Foreword

THE PROVINCIAL STATISTICAL REPORTS

Introduction

The Constitution Select Committee (COPAC) was set up through Article IV of the Global Political Agreement to spearhead the Constitution making process through a people driven, inclusive and democratic process. The Constitution making process aimed to create conditions for the people of Zimbabwe to write a constitution for themselves being mindful of the need to ensure that the new constitution deepens our values and principles and the protection of the quality of life of all citizens.

In the implementation of the above mandate the following timeframes were provided:

(i) The Select committee shall be set up within two months of inception of a new government;

(ii) The convening of the first All Stakeholders Conference shall be within 3 months of the date of the appointment of the Select Committee;

(iii) The public consultation process shall be completed no later than four months of the date of the first All Stakeholders Conference;

(iv) The draft Constitution shall be tabled within 3 months of completion of the public consultation process to a second All Stakeholders Conference;

(v) The draft Constitution and the accompanying Report shall be tabled before Parliament within 1 month of the second All Stakeholders Conference;

(vi) The draft Constitution and the accompanying report shall be tabled before Parliament and the debate concluded within one month;

(vii) The draft Constitution emerging from Parliament shall be gazette before the holding of a referendum;

(viii) A referendum on the new draft Constitution shall be held within 3 months of the conclusion of the debate;

(ix) In the event of the draft Constitution being approved in the referendum it shall be gazette within 1 month of the date of the referendum; and

(x) The draft Constitution shall be introduced in Parliament no later than 1 month after the expiration of the period of 30 days from the date of its gazetting.

Regrettably, the completion of this process took longer than anticipated for reasons that will be elaborately explained in the overall National Report, save to say that the lack of adequate and timeous funding were major issues, as well as the need to ensure that all stakeholders are extensively consulted at every stage of the process. It is important at this stage to state clearly that whilst this brief, which is about the Provincial Statistical Reports seeks to give the statistical details of the outcome of the outreach process province by province, the National Report referred to above will extensively cover the whole process, and will specifically incorporate the following activities:

a. The convening and outcomes of the first All Stakeholders Conference in 2009.
b. The establishment of the Select Committee secretariat, as well as the training of outreach teams in December 2009 and January 2010.
c. The training of Rapporteurs in April 2010.
d. The nationwide outreach programme between June and October 2010.
e. The Data uploading process between January and February 2011.
f. The holding of Thematic Committee meetings between April and May 2011.
g. The Report writing process between July and September 2011.
h. The data and process auditing exercise in October 2011.
i. The preparatory work for drafting in November 2011.
j. The drafting process between December 2011 and March 2012.
k. The second All Stakeholders Conference.
l. The Report to Parliament.
m. The Referendum process.

Readers of this Provincial Statistical Report will be able to bear witness to the tremendous work the Select Committee has put into the process. Equally, this Provincial Statistical report will show the sheer determination of the Select Committee to give effect to what the people said during outreach. This report is a product of extensive discussions, and contains critical information that can be used for future national development processes. The meticulous process from the preparation of the ward to this Provincial Statistical Reports bear testimony to the wonderful work of the Select Committee, and will forever remain one of the most ingenious processes ever under taken in this country at a critical juncture in our political discourse.

Brief overview of the outreach process

COPAC embarked on an outreach consultative programme to collect the peoples' views to form the constitution. The process took 105 days to complete against the budgeted 65 days due to the need to ensure the majority of the people participated as some of the meetings were cancelled due to non attendance by the people as a result of lack of adequate information on venues and starting times.

Seventy teams were set up comprising of representatives of the three main political parties civic society and other political parties to ensure the inclusive and democratic nature of the process pursuant to the requirements of article VI of the GPA.

Generally the public hearings were held in a peaceful environment, save for some cases of violence which resulted in some meetings, especially in Harare being abandoned. A rerun for those aborted meetings was however successfully undertaken. A total of 4821 public meetings were held in 1950 wards nationwide. Thematic based questions were asked using a standard guide in the form of the 17 thematic areas produced at the first all Stakeholders conference thereafter generally referred to as the 26 Talking Points. The Talking points comprised of questions which required listing and those which required scoring. At these public meetings participation was voluntary and all the responses were recorded in written and electronic formats. These responses formed the basis of this statistical analysis.

