify the new wards on the voting day failed to drive or walk to the appropriate centres due to limited means of travelling or it may have been too late for them to do so.

It is however important to note that the voters roll was not accessible to the public and to the various stakeholders. The soft copies provided were not user friendly and the format used (jpg) made it very difficult to carry out any analysis of the voters roll something which also raised suspicions of calculated vote rigging.

It is also important to note that stakeholders were not well informed about how, when and where the postal voting would take place.

3.4 Delimitation of electoral boundaries

This exercise was carried out between 5th December 2007 and 10th January 2008, it was therefore surprising to see voters moving from ward to ward in search of the right place to cast their votes. The command centres where verification was supposed to be done were far from the wards. For example,new constituencies were introduced in the rural areas.

However, it would appear that the newly demarcated boundaries were not well publicised creating confusion to some voters who ended up being deprived of the opportunity to vote.

3.5 Proclamation of elections

This was done on 21st January 2008 through Statutory Instrument 7A of 2008. This seemed to have been too late for the contesting parties that needed to prepare themselves for the elections.

3.6 Voter Education

According to the new changes on voting, voter education became a preserve for the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission unlike in the past when the civil groups could participate. Provision of voter education is quite a mammoth task for it to be done by one institution. The idea of providing education through many organisations is helpful in that any changes that may be made concerning the procedures a few days before the elections can be explained to the ordinary people all the time. For example, a few days before the date of the elections, ZEC advertised in the papers that the ballot boxes were going to be sealed at 1830 hours in stead of 1900 hours originally understood by the electorate. One does not know how many people were affected by this change or adjustment.

3.7 Closure of voters' rolls

Voters rolls closed on 14th February 2008, when the voters roll was closed, the voter population for the 2008 harmonized elections was 5 934 768.

3.8 Nomination Courts

A total of 5 406 candidates successfully filed their papers for all the elections; Nomination courts sat on 15 February 2008 in all the 10 provinces of the country and 413 candidates filed their papers unopposed – 411 for local authority elections, 1 for the house of Assembly, and 1 for the Senatorial elections.

3.9 Conflict Management

- Constituency Multi-Party Committees – already established
- Ward Multi-Party Committees – already established
- All parties already participating National Multi-Party liaison Committee – already established in the committees

3.10 Recruitment and Training of Presiding and Polling officers

During the elections, it was clear that the Commission had recruited enough officers who knew their job. The polling stations were well organised. The majority of them knew how to relate with the electorate, observer missions and other stakeholders.

3.11 National Logistics

- Identification and confirmation of presiding and polling officers
- Transport requirements
- Communication systems available
- Establishment of polling stations and their accessibility to voters

3.12 Ballot Boxes and Polling Booths

- The Commission had adequate translucent ballot boxes and polling booths.
- Each polling station had at least 4 ballot boxes marked presidential ballot box, Senatorial ballot Box, House of Assembly ballot box and local Authority ballot box
- Each polling station had at least 2 polling booths (the polling booths may be increased depending on the size of the polling station).
- All ballot boxes and booths were distributed to the polling stations from the House of Assembly Constituencies.
- Blue and Green colour on the ballot boxes posed a problem for the elderly in the rural areas, especially the visually impaired.

The ballot boxes were transparent, however voters' casting votes had a problem in identifying which box was for what (Presidential, Parliamentary, Sanatoria or ward). The colours identifying the boxes were fixed at the front of the box, the voters were casting their votes at the back of the boxes and electoral officials kept on shouting out which colour of papers was supposed to go in which box. Each polling station had a standby generator.

The booths where the voters marked their papers were in private corners and far between each other. In the make-shift booths there was enough space for all the officials including the party agents and local election monitors.

3.13 Ballot papers

This being the first harmonised election, each category (Presidential, Sanatoria, Ward Councillor) had a different colour and the symbols for each candidate were prominent.

3.14 Command Centres

The command centres were established for two purposes: To assist the voters to verify their details in case of missing names on the voters lists at polling stations and to direct voters to their respective polling stations. Each centre had enough officials and one computer; this made it easy for the electoral commission staff to get information for people who wanted information about their respective polling stations. The same centres were also used as tallying centres for the constituency.

3.15 Accreditation

This process was not smooth at all and it ended by eliminating the Regional Faith Based Observers who came outside Zimbabwe. The local observers were accredited on the last day and this interfered with the smooth deployment exercise.

3.16 Media Monitoring

The media reports gave more prominence to the incumbent than the opposition; this was so visible on the National Television where more time was given to ZANU-PF and the opposition all lumped together. The pattern was not so different in the Newspapers; the opposition only made it to the front pages if they had in-house problems. The incumbent's picture was always given prominence on the front pages of all the national papers. The advertisement on the National TV station were given equal time in the last two weeks, but this be due to the fact that advertisements are paid for by the different political parties.

3.17 Polling Stations

Earlier on, we had understood that the planned polling stations were going to be 8 998. When some of the stakeholders pointed out to the Commission that the number was rather low especially in the big cities such as Harare and Bulawayo, the Commission increased the number of polling stations to 9 100.

On the polling day, most of the queues of voters that had started as early as 6 a.m. disappeared before lunch time because the number of polling stations had been increased to over 9100. This allayed most of the fears that some polling stations were going to remained congested until after the intended time of sealing the boxes at 1900 hours.

3.18 Results

Since the voting took place rather fast without any hassles, most stakeholders expected the results to be announced as early as possible. Unfortunately, the process of announcing the election results was too slow and frustrating in a way; the results started trickling in at 6.00am on 31st March, 24hrs after the last vote was cast. It took more than six hours for the next set of results to be read and this pattern continued throughout the day.

4. Comments

- Voters' cards should be issued once an eligible voter has registered for voting. Ask for different identification papers on the polling day denies many people a chance to exercise their right.
- Information about polling stations should be displayed in all locations to avoid the painful journeys people make in search of information on the voting day as the majority of the electorate had no access to delimitation process.
- The system of counting and displaying results at each voting centre must be commended.
- Accreditation of both local and international faith based selection observer is a right that should never be denied to those who apply.

4.1 The political role of Southern African Region in particular and Africa in general
SADC sent a team of election observers from all the 13 countries in accordance with the SADC principles and guidelines on election that provide for the presence of electoral observers from within the region; COMESA sent a team of observers, African Union (AU) also sent representatives to observe the elections.

4.2 Proper preparation of observers
The observers, both local and foreign were given the necessary training that enabled them to participating in the election exercise within the confines of the law.

4.3 No "silent witnesses" of election observations
The Regional Joint Faith Initiative issued three press statements: Denial of accreditation for the regional observers from outside Zimbabwe; Appealing for calm as people awaited for the official results to be announced by ZEC; SADC for translating their protocol into action in regards to election processes in the region.

Although the RJBFI team of observers from outside Zimbabwe were denied a chance to fully participate in this exercise, they never gave in to frustration but instead they became useful in as many ways as possible, this also enriched the exercise.

4.4 Broad human rights observation

The observers were encouraged to observe any forms of human rights abuses. Our observers did not observe any special human rights abuses. However, heavy police in and around the polling stations was of concern. It was not easy to assess whether the voters felt protected rather than threatened. If they felt threatened and confused, this might have affected their freedom of choice of during as they were casting their votes.

4.5 The role of the law enforcement agents such as the police and security forces
As observed the police officers were at the stations to keep peace, they also teamed up with party agents, election officers and local observers in case of assisting people with special needs (blind, illiterate and those in wrong wards ).

5. Conclusion

The environment for holding an election was conducive, the polls results were publicised at each polling station. It is however imperative to note that three days after the closure of the polls, the overall outcome of the elections remains unknown. Delay in announcement of election results might lead to unnecessary anxiety if not instability from the electorate.

SADC ELECTION OBSERVER MISSION
(SEOM)

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

PRESENTED BY

THE HON. JOSÉ MARCOS BARRICA

MINISTER OF YOUTH AND SPORTS OF THE REPUBLIC OF ANGOLA

AND HEAD OF THE SEOM

ON THE ZIMBABWE PRESIDENTIAL RUNOFF AND HOUSE OF

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY BY- ELECTIONS

HELD ON 27 JUNE 2008

1. INTRODUCTION

On 2 May 2008 the results of the Presidential election were finally announced. None of the four candidates received an outright majority required by the Electoral Act. Accordingly, on 19 May 2008, ZEC announced that a run-off election would be held on 27 June 2008 between the candidates of the MDC, Mr Morgan Tsvangirai and the ZANU-PF, Mr Robert Gabriel Mugabe, who had secured 47.9 percent and 43.2 percent of the votes respectively.

The ZEC also announced that by-elections would be held on the same day in the Gwanda South, Pelandaba-Mpopoma and Redcliff Constituencies where elections could not proceed on 29 March 2008 due to the death of candidates before the election date.

The SADC was, again, invited by the Government of the Republic of Zimbabwe to observe these elections in terms of the SADC Protocol on Politics, Defence and Security Co-operation, and the SADC Principles and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections.

Following this invitation, the Chairperson of SADC Organ on Politics, Defence and Security Co-operation (OPDSC), His Excellency Eng. José Eduardo dos Santos, President of the Republic of Angola, officially constituted the SEOM and mandated the Executive Secretary, Dr. Tomáz Augusto Salomão, to organize its deployment. The Chairperson of the OPDSC, appointed Hon. Jose Marcos Barrica, Minister of Youth and Sports of the Republic of Angola to head SEOM.

Pursuant to this mandate, Diplomatic Missions of SADC Member States accredited to Zimbabwe assumed the role of an advanced team. After the necessary logistical and administrative preparation the full SADC Electoral Observer Mission was re-deployed to Harare from 28th May 2008.

.The SEOM maintained contact with other international observer missions such as the African Union (AU), and the Pan-African Parliament (PAP), and UN Assistant Secretary-General for Political Affairs . During these interactions, notes were exchanged.

As part of their fieldwork, SADC observers were deployed to all provinces in Zimbabwe. The observers interacted with political parties and candidates canvassing for support, ZEC officials, non-governmental organisations, police officers and citizens.

2. DEPLOYMENT

The Mission observed these elections in line with SADC Principles and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections.

During the pre-voting period, the ZEC, despite operating under a politically charged environment, was able to prepare for the election by among other things, handling of postal votes, training of electoral officers, the setting up of polling stations, and delivery of voting materials.

The SEOM consisted of 413 members from all SADC Member States, except Madagascar. They were deployed into ten (10) provinces which were divided into 210 constituencies and 9 100 polling stations. The background of the members of the Mission ranged from parliamentarians of both ruling and opposition parties, members of civil society and civil servants. Field teams were, as far as possible, composed and deployed in a manner that made them representative of Member States.

The SADC Mission conducted its observation in a rigorous and systematic manner. Field teams submitted daily reports which were consolidated and analysed by members of the SADC Secretariat. Allegations raised with the SEOM were, likewise, pursued in a systematic manner through further observations and requests for further information from the relevant authorities or role-players. Based on the aforegoing the SEOM wishes to report on the following observations and findings

3. OBSERVATIONS AND FINDINGS PRE-ELECTION PHASE

Politically motivated violence and intimidation

The period leading up to the run-off election was characterized by politically motivated violence resulting in loss of life, damage to property, and serious injuries sustained and hindering political activities.

All role-players acknowledged the existence of politically motivated violence but differed regarding the nature, extent, causes and origins of this violence and its impact on the electoral process. On numerous occasions victims of politically motivated violence allege that the security forces did very little to stop the violence of arrest the perpetrators of violence.

The prevalence of politically motivated violence was uneven, being most acute in Mashonaland East, West and Central, Manicaland, Masvingo, and Harare. This politically motivated violence led to the internal displacement of persons and impacted negatively on the full participation of citizens in the political process and freedom of association.

On 25 June 2008 the Head of SEOM issued a statement expressing its deep concern on widespread politically motivated violence. and appealed to the relevant authorities, particularly supporters of political parties and candidates to refrain from all forms of violence. The Mission also urged the law enforcement agencies to ensure that there was law and order in the country.

Political Campaigns

The ruling party held a number of well-attend rallies throughout the country. Posters, pamphlets, stickers, t-shirts and other regalia were very prevalent and visible throughout the country.

Few rallies were held by the opposition party, and SEOM observed with concern disruption of campaigning of the opposition party and the regrettable inaction of the law enforcement agencies, despite the court order authorising such rallies.

The one-sided coverage in content and extend of one candidate on the part of the state media, print and electronic. In addition, no advertisements for the opposition party were carried.

A number of pronouncements were made by both Presidential candidates as well as other role players, to the effect that they would not accept and respect the results of the elections. The SEOM find pronouncements of this nature contrary to the SADC Principle and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections.

The SEOM was able to conduct its task without much hindrance. However,, numerous SEOM teams reported being harassed in the course of their duties.

On 22 June 2008 the presidential candidate of the opposition party announced publicly that he was withdrawing from the run-off election and cited the escalation of political violence and intimidation as reasons for his withdrawal.

A formal letter of withdrawal was submitted on 24 June 2008. The ZEC indicated that this letter did not comply with the timre frame set out in the Electoral Act and could not be accepted.

Notwithstanding this withdrawal from the presidential run-off election, the opposition party indicated that its candidates would contest the House of Assembly by-elections in Gwanda South, Pelandaba-Mpopoma and Redcliff Constituencies.

Election Day

The elections was conducted in conditions that were relatively free of violence and was managed by the ZEC in a manner that is technically competent.

At most voting stations observed by SEOM the only party agents present were from the ruling party and that few local observers were accredited for the Presidential runoff compared to the Harmonised Elections held on the 29 March 2008..

The mission noted that, in some spoiled ballot papers, the voters have recorded expressions like "God bless this country," Let there be free and fair elections', No to dictatorship' and so forth, which expressed their dissatisfaction the way the elections were conducted.

There was a low turn out during the runoff compared to the 29 March 2008 harmonised elections.

4. CONCLUSION

The Mission expresses its gratitude to the Member States who have complied to the request of increasing the observers and the provision of the resources.

The pre-election phase was characterised by politically motivated violence, intimidation, and displacements.

The process leading up to the presidential run-off elections held on 27 June 2008 did not conform to SADC Principles and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections. However, the Election Day was peaceful.

Based on the above mentioned observations, the Mission is of the view that the prevailing environment impinged on the credibility of the electoral process. The elections did not represent the will of the people of Zimbabwe.

5. CONSIDERATIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

We reiterate our conviction that there can be a viable solution to the profound problems facing Zimbabwe through dialogue amongst all political stakeholders, and involving the people of Zimbabwe.

The mission also pledge its support and solidarity to and with the people of Zimbabwe and we wish them courage, strength and determination as they embark on this difficult but vitally necessary process.

The mission strongly recommends that SADC mediation efforts should be continued in order to assist the people and leadership of Zimbabwe to resolve the problems they are facing and bring the country to normalcy. In this regard, SADC should establish a mechanism on the ground in order to seize the momentum for a negotiated solution.

The mission notes that the country needs the concerted efforts of its sons and daughters for economic-socio development and national unity.

The Mission regrets and wishes to express its profound sympathy to those Zimbabwean families who have lost their loved ones and their property.

ZIMBABWE CONGRESS OF TRADE UNIONS (ZCTU)

REPORT OF THE HARMONISED (PRESIDENTIAL, PARLIAMENTARY, SENATORIAL AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT) ELECTIONS HELD ON 29 MARCH 2008.

PREAMBLE

Zimbabwe held her harmonized (Presidential, Parliamentary, Senatorial and Local Government) elections on the 29th of March 2008. For the first time in the history of the Zimbabwe Congress of Trade Unions (ZCTU), the labour body was allowed to officially observe the elections through a letter from the Ministry of Justice, Legal and Parliamentary Affairs. During previous elections, the ZCTU was denied by the government the right to observe the elections on the allegations that it was partisan, and the observation was mainly from the sidelines.

The ZCTU took it upon itself to conduct its own observation on the basis that the labour movement represents the majority of workers in the country who constitute a large constituency of voters. It is the ZCTU's belief that workers have a stake in any election as its outcome has a bearing on the well being of workers. As a result, ZCTU has since 2000 conducted voter education in an effort to promote participation of workers in civic and national governance issues.

In carrying out this function, the major limitation has always been resources, both human and financial. In the just ended election, while it was the desire of the ZCTU to have observers covering every polling station, resources did not permit. There were over 9 100 polling stations countrywide and this required massive mobilisation of resources. However, for this exercise we managed to mobilize 100 observers countrywide.

Given this predicament, the ZCTU decided to use workers who are in its structures to observe the elections. These are in its six regions, namely: Northern Region, North Eastern Region, Western Region, Southern Region, Central Region and Eastern Region. The regional offices in Bulawayo, Masvingo, Mutare, Gweru and Chinhoyi also acted as Command Centres linking with 36 ZCTU districts across the country.

Methods used in Observation

First and foremost, on conducting this exercise, the ZCTU was mindful of the Southern African Development Community (SADC) principles and guidelines on democratic elections, which the Zimbabwean Government ratified in August 2004. In assessing the conduct of the elections in Zimbabwe, the ZCTU employed a compliance test of the country to these guidelines. The ZCTU therefore used the SADC elections observation guidelines, the major ones being:

a) Regular intervals for elections as provided for by the respective National Constitutions;
b) Equal opportunity to exercise the right to vote and be voted for;
c) Acceptance and respect of the election results by political parties proclaimed to have been free and fair by the competent National Electoral Authorities in accordance with the law of the land;
d) SADC Member States shall be guided by the following guidelines to determine the nature and scope of election observation;
e) Constitutional and legal guarantees of freedom and rights of the citizens;
f) Where applicable, funding of political parties must be transparent and based on agreed threshold in accordance with the laws of the land;
g) Counting of the votes at polling stations;
h) SADC Election Observation Missions should be deployed at least two weeks before the voting day.

Another notable development was the invitation by the government of Zimbabwe of observer missions that it views as friendly and were not likely to give adverse reports about the election. Despite the fact that the observers were invited very late, their selection was only restricted to SADC, the African Union and few selected European countries. For local observers, which was the responsibility of the Minister of Justice and Parliamentary affairs, there was a remarkable improvement on inviting the local observers as the majority of civic organisations were accredited to observe with the ZCTU being one of the notable ones.

On conducting this observation exercise, the ZCTU was mindful of its limitations. The main one being its inability to access all polling stations and counting centres due to limited resources. However, the ZCTU had also deployed over 350 observers under its sister organisation, the Zimbabwe Elections Support Network (ZESN). Therefore, the ZCTU observation reflects what happened throughout the country.

To make the work of observers easier, the ZCTU produced questionnaires, courtesy of ZESN, to guide monitors on specific issues to look for (see Appendixes).

THE ELECTION PROCESS: OBSERVATIONS

Full participation of the citizens in the political process

Since the descent to lawlessness and bad governance in 2000, Zimbabweans have not been able to participate fully in the political process. The Public Order and Security Act (POSA), and Access to Information and Protection of Privacy Act (AIPPA) have been used to undermine the freedoms of Zimbabweans. Thus, activities such as voter education, which used to be undertaken by NGOs, were forbidden and were to be carried out by the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC) during the run-up to the Harmonised elections.

Delimitation

The delimitation process was conducted in a suspicious manner as constituency boundaries of rural and urban centers were merged. This was seen as giving advantage to the ruling party which has always been seen as holding sway in rural areas. Contesting political parties were not consulted during the delimitation exercise.

Voter Education

Under the current Electoral Act, the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission has primary responsibility of conducting a programme of voter education. The Amendment Act includes further provisions on voter education (Section 13, 15, 15A and 15B of the Electoral Act as amended). The Commission was supposed to commence a programme of voter education not later than 90 days before the polling day of an election. The Amendment Act provides that the Government must give the Commission whatever assistance it may require to conduct voter education. We noted that ZEC did not extend the responsibility to other stakeholders such as the civic society organization to undertake voter education. We also noted that the Zimbabwe Election Support Network was stopped from educating voters over the radio and television. The ZCTU had also wanted to conduct workplace based voter education programmes but could not proceed since the current Act did not give us the authority to do so.

The Electoral Framework

For the election of parliamentary, senatorial and local authority representatives, Zimbabwe practices the 'first past the post' (FPTP) electoral system inherited from the Westminster-type plurality or single-member district (SMD) system, in which the candidate with the highest number of votes wins. It must be noted that a winner may be elected on the basis of less than 51 percent of voters in a constituency.

The Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC)

Following the enactment of the Constitution of Zimbabwe Amendment Act (No. 17) Act 2005 and the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission Act No. 22 of 2004, the management and supervision of elections in Zimbabwe is now the responsibility of the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission.

Its functions are as follows:

- To prepare for, conduct and supervise all elections and referendums and to ensure that such elections are conducted freely, fairly, transparently and in accordance with the law.
- To supervise the registration of voters being conducted by the Registrar of Voters
- To compile voters' rolls and registers
- To ensure the proper custody and maintenance of voters' rolls and registers
- To design, print and distribute ballot papers, approve the form of and procure ballot boxes, and establish and operate polling centers
- To conduct voter education
- To accredit observers of elections and referendums
- To give instructions to the Registrar-General of Voters in regard to the exercise of his functions
- To instruct other persons in the employment of the state or local authority in order to ensure efficient, proper, free and fair conduct of elections, and
- To exercise any other functions the Electoral Law and any other law may impose that on the Commission.

Further reform was introduced through the Constitution of Zimbabwe Amendment Act (No. 18) Act of 2007. This effectively abolished the Delimitation Commission whose function was to determine the limits of the 120 House of Assembly constituencies and 50 senate constituencies into which Zimbabwe was previously divided.

The Commission is given functions in addition to those set out in the Constitution. In particular, the Commission will be enjoined to undertake research into electoral matters, to promote co-operation between the Government and political parties and other bodies concerned with elections, and to inform the public about all issues relating to elections.

Composition of ZEC

The Commission's composition is dealt with in section 61 of the Constitution rather than in the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission Act, and amendments were made by the Electoral Laws Amendment Act to reflect this fact. Making the Commission a constitutional body, rather than one which owes its existence to an Act of Parliament, should theoretically make the Commission more independent, and for that reason is a welcome move.

The Electoral Commission obviously needs a substantial body of staff to carry out the work needed on the ground to fulfil the Commission's onerous functions in connection with elections. It is vitally important that these staff members be properly trained and they must perform all their duties professionally and without political bias.

In terms of the Electoral Laws Amendment Act of 2008, employees of the Police Force, Defence Forces and the Prison Service can no longer be seconded as staff of the Commission except where their services are required for the provision of security. (Section 17 of ZEC Act as amended)

The pool of persons who can now be seconded to the Commission has been expanded. Now not only persons employed by the Public Service Commission may be seconded; the Commission can also call upon the Health Services Board and responsible authorities of any statutory or local government body to make their employees available for election service.

Secondment of persons such as recently retired members of the armed forces will not circumvent this provision. It should also be pointed that on the staff of the Commission there are already a number of ex-military officers dealing with electoral management. Even though these persons resigned from their military positions when they were engaged, there is a perception that the management of elections has been heavily militarised. The law should also explicitly exclude members of intelligence services. Members of these forces are now viewed, as being politically partisan and the use of such personnel in connection with elections was seen to be intimidatory.

None of the changes made by the Act had much effect on the functioning of the Commission unless the Commission's members are perceived to be politically independent, efficient, and dedicated to ensuring that elections are held in accordance with the law.

Voter Registration and Voter's Roll

Registration of voters should be continuous, with citizens entitled to apply for enrolment at any time. Rolls will not be regarded as closed for new registrations in any election until the day before nomination day in the election concerned. Voter registration and inspection started on 2 February 2008 and ended on 7 February 2008 and after an outcry from political parties and other civic groups, the ZCTU included, ZEC opened up voter registration and inspection for a further one week. This was a commendable move though it was not adequate.

However, the stringent requirements for voters to register turned away most voters. Requirements such as the need to bring a letter from the landlord had a serious effect on the people. So was the requirement for bills to be used as evidence. We noted that some people who registered were given slips but some were not given. This caused problems during the voting process especially were people were not on the voters roll.

Freedom of Association

Although the level of tolerance of divergent views significantly increased in urban areas, it was not so in some rural areas. The opposition supporters still faced intimidation and harassment in rural areas. Cases of political violence emanating from attempts to hold political campaigns have been reported in Mutasa North. In one such incident, ZANU PF youth camped at Katiyo Tea Estate are said to have attacked women going to attend an MDC rally on the 17th February 2008 around 1100hrs. Four MDC youths sustained serious head injuries when they retaliated and were attended to at Hauna hospital after a report had been made at Ruda Police Station (Source ZESN). The violence witnessed in the 2000 Parliamentary elections and the 2002 Presidential elections was still lingering in the minds of many people. Very few people in the rural areas talked openly of their support for the opposition. Those who did were labeled "puppets of Blair," the former British Prime Minister. At all his rallies, the President reminded the people about the war and the fate of 'traitors.' The stigmatization of the main opposition party, the MDC as Blair-puppets made it very difficult for people, especially in the rural areas to be openly identified with it. Headmen and chiefs had already been put on Government salaries and the latter were given vehicles in addition to the allowances, which made them watchmen of the party who were willing to mobilize people to vote for the ruling party, ZANU (P.F.). Traditional leaders therefore played an important role in swaying the rural vote in favour of ZANU (P.F.). Although in major cities the opposition did well, fear was still a major factor, as many people did not have the courage to speak openly about their political beliefs. In fact, the quietness among people was scary in the days leading to the elections.

The use of public resources for political campaign by the ruling party is a major cause of concern. District Development Fund (DDF) trucks and government vehicles were used to campaign. So was the use of money for 'projects' as a vote buying tactic. The unveiling of Farming equipment, donation of computers and the parading of 'new ZUPCO buses at rallies during the election period was seen as vote buying.

Political tolerance

During the run-up to the elections, there was a marked improvement in political tolerance, particularly in towns. But in some places like Muzarabani, Centenary and Zvimba, there were press reports of political intolerance.

Of major concern was the assertion by the top brass of the uniformed forces that they would not salute anyone elected as president other than President Robert Mugabe. Notably statements were made by Police Commissioner General Augustine Chihuri and Prisons Chief, Retired Major Paradzai Zimondi and ZNA commander, Constantine Chiwenga. This was perceived as a way of intimidating the electorate, thus influencing the voting pattern.

Equal opportunity for all political parties to access the state media

Although all political parties and contestants were afforded airtime on both radio and television, they were subjected to ridicule and distortion by the official media. Well-known ruling party apologists who wasted no time to put opposition party interviewees to all forms of ridicule, interruption and distortion manned interviews. While opposition parties had limited time, the official media was freely and readily available for the ruling party. The news hour programme on television, for example, was entirely reserved for the ruling party, while the opposition was only covered in glimpses. The state-controlled print media made it a point that the front page is reserved for the ruling party, in particular the President. In addition, the ground rules set were to the benefit of the ruling party.

The opposition candidates were not allowed to attack the ruling party, but were encouraged to concentrate on their agenda. Each time an opposition party interviewee attacked the track record of the ruling party, they were quickly called to order and roundly reminded to mind their own business. Thus, while the ruling party called the main opposition all sorts of names, the latter was expected to give the other cheek. There is therefore no doubt that the uneven access to the State media played a critical role in influencing the elections. ZANU (P.F.) had unlimited access to the State media, while the opposition did not, and that makes a difference.

The media environment in the run-up to the elections remained highly polarized. There was an insignificant shift two weeks before the election when the opposition had access to public media, but the scales remained tipped in favour of ZANU (PF). For example, The Herald hardly carried any news articles on the opposition but carried the opposition's adverts. The same issue would also carry a big story trashing the opposition thereby diluting the opposition's advertisements.

The Media Monitoring Project of Zimbabwe (MMPZ) gives an example of the government controlled Herald and Chronicle newspapers of March 27 2008 that published 24 reports on the elections.

MMPZ says eleven reports were on the parties' campaigns and eight on election administration. Politically motivated violence received three reports while the remaining two were on ZANU PF candidates' donations of goods and services to the electorate at rallies.

In the run-up to the election period, the Zimbabwe Broadcasting Corporation (ZBC) dedicated the first 20 minutes of its evening news bulletins to covering ZANU (PF) rallies and only about 3 minutes was dedicated to the opposition before they moved on to less important stories. However, two weeks before the elections opposition advertisements began getting some air time. Pre-election serious programming did provide some insight into various parties' manifestos but this was also marred by deliberate unprofessional interviewing of opposition candidates. There was clearly a big difference in the way ZANU (PF) officials were handled as compared to opposition officials. ZANU (PF) was given all the respect and time to answer questions while the opposition would be barraged with questions leaving them with no time to sometimes come up with meaningful answers.

According to MMPZ the national broadcaster continued to give ZANU (PF) massive coverage than its political competitors.

Equal opportunity to exercise the right to vote and be voted for Clearly, the work of the Delimitation Commission is critical to any election result. Not only were the urban constituencies reduced by the Delimitation Commission, some were married with resettlement areas, thus whittling down the anti-ZANU (P.F.), mainly urban, vote. On the basis of the reconfigured constituencies, it was relatively easy to foresee the results of the elections (see for instance the forecast by Dr. Joseph Kurebwa, a political scientist at the University of Zimbabwe, who predicted two weeks before the polls that ZANU (P.F.) would likely win the elections. The failure by Government to adequately dismantle the institutions of violence (the Youth Brigade and war veterans) and the draconian laws (POSA & AIPPA) implies that the playing field remained skewed in favour of the ruling party.

As a result of the delimitation exercise, a significant number of voters were unsure where they were going to vote, some could not find their names on the voters' roll resulting in 10% of voters being turned away. These disruptions mainly occurred in areas dominated by the opposition, which we suspect had been the target of the reconfiguration.

POLLING

Most polling stations where our observers were stationed, the voting process was smooth. With the exception of one area where one of our observers was asked to remove his ZCTU shirt and in Chegutu West where they were initially refused to observe until the constituency

Registrar intervened. There were no major problems in the voting process. In major cities although there were large queues in the morning, by mid day they had almost been cleared. However, problems were mainly with people who were being turned away because they had come to the wrong ward, or those who would have come with a drivers' license. Under the new electoral laws, drivers' licenses were outlawed as a form of identification for the purposes of voting.

There was also a problem, notably in Kuwadzana, where people whose identity documents reflected that they are aliens were turned away. A specific number was turned away for this reason.

Initially, the Amendment Act provided that police officers would be excluded from polling stations, except when they are voting or when they are specifically summoned to assist election officers in quelling a disturbance. However the exclusion of the police from the process was reversed by the Presidential Powers (Temporary Measures) (Amendment of Electoral Act) Regulations 2008 gazetted on 17 March 2008, which provides that police officers on duty are restored to the list of persons authorised to be present in a polling station. However, during our visit to stations, particularly in urban centers, there were no signs that people were being intimidated by the presence of the police.

The counting and tabulation of results at a polling station enhanced transparency and our observers were all happy with the process.

Announcement of results

Following the announcement of the Parliamentary results, the ruling party sought to circumvent the law by coercing ZEC not to pronounce senatorial and presidential results. Senatorial results were later announced but in a managed manner.

Results of the Presidential polls have not been published up to the time of the completion of this report. Instead, ZEC has ordered the recounting of ballots in 23 constituencies, arguing that votes in those constituencies had been miscounted, resulting in Zanu PF being prejudiced.

The counting of the ballots in the 23 constituencies was also instigated by complaints from Zanu PF, which charged that ZEC officials responsible for the counting of the ballots, had shortchanged it. Media reports in The Herald and the national radio and television indicated that a number of ZEC officials (10 polling officers) had been arrested for allegedly inflating presidential votes for Morgan Tsvangirai and under-reporting on President Robert Mugabe's ballot count.

Initial parliamentary results which had been released by ZEC had indicated that the MDC (Tsvangirai) had garnered 99 seats with Zanu PF getting 97 seats while the other formation of the MDC got 10 seats. Three other seats are still to be contested after some of the contestants died before the March 29 Poll.

In the senatorial ballot, Zanu PF garnered 30 seats while MDC (Tsvangirai) got 24 seats with the other formation of the MDC getting six seats.

Sensing possible defeat of the incumbent president Robert Mugabe, ZEC held onto the results, arguing that there were problems related to the compilation and verification of the results. On April 1, 2008, ZEC chairman, George Chiweshe had a run-in with the international media at the Meikles Hotel, where he said ZEC did not have the results days after polling and after they had been published at all polling stations throughout the country. He said ZEC was experiencing problems with transmitting the results to the National Command Centre due to limitations in communication as some of the areas where difficult to reach.

On April 5, 2008 Zanu PF politburo member and former Justice minister, Patrick Chinamasa came on national television, saying the presidential poll was heading for a run off as 'none of the candidates had garnered enough votes to avoid a second round'. Chinamasa however said results for the poll had not been published and warned that anyone claiming victory in the poll was committing a treasonous offence.

His comments came after MDC (Tsvagirai) had claimed victory in the presidential poll. Tendai Biti, the secretary general of the MDC (Tsvangirai) had told the international media that feedback from the party's polling agents in all the polling stations around the country had shown that Morgan Tsvangirai had scored more than 50.3 percent of the ballot, giving him absolute majority to avoid a run-off with Mugabe, who was said to have polled 41. 3 percent with Simba Makoni coming a distant third at slightly above seven percent.

Chinamasa, who was also doubling as the Zanu PF spokesman, warned MDC (Tsvangirai) against utterances to the effect that it had won the presidential poll, saying the government would decisively deal with anyone found guilty of such an 'offense'.

He however contradicted himself by saying that there was no way MDC could claim that it had won the election because ZEC had not released the presidential result.

Conclusion and Verdict

It should be noted that the environment before elections in Zimbabwe is the deciding factor in most of the elections. Elections have been rigged through partisan organs such as the ZEC under whose authority the Delimitation committee, the registrar of voters, and such other bodies like the police and the public media. Invitation and accreditation of observers is also extended to friendly countries and international bodies only.

Although the polling day appeared to have been conducted in a peaceful and free manner, it is wrong to base the free and fairness of an election on what happens on the polling day.

Electoral offences such as violence and intimidation of contesting parties have been committed with the bodies such as the police that should maintain law and order not reacting where the ruling party is the perpetrator.

There is also the issue of Government functions and party business not being separated. There has been a serious misuse of government resources in the election campaign by the ruling party rendering the playing field uneven.

There were many obstacles towards a free and fair election. These ranged from the chaotic state of the voters' roll, restrictions on the media, cancellation of political rallies, intimidations by headmen in rural areas and statements by the armed forces that they would not salute any other party leader who wins the elections, except Robert Mugabe.

The turn out was very low, but despite the election being not free and fair, it is important to note that despite all obstacles for people to exercise their vote, particularly in the rural areas, people defied all odds and voted.

Of major concern is that the results for the Presidential Elections were not released in time.

The Presidential Result was only released on May 2, 2008, five weeks after the elections. The MDC complained that it was not given time to participate in the verification process. ZESN, which had observed the whole electoral process also said it was not validating the result as ZEC had not procedurally verified the result process before announcing it.

In the Presidential result, MDC's Morgan Tsvangirai was said to have polled 47.9 percent of the vote, beating incumbent president, Robert Mugabe who garnered 43.2 percent. Independent presidential candidate Simba Makoni polled 8.3 percent with Langton Towungana, another presidential aspirant, polling 0.6 percent.

Below is a table of presidential results distribution as announced by ZEC.

| NAME OF CANDIDATE | NUMBER OF VOTES CAST | PERCENTAGE POLL |
|---|---|---|
| MORGAN TSVANGIRAI | 1 195 562 | 47.9 |
| ROBERT MUGABE | 1 079 730 | 43.2 |
| SIMBA MAKONI | 207 470 | 8.3 |
| LANGTON TOWUNGANA | 14 503 | 0.6 |

A run-off of the presidential poll has been set for June 27, 2008. According to ZEC, the election process will be WARD BASED. The process will also entail that results be published at polling stations, with the National Coloration Centre being tasked to verify and publish the results.

HARMONISED ELECTION 2008

29 MARCH 2008

PRELIMINARY REPORT

SUBMITTED TO: ZIMBABWE ELECTORAL COMMISSION
MINSTER FOR JUSTICE LEGAL AND PARLIAMNTARY AFFIARS

SUMMARY

The Zimbabwe Election Support Network (ZESN), a network of 38 independent, non-partisan non-governmental organisations, is observing all aspects of the electoral process for the 29 March 2008 Harmonized Elections. These efforts have included deploying 210 long-term observers (LTOs) and 8000 short-term observers (STOs), including rapid response observers, across Zimbabwe. Based on their observations of the entire process to date and using the Southern African Development Community (SADC) Principles and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections as minimum conditions for the conduct of elections, ZESN shares with the people of Zimbabwe its initial findings and conclusions on the 29 March 2008 Harmonized Elections. ZESN will continue to observe the process and issue updates as appropriate.

Pre-Election

Overall, while there have been improvements over past elections (for example less incidents of overt violence), the pre-election environment continues to fall short of the minimum conditions outlined in the SADC Principles and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections. In particular, concern remains about the lack of political tolerance, limited access to state media, and use of state resources. These problems provide an unfair advantage for the ruling party of the day.

Election Day

1) Setting Up of Polling Stations

Across Zimbabwe the opening of polling stations occurred largely without serious problems. From the representative random sample of rapid response polling stations, ZESN observers reported that the majority opened without any problem, while some had minor problems. Very few had major problems that affected the rights of Zimbabweans to vote. This pattern held across all provinces and for urban as well as rural areas.

2) Voting

The voting process took place largely without serious problems. However there were a number of polling stations where minor problems were reported, but these did not affect the right of Zimbabweans to vote. Also, ZESN observers reported that at a relatively large percentage of polling stations eligible voters with identification documents were not permitted to vote. According to reports from the representative random sample of rapid response polling stations, voting transpired at most polling stations without problems. This pattern did not vary by province or population density.

3) Closing of Polling Stations and Counting

The closing of polling stations and counting largely occurred without problems. According to reports from a representative random sample of rapid response polling stations, ZESN Observers agreed with the official vote count at nearly all of the polling stations. Similarly, at the majority of polling stations, all political party polling agents present agreed with the official vote count. At the close of poll, ZESN observers reported that everyone in the queue at 1900hrs was permitted to vote.

METHODOLOGY

Elections are a process, which includes pre-election, Election Day and post election periods. For the pre-election period ZESN initially recruited, trained and deployed 120 Long-Term Observers (LTOs). This number was increased to 210 LTOs due to the increase in the number of House of Assembly constituencies following the release of the Delimitation Report in January 2008. Based on information collected through these efforts ZESN issued six pre-election updates (available at www.zesn.org.zw). For Election Day, ZESN recruited, trained and deployed approximately 8,000 Short-Term Observers (STOs) to observe on election day. Among these were rapid response observers to move quickly initial reports on the conduct of the election. All ZESN Election Day observers were accredited by the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC) and read and signed a ZESN Code of Conduct requiring them to carry out their work impartially and honestly.

ZESN observes elections based on the minimum conditions set out in Southern African Development Community (SADC) Principles and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections. This document was adopted by SADC countries at the SADC Summit held in Mauritius in August 2004. Article 2.1 states that "SADC Member States shall adhere to the following principles in the conduct of democratic elections:

2.1.1 Full participation of the citizens in the political process;
2.1.2 Freedom of association;
2.1.3 Political tolerance;
2.1.4 Regular intervals for elections as provided for by the respective National Constitutions;
2.1.5 Equal opportunity for all political parties to access the state media;
2.1.6 Equal opportunity to exercise the right to vote and to be voted for;
2.1.7 Independence of the Judiciary and impartiality of the electoral institutions; and
2.1.8 Voter education
2.1.9 Acceptance and respect of the election results by political parties proclaimed to have been free and fair by the competent National Electoral Authorities in accordance with the law of the land.
2.1.10 Challenge of the election results as provided for in the law of the land."

PRE-ELECTION PERIOD

Overall, while there have been improvements over past elections (of note less incidents of more extreme violence), the pre-election environment continues to fall short of the minimum conditions outlined in the SADC Principles and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections. In particular, concern remains about the lack of political tolerance, limited access to state media, and use of state resources. These problems provide an unfair advantage for the ruling party of the day.

1) Electoral Framework

ZESN is encouraged that amendments were made to the Electoral Act and other relevant pieces of legislation such as the Public Order and Security Act (POSA), Access to Information and Protection of Privacy Act (AIPPA) and the Broadcasting Act.

However, ZESN is concerned that these reforms were piecemeal rather than comprehensive and that they were enacted without opportunities for citizens' input. Further, on the eve of the election some of the reforms were negated by presidential proclamation. For example, the reform to require police officers to be stationed 100 metres from polling stations was reversed and again police officers were to be located inside polling stations leading to concerns about the secrecy of the vote.

2) Election Administration

ZESN is encouraged that the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC) has, with the exception of the issue of voter registration, been more open to engaging with stakeholders. As part of this effort the ZEC also established a party liaison committee.

However, ZESN is concerned that the ZEC is not responsible for all elements of the electoral process (for example voter registration continues to fall under the Office of the Registrar General) and lacks sufficient and independent staff and funding to carry out its mission. The administration of elections has not always been transparent with some information that voters need to know in advance of Election Day not available or contradictory information being provided. Due to limited staffing and funding. Concerns continue to be raised about the overall technical competence of the ZEC to manage the electoral processes.

3) Voter Registration

ZESN is concerned about the conduct of the voter registration exercise. The voter registration process was hampered by logistical problems. Stations were not open or lacked materials. Insufficient and incorrect information was provided to citizens about the registration process. Inspection of the voters roll was initially scheduled for only one week from 01 to 07 February. This would have been the shortest inspection period since 1980. Ultimately, the ZEC did extend inspection of the voters' roll until 14 February to provide citizens more time to determine if their name was on the voters' roll and to take action if it was not. Concerns remain about the accuracy of the resulting voters roll.

4) Delimitation of Constituencies

ZESN is encouraged that a new delimitation exercise was conducted in advance of the 29 March 2008 Harmonized Elections.

However, ZESN is concerned that there was insufficient time for people to participate in the process. A preliminary Delimitation Report was not tabled, as envisioned in the law, to provide an opportunity for formal input by political parties. The final Delimitation Report was tabled in Parliament very late in the electoral process. This left little time to educate the public on changes to ward and constituency (House of Assembly and Senate) boundaries. It also caused confusion for the nomination process within political parties. For example, in Gwanda South the ruling party had already conducted its primaries for ward councillors and had to re-run these due to changes announced later following the release of the Delimitation Report.

5) Nomination of Candidates

ZESN is encouraged by the conduct of the nomination of candidates. This process went on largely without problems despite the date being shifted to provide additional time for the inspection of the voters roll.

However, ZESN is concerned about multiple candidates from the same party attempting to file nomination papers. This affected all of the parties fielding large numbers of candidates and in some instance led to intra-party violence and could lead to confusion on election day with multiple candidates with the same party symbol on the ballot paper.

6) Voter Education

ZESN is concerned that little voter education was conducted by the ZEC. ZEC's voter education efforts also started late and often contained either insufficient or incorrect information. This was particularly important, as these are harmonized elections involving for the first time voters having to cast four ballot papers. ZESN was banned by the ZEC from conducting voter education activities due to a law, which prevents organizations that receive foreign funding to conduct voter education.

7) Media Coverage

ZESN is encouraged by the appearance of advertisements from different political parties in state controlled media. Airtime has also been made available to different political parties on state controlled radio and televisions stations.

However, ZESN is concerned that the news in the state controlled media continues to be extremely biased in favour of the ruling party. Further, while there have been reforms to the laws governing media in Zimbabwe, there continues to be no independent radio or television stations. For more information see ZESN's member organization Media Monitoring Project of Zimbabwe (at www.mmpz.org)

8) The Campaign

The reduction ZESN in incidents of overt violence is encouraging. Further, all parties have largely been able to campaign across the country. There also appear to have been greater tolerance of political posters and other paraphernalia from opposition political parties.

However, ZESN is concerned that the ruling party in particular continues to employ intimidatory, inflammatory and threatening language. In particular service chiefs, such as Police Commissioner-General Augustine Chihuri, stated publicly that they would not salute anyone but Mugabe. The ruling party continues to use state resources to campaign. Beyond the use of state vehicles for ferrying people to attend rallies, government initiatives, such as the Reserve Bank of Zimbabwe (RBZ) farm mechanization programme as well as maize provided by the Grain Marketing Board (GMB), have been implemented on a partisan basis with only ruling party supporters benefiting. Traditional leaders continued to play a partisan role in elections. ZESN is concerned that the electoral playing field remains uneven.

9) Observation

ZESN is encouraged that the ZEC accredited both domestic and international observers. The accreditation and arrival of SADC observers appeared to coincide with an improvement in the pre-election environment.

However, ZESN is concerned that the ZEC is not responsible for determining which groups to accredit. Rather, the Minister for Justice, Parliamentary and Legal Affairs and the Minister of Foreign Affairs respectively first approve applications by domestic and international organizations. Many credible international organizations that are signatories to Declaration of Principles for International Observers were refused accreditation. Further, accreditation was only conducted in Harare and Bulawayo placing great hardship on individuals who wanted to serve the people of Zimbabwe by being a non-partisan election observer.

Election Day

1) Opening of Polling Stations

Across Zimbabwe the opening of polling stations occurred largely without serious problems. From the representative random sample of rapid response polling stations, ZESN observers reported that the majority opened without any problem, while some had minor problems. Very few had major problems that affected the rights of Zimbabweans to vote. This pattern held across all provinces and for urban as well as rural areas.

ZESN observers reported that at most polling stations the ballot boxes were shown to be empty before they were closed and sealed. The vast majority polling stations were set up so that voters could mark their ballots in secret. They were similarly supplied with indelible ink. According to ZESN observer reports the majority of polling stations opened on time.

Despite this positive trend there were some polling stations that reported problems during opening.

2) Voting

The voting process took place largely without serious problems. However there were a number of polling stations where minor problems were reported, but these did not affect the right of Zimbabweans to vote. Also, ZESN observers reported that at a relatively large percentage of polling stations eligible voters with identification documents were not permitted to vote. According reports from the representative random sample of rapid response polling stations, voting transpired at most polling stations without problems. This pattern did not vary by province or population density.

ZESN Observers reported that at some polling stations one or more potential voters with valid identification documents were turned away and not permitted to vote. At few polling stations more than 100 potential voters with valid identification documents were turned away and not permitted to vote. It is not clear if voters who were turned away were not registered or were trying to vote in the wrong ward that could be due to insufficient voter education. Regardless this could have lead to disenfranchisement.

At all polling stations where ZESN Observers were present they reported there were no people who were permitted to vote who already had indelible in on their finger. Further, no one was permitted to vote without their names being check on the voters roll. At polling stations, polling officials put indelible ink on the fingers of all voters. The majority of polling stations did not run out of ballot papers.

Despite this positive trend there were some polling stations that reported problems during voting.

3) Closing of Polling Stations and Counting

The closing of polling stations and counting largely occurred without problems. According to reports from a representative random sample of rapid response polling stations, ZESN Observers agreed with the official vote count at nearly all of the polling stations. Similarly, at the majority of polling stations, all political party polling agents present agreed with the official vote count. At the close of poll, ZESN observers reported that everyone in the queue at 1900hrs was permitted to vote.

4) Conclusion

ZESN will continue to observe the post election period before finalising its report and making an overall assessment of the election as well as recommendations to all stakeholders.

About ZESN

The Zimbabwe Election Support Network (ZESN) is a coalition of 38 non-governmental organisations formed in 2000 to co-ordinate activities pertaining to elections. The major focus of the Network is to promote democratic processes in general and free and fair elections in particular. It was also established to standardize the NGOs election related activities and methodology as well as to ensure wider geographical coverage and co-ordination of activities. The broad aim of the Network is therefore to enhance the election process in Zimbabwe in order to promote democracy and good governance in general as well as free and fair elections in particular whilst adhering to internationally acceptable standards.

ZESN's election observation effort for the 29 March 2008 Harmonized Elections is dedicated to the memory of Denford Beremauro. Denford was ZESN's programme officer for election observation. He was killed while travelling home to Hurungwe to Harare. He is deeply missed by his family, friends and everyone at ZESN. May he rest in peace.

ZFTU LOCAL OBSERVER TEAM'S REPORT

PRE- ELECTION PERIOD

Zimbabwe Federation of Trade Unions has been accredited by the commission to observe the above elections.

We managed to sent a team of 30 observers who were all accredited to various provinces throughout the country. All our observers submitted their observation to the Z.F.T.U Headquarters to which this report is based.

The environment was very peaceful throughout the country as evidenced by normal business throughout the country.

The campaign strategy was very peaceful. We witnessed the flighting of advertisement by ZEC educating people on the basis of these elections.

All polling stations were ready for elections as signified by the following:-

i) Polling booth had been mounted and ready for elections throughout the country.

ii) Law enforcement agency were present throughout the country to ensure peace and harmony prevail to every Zimbabwean.

iii) Election material to various polling stations were at the polling stations in time.

iv) Polling centres were adequate to carter for everyone throughout the country.

v) ZEC officials were at the centres well in time.

However we have observed that at certain polling stations in different provinces, ZEC directions were not placed giving problems in locating the polling stations.

ELECTION DAY

On the Election Day we witness long queues just before the starting time (7:00am). Most polling stations visited by Z.F.T.U local observers conducted their activities with full commitment and preparedness' as signified by the following:-

i) Presence of at least 5 PoliceOfficers or more at each Polling Stations to ensure peace prevails.

ii) We witnessed enough Polling officers at each polling station.

iii) We witnessed the presence of polling agency at all polling stations that we visited.

iv) We were satisfied by assistance rendered to the disadvantaged voters, e.g visually impaired and old aged voters on checking of legitimacy and for voting for the candidate of their choice.

We witnessed the turning away of a sizeable number of voters who were not appearing on the voters roll together with those who had no required identity.

In most polling stations visited by our team particularly peri-urban and rural areas, long queues were witnessed during early hours and grew shorter as the day progressed.

Part of Z.F.T.U local observers had an interaction with SADC observers in Kwekwe/Redcliff and Mashonaland East. In their sentimental with us in regard to the electoral process they seemed to have observed the same observations we have observed which sums up to a free and fair atmosphere.

All Z.F.T.U observer team did not come across any harassment of voters at any polling stations.

POST ELECTION

We observed that all the vote casted were displayed at each polling station and sent to the command centre without delay.

We also observed that the vote counting went well at most polling stations with V11 forms clearly completed and displayed at the Polling Station.

We visited the command centres and discovered that the figures were in total concurrence with those at the polling station.

Business throughout the country is continuing normally without any disruptions. The citizens themselves are enjoying their normal day to day activities without provocation from any of the contesting parties. The situation continues even after the announcement of the election results.

As Z.F.T.U local observers, we are convinced and satisfied with this Presidential Runn-off and House of Assembly by-election process as FREE and FAIR.

Respectfully yours

Preliminary Report on the Harmonized Elections 29 March 2008

1. Introduction

1.1 This report gives a brief account of the experiences of Zimbabwe Human Rights NGO Forum (The Human Rights Forum) in observing the harmonized elections 2008 held on 29 March 2008. The Forum's secretariat was invited by the Minister of Justice, Legal and Parliamentary Affairs to observe the elections on 25 March. In adherence to the rules and procedures of the laws governing the conduct of elections, the Observers Accreditation Committee of the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission accredited all staff of the Forum to observe the elections on 27 March 2008.

About the Forum

1.2 The Human Rights Forum is a coalition comprising 17 human rights NGO's in Zimbabwe. It has been in existence since January 1998 when nine non-Governmental organisations working in the field of human rights joined together to provide legal and psychosocial assistance to the victims of the Food Riots of January 1998. The Human Rights Forum has now expanded its objectives to assist victims of torture and organised violence. The Human Rights Forum operates a Research and Documentation Unit and offers legal services to assist victims of organised violence and torture claim compensation from perpetrators through its Public Interest Unit.

2. Methodology used in observing the Elections

Due to resource constraints and the need to be more focused, The Human Rights Forum decided to observe elections in Harare. To make it easier to observe the pre and post election environment, the Human Rights Forum divided Harare into four regions, North, South East and West. Staff was organised into teams of mobile observers who visited a number of polling station in a particular region. The visits, to check if there were any cases of violence, intimidatory behaviour, the preparedness of the police force and ZEC, were done on 28 Mach 2008. Observers went out again on polling day and conducted further post election observation on 30 March 2008.

Please find attached hereto, a preliminary report on the elections from the Zimbabwe Human Rights NGO Forum for your attention.

Preliminary findings

NB: These findings are based on a sample of 35 polling stations in Harare.

3. Political violence

The Human Rights Forum noted that for the three days that they observed the elections, there were isolated cases of politically motivated violence. It should be noted further that since January 2008, there had been a reduction in cases of overt violence related to the elections. The electorate was afforded a chance to cast their vote in a peaceful environment. Moreover, the observer teams did not witness or hear of any cases of politically-motivated violence within polling stations. These findings do not necessarily reflect the situation in the whole country as the Human Forum still waits to receive reports from some of its contacts countrywide.

4.Election administration

4.1 On the Election Day the observer team of the Human Rights Forum went to witness the opening of polling stations. It was noted that all the polling stations observed by our team opened on time (07:00hrs) with a sizable number of people queuing up to vote. Most Presiding Officers were co-operative and exhibited professional conduct when visited by our observer teams. Ballot boxes were clearly marked. Most areas visited were free of party poster and campaign activities. Agents of all the political parties contesting, as well as the Zimbabwe Election Support Network (ZESN) observers, were present in all the polling stations visited.

4.2 Most polling stations closed on time (1900hrs) and the process of verification and counting started thereafter. Due to the fact that the queues were finished as early as 16:00 hours, most polling stations were closed at the requisite time.

4.3 Major challenges that were observed by our team were numerous. Consequently the Human Rights Forum notes at this juncture that it will consult with other stakeholders to see if an audit of the concerns raised by our staff can be addressed. The concerns raised thus far include:

4.3.1 Late accreditation of observers by ZEC. The Human Rights Forum's Observer team and many of those from other civil society organizations, was only accredited on the eve of the elections.

However, the accreditation cards were noting that the accreditation had been given on 11 February. This was a misrepresentation because it would cause the false impression that our observers had started on that date.

4.3.2 Numerous voters were turned away from polling stations due to the fact that they had visited the wrong ward. The Human Rights Forum is of the view that if adequate voter education had been carried out, a huge number of voters would not have been turned away. There is an unverified assumption that this development could have disenfranchised potential voters who felt that the process had become too cumbersome and frustrating.

4.3.3 Huge numbers of voters who were said to be aliens were also turned away in areas such as Highfield, Mbare, Mufakose and Mabvuku – Tafara where most of the people who migrated from Zambia, Malawi and Mozambique reside.

4.3.4 A number of people who had their forms of identification, such as drivers' licenses were also turned away. Although it is known that people were supposed to have national ID cards or passports, the Human Rights Forum still maintains the view that ZEC should have done a better job in educating voters prior to the election on the requirements of the election. Moreover, civil society organizations mandated with such activities, such as ZESN should have been involved as well in voter education activities.

4.3.5 The presence of the police in polling stations caused a stir when it was announced. The Human Rights Forum supports the views of other civil society groups that the presence of a discredited police force in polling stations could have compromised the voting process through perceived intimidation.

5. Conclusion

5.1 It can be concluded that the polling day was free from cases of overt political violence and there were no major electoral administration problems. The issues that have been raised above will be formally raised with ZEC when all the evidence of the irregularities has been compiled and verified.

NB. A more detailed report judging the credibility of the harmonized Elections will be done. International instruments such as the SADC Principles and Guidelines Governing Democratic Elections will be used. Issues such as political tolerance, limited access to state media, the use of state resources, limited voter education and information; lack of transparency in postal voting and production and distribution of ballot papers will be reviewed.

RE: PRELIMINARY REPORT
PRESENTED BY THE ZIMBABWE NATIONAL DRIVERS UNION (ZINDU) DELEGATION HEAD PASCOE EKEMU CHAKANETSA - ELECTION OBSERVER DELEGATION (LOCAL OBSERVER) ON THE ZIMBABWE HARMONIZED ELECTIONS HELD ON THE 29TH MARCH 2008.

In terms of Section 6 (4)(e) of the Electoral Act (Chapter 2:13) the Minister of Justice Legal and Parliamentary Affairs is vested with the power to invite individuals representing local organization and eminent persons from within Zimbabwe to observe elections in Zimbabwe. As to the provision of the Act the local observers are required to furnish the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission with a preliminary report before the counting of votes.

Against this background my organization ZINDU is hereby furnishing the Electoral Commission on its observations before the vote counting.

Firstly the Elections which were held on the 29th March 2008 in Zimbabwe were the most difficult ones as they were held in a harsh economic environment due to the illegal sanctions imposed to the country by Britain as the former colonizers of Zimbabwe and its allies Viz-Vee Australia and America. The sanctions which were called for by the Movement for Democratic Change (M.D.C) the archrival to the Ruling Party ZANU (PF) and Government over the Land Acquisition and Redistribution exercise to its indigenous Black Zimbabweans who were disadvantaged in the colonial era by the white settlers who enjoyed monopoly by the farming sector.
However the Government of Zimbabwe despite the economic heat they were able to conduct the much awaited elections and in particular by the Western countries because they are accusing the Harare Government on the allegations of Human Rights violations.

Secondly, turning to the just ended voting processes. I want to believe that in the whole world there has never been such above Free and Fair Elections as held in Zimbabwe where demonisation of the country by its detractors, was and still is the order of the day to the International Community. Although we were not able to cover all the ten provinces. our source of information. the Media was always reporting as it was on the ground in terms of the Democratic Processes in conducting the modern world Elections respectively.

Thirdly, the Voters' Roll was inspected by all the political parties who were preparing to contest in the Harmonised Elections on the 29th of March 2008. In fact the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission (ZEC) conducted a Voter Education Exercise to all the Zimbabweans who were previously in the Voter's Roll and those who were not on the Roll were urged to register as that was their Constitutional Rights to vote for their Councilors, House of Assembly members, Senators and the Presidential candidates, since this was the objective of the Harmonised Elections in Zimbabwe. Following the Constitutional Amendment No 18 as agreed by both the two MDC factions and the Ruling Party ZANU (PF) under the South African President CDE Thabo Mbeki who was delegated by the SADC Countries in terms of SADC Election Democratic Provisions to the member states including Zimbabwe.

Fourthly, the Government invited more than fifty countries to observe the elections. notably Russia. China. India and many others who enjoyed good relations with the Government. More importantly, the 12th December Movement based in America was invited. headed by Cde Coltrat Chimurenga respectively.

In summary. ZINDU predicts ZANU (PF) Presidential Candidate to gunner 53% of the votes and 150 House of Assembly Seats and the MDC Tsvangirai being the closest contender as at this moment in time ZANU (PF) has won 1 House of Assembly Seat unopposed and one Senatorial seat as well unopposed and more than 400 Councilors countrywide, where we predict about 1000 Councilors will be taken on board by the Ruling Party ZANU (PF).

Lastly but not least we commend ZEC for the Peaceful Elections conducted.

Attention: Honourable Justice Chiweshe

The Chairman
Zimbabwe Electoral Commission
7th Floor, Century House
HARARE

Dear Sir,

Re: PRESIDENTIAL RUN-OFF ELECTION SCHEDULED FOR THE 27TH JUNE 2008

I write this letter to advise you that for reasons set out in this letter, it is no longer possible for the holding of the Presidential run-off election set for the 27th June 2008.

In my considered view, the conditions presently obtaining thoughout the country make it virtually impossible for a proper election envisaged in both the Constitution of Zimbabwe and the Electoral Act [Chapter 2.13] to take place. This being the case, the election scheduled for Friday 27th June 2008 cannot be an election as provided for by our law and accordingly, it will be a nullity if it were to be proceeded with.

Section 107 of the Electoral Act deals with the withdrawal of candidature from a Presidential election. Subsection 1 thereof provides that a nominated candidate for election as President may, by notice in writing addressed to the Chief Election Officer withdraw his or her candidature before 21 days from the day or first day as the case may be on which the poll in an election to the office of President is to be taken. This section in my respectful view does not apply to a Presidential run off election. Section 110 (3) provides that where two or more candidates for President are nominated, and after a poll taken in terms of subsection (2) no candidate receives a majority of the total number of valid votes cast, a second election shall be held within 21 days after the previous election. It is quite clear therefore that Section 107 (1) was clearly not designed for a presidential run-off election as it would not make sense to expect a candidate from a presidential run-off election to give 21 days notice of his/her withdrawal where such election has to be held within 21 days anyway.

Section 107(3) makes it much more clearer that Section 107 does not apply to a presidential run-off election. It provides that:-

> "where a candidate for election as President has withdrawn his/her candidature in terms of this section, the sum deposited by or on his behalf in terms of subsection (1) of Section 105 shall be forfeited and form part of the funds of the commission".

No money was ever deposited for the Presidential run-off election in terms of Section 105 by any candidate.

Furthermore, there has been no rules prescribed for the conduct of a presidential run-off election and in particular the notice period set for the withdrawal of candidature by a participant. Accordingly, any candidate wishing to withdraw his candidature is free to do so at any time before such an election.

In any event, as I have already pointed out, the election set for the 27th June 2008 is not a proper election but a nullity. In the circumstances, the question of the withdrawal from such an election and the notice thereof cannot be an issue.

REASONS FOR WITHDRAWAL

In terms of Section 61(4) of the Constitution of Zimbabwe, the Zimbabwe Electoral Commission is obliged by law to ensure that elections are conducted efficiently, freely, fairly, transparently and in accordance with the law.

Section 3 of the Electoral Act sets out in detail the principles which must govern democratic elections. This Section provides as follows:-

> "Subject to the Constitution and this Act, every election shall be conducted in a way that is consistent with the following principles-
> (a) the authority to govern derives from the will of the people demonstrated through elections that are conducted efficiently, freely, fairly, transparently and properly on the basis of universal and equal suffrage exercised through a secret ballot; and
> (b) every citizen has the right-
> (i) to participate in government directly or through freely chosen representatives, and is entitled, without distinction on the ground of race, ethnicity, gender, language, political or religious belief, education, physical appearance or disability or economic or social condition, to stand for office and cast a vote freely;
> (ii) to join or participate in the activities or and to recruit members of a political party of his or her choice;
> (iii) to participate in peaceful political activity intended to influence the composition and policies of Government;

(iv) to participate, through civic organisations, in peaceful activities to influence and challenge the policies of Government; and

(c) every political party has the right-

(i) to operate freely within the law;

(ii) to put up or sponsor one or more candidates in every election;

(iii) to campaign freely within the law;

(iv) to have reasonable access to the media".

What has been going on in this country immediately after the elections held on the 29th March 2008 is a clear testimony that the elections scheduled for the 27th June 2008 cannot be held efficiently, freely, fairly, transparently and in accordance with the law.

On the 21st May 2008, after having noted the sad events that were happening, I instructed my Legal Practitioners Dube Manikai & Hwacha to write a letter to you setting out in detail various concerns which were an impediment to the holding of a free and fair election. For ease of reference, I attach a copy of the said letter. Sadly, that letter was neither acknowledged nor responded to. In my view, if your commission had taken steps to abide by its constitutional mandate, the situation would have probably not worsened. Regrettably, the situation since the letter from my lawyers has worsened to such an extent that no proper election can be carried out. I set out below few examples of the adverse conditions that vitiate the holding of a free and fair election as envisaged in our law:-

1. THE FAILURE BY THE ELECTORAL COMMISSION TO ENSURE FREE AND FAIR ELECTIONS

Your Commission has failed to discharge its mandate in the following respects;

1.1 Your Commission failed to declare a winner of the Presidential elections as provided for in the Third Schedule of the Electoral Act. This point was well articulated by my lawyers in their letter of the 21st May 2008 and I associate myself with the submissions made in that letter in regards to this issue. In my view, a Presidential run-off election should have been conducted after due compliance by your Commission and in particular the Chief Election officer with this Section.

1.2 Your Commission has failed to stop and/or condemn continued utterances by senior Zanu PF officials including Mr Robert Mugabe to the effect that irrespective of the election result, Mr Robert Mugabe was not going to move out of his office. The failure by your Commission to condemn such utterances right from the beginning clearly encouraged Zanu PF, war veterans aligned to Zanu PF, senior Zanu PF officials and Mr Robert Mugabe to make it their theme during their campaigns that a President does not come to power through the electoral process but rather through the barrel of the gun. This theme which has become pervasive thoughout the Zanu PF campaigns makes people wonder whether we are in an election or in a war.

1.3 Your commission failed to abide by the provision of the Electoral Act when it failed to conduct the presidential run-off election within 21 days from the date of announcement of the presidential elections results conducted on the 29th March 2008.

2. VIOLENCE

The violence currently obtaining in this country which has resulted in numerous deaths, destruction of homes, displacement of various people and injuries to people is something that is clearly in the public domain. As of today, the country has recorded at least 86 deaths, 10 000 homes destroyed , 200 000 people displaced and 10 000 people injured.

The victims have been MDC supporters. The violence has been clearly state sponsored and carried out in most cases by members of the Zimbabwe National Army and ZANU PF militia. It is true that in some instances our supporters have fought back, inmost cases in self defence. Because of our inability to access the rural areas, the above statistics may be understated.

If this present scenario is compared to the period towards the 29 March harmonised election, it is evident that the conditions on the ground have fundamentally changed for the worse. The above statistics clearly show that the electoral environment is not conducive to the holding of a free and fair election.

3. THREATS OF WAR

Throughout its campaigns, Zanu PF has threatened that there will be war if an MDC win in the presidential run-off is pronounced. Mr Mugabe made it quite clear recently that power cannot be taken by a pen but by a gun. War veterans aligned to him have articulated this position throughout the country. These sentiments were echoed by senior Zanu PF officials including the President's wife when she clearly made the point that even if I was to win, I was never to set my foot at the State house. Mr Mugabe also came out on National television encouraging his party members to PF official who are responsible for carrying out the intimidation. These incidents have been brought to your attention but unfortunately nothing has been done by your Commission by way of assuring the voters that their votes are secret as was the case during the run up to the March harmonised elections. Infact, the voter education campaign which was reasonably conducted during the run up to the March 2008 harmonised election has not been repeated. You have simply allowed Zanu PF, war veterans aligned to Zanu PF and Robert Mugabe to scare the people by suggesting quite clearly that presidential run-off vote is between a choice of war and Robert Mugabe.

In my view, there can never be a free and fair election under these circumstances.

6. NON-ACCESS TO MEDIA

The law clearly provides that a political party is entitled to enjoy reasonable access to the media. My party booked space for its advertisements with Zimpapers newspapers namely Herald, Sunday Mail, Chronicle, Sunday News and the Manica Post which adverts were to commence on the 13th June 2008. We were advised that our publications could not be published because of the shortage of newsprint. What surprised us was that Zanu PF's campaign advertisements are being carried in these newspapers on a daily basis. We also encountered problems with our electronic advertisements with the Zimbabwe Broadcasting Holdings which effectively resulted in our failure to have access to media. This is in sharp contrast with what occurred during the run up to the March 2008 harmonised elections where we were given reasonable access to the media. The importance of media advertisement in any election is quite critical and it is for this reason that media access was specifically provided for in our law. Without this right, there can be no free and fair elections.

7. THE BANNING OF MDC RALLIES AND MEETINGS AND DISRUPTION OF MDC MEETINGS

Since I launched my campaign for the presidential run-off elections, I have encountered numerous difficulties occasioned by agents of the State. I have been detained at police stations on numerous occasions and thereby denied time to campaign. Our meeting and rallies have been banned by the police. We have had to approach the High Court on no less than 3 occasions for the court to intervene to enable us to go ahead with our rallies. On the contrary, Zanu PF is being allowed to conduct its campaign rallies even during the night. In the few cases that our rallies have been allowed to go ahead pursuant to these Court Orders, Zanu PF supporters have disrupted such rallies. On Sunday the 22nd June 2008, our star rally in Harare, in respect of which a High Court Order had to be applied for to proceed with such rally was disrupted by Zanu PF supporters. Clearly it is impossible for any political party to campaign let alone to exist without being allowed to have access to the voting population. In these circumstances, it cannot therefore be said that the environment presently obtaining is conducive for the holding of a free and fair election.

8. DISENFRANCHISEMENT OF VOTERS AND LACK OF ACCESS TO RURAL AREAS

As you are aware voting in the Presidential election is constituency and ward based. In other words no person can vote outside his or her constituency and ward. The massive displacement of people already referred to herein (mainly from rural to urban areas) will result in the disenfranchisement of these people. The confirmed reports we have received confirm that there has been massive and systematic confiscation of national identity documents of our supporters by ZANU PF militia and people claiming to be war veterans. Until our supporters are able to replace these identity documents (which cannot be done by Friday 27 June 2008) they are obviously not going to be able to vote.

Furthermore, more than two thousand of our polling agents throughout the country have been arrested and kept in custody on flimsy allegations. They will certainly be unable to vote. We have trained replacement polling agents, but unfortunately we cannot possibly make arrangement for their deployment in rural areas as it is common cause that the rural areas have virtually been sealed off by ZANU PF militia, some members of the Zimbabwe National Army and people claiming to be war veterans. We will therefore be unable to deploy polling agents at more than 50% of the polling stations in rural areas. Certainly there can be no pretence of holding a free and fair election under these conditions.

From the foregoing and indeed due to several other reasons not necessarily covered in this letter, it is quite clear that no proper election can be held under the present conditions. The present conditions constitute a good example of conditions that vitiate the holding a free and fair election. My party and I have been giving serious consideration to this whole issue for some time, during which time it was hoped that a semblance of a conducive environment may be created as has been the case with other elections where we have participated under protest. The situation obtaining now is very different from what has been experienced in this country since independence. The violence, intimidation, death, destruction of property is just too much for anyone to dream of a free and fair election let alone expect our people to be able to freely and independently express to free themselves. For this reason, my party and I have resolved that we cannot be part to this flawed process. For the avoidance of any doubt the presidential election question remains unresolved until such time a free and fair election is held.

We accordingly urge you to abide by your mandate clearly spelt out in our constitution and in particular ensure that a proper environment conducive for the holding of an efficient, free, fair, and transparent election is held in the shortest period of time possible. It is only in that kind of an election that my party and I will participate in.

By copy of this letter ZANU PF's candidate Mr. Robert Mugabe, the Chief Election Officer and your Commissioners are advised accordingly.

Yours sincerely