In the rural areas at least three public meetings were held per ward while in the urban areas, there were generally no more than one meeting in each ward. During data analysis, two views emerged, with one view suggesting the use of a meeting as the unit of measurement and another suggesting the use of the ward. Following extensive discussions, the Select Committee resolved to use the ward as the unit of measurement rather than the meeting since this would have given an unfair advantage to areas which had more meetings than others. The Select Committee agreed to collapse all outcomes of ward based meetings into a ward view. On questions which required scoring (generally referred to as the quantitative approach) the most frequently mentioned response was recorded as the ward view. On questions that required listing (generally referred to as the qualitative approach), all the views were listed. The Select Committee resolved that both the quantitative as well as the qualitative approaches were to be used in determining the importance of an issue raised during meetings.

Data Analysis

Statistics from outreach were consolidated into a database for use during the extraction of the Ward, District, Provincial and National Statistical reports. For questions which required listing the number of wards in which an issue was mentioned out of 1950 wards was expressed as a percentage. For questions which required scoring the relative proportions in which the issues were mentioned in the various wards were expressed as a percentage giving a total of 100 percent.

Interpretation of Statistics

The percentages generated in the statistical reports are based on the number of wards in which an issue was mentioned out of the total number of wards. It therefore gives a general indication of the views which came out of the public consultative process. Given the fact that this was not a scientific study, the Select Committee resolved that both the statistics (quantitative) and the qualitative aspects of the outcomes (for example meeting atmosphere and others) must be taken into account in deciding what would eventually go into the constitution. The interpretation of these statistics therefore has to take into account these limitations in the methodology used. Whilst a high frequency was a general guide that in itself was not the sole determinant of the importance of an issue enough to find its way into the Draft Constitution that has been produced. It is for this reason that the Select Committee adopted two versions of interpreting the final data: the National Statistical Report (version 1), which aggregates the outcomes in each ward and expresses that as a percentage of all the wards in the country, and the Provincial Statistical Reports (version 2), which basically indicate how an issue faired per each province without subjecting it to the outcomes of other provinces.

This Version 2 gives the provincial preponderance of an issue without considering the overall national outlook which the National Statistical Report seeks to illuminate. Where an issue for example enjoyed 100 percent frequency in each of five provinces and an average of 5 percent in each of the other five provinces in the country, the provincial preponderance would suggest a thorough analysis as to the reasons of the divergence of views across the country than subject everyone to the overwhelming views of the high scoring provinces as advanced by version 1. The tendency of the Select Committee on such issues was to therefore come up with a middle of the road position where applicable, in order to give effect to the diverse view points which emerged, rather than taking the absolute percentage in toto as advanced by version 1 approach, notwithstanding the fact that the version 1 approach was an acceptable general guide, and most issues with high frequencies found their way into the Draft Constitution.

Drafting Process

The drafting process commenced with extraction of constitutional issues by a team of technical experts drawn from the 3 main political parties and representatives from the Chief's Council. These issues were drawn from the consultative meetings, Members of Parliament ,the website submissions, children's outreach and other sectoral submissions.

Thereafter a process was undertaken to determine which Constitutional issues should go into the Constitution, and the approaches highlighted above were extensively used in this determination

Following the realization that there were some gaps in the information collected and that the type of questions asked during the consultative process answered the "what" component but did not address the "how" aspect, a team of local technical experts was mandated to identify the gaps in the information and research on how the gaps could be filled as well as research on best practices on implementation. The Gap filling process was done to bring into effect what the people had said.

The 'Agreed Issues Document', the 'Gap Filling Document', the 'Constitutional Principles' and the 'Draft Framework' formed the basic instructions given to the Drafters. All these documents were derived from the National and Provincial Statistical Reports (version 1 and 2), and because these documents were a product of extensive discussion and analysis, the Select Committee resolved that the drafters could not use the National and Provincial Statistical Reports as these would further confuse drafters and probably result in undermining what the Select Committee would have agreed to.

Note

The views of Zimbabweans in the diaspora, website submissions, views of Members of Parliament, Children, the Disabled and sectorial submissions are contained in separate reports to be incorporated into the final National Report, suffice to say that the views as expressed by these groups have already been taken into account in the Draft Constitution.

Conclusion

The Select Committee wishes to thank Zimbabweans for contributing extensively during the outreach meetings, and for being patient with COPAC in its trying times. You have remained calm in the face of attempts to stir up emotions, and have patiently waited for this moment in the country's history. The Draft Constitution produced, with the assistance of the negotiators to the GPA in unlocking some sticky issues, is still a draft, and the people of Zimbabwe have an opportunity to further interrogate the Draft between at the second All Stakeholders Conference. We urge Zimbabweans to have a national outlook in the conversations that follow, and to shun divisive tendencies and politics of hatred. It is our Constitution, it is our moment, and it is our heritage.

ensuring a people-driven constitution

Agreement

Whereas,on the 12th of May 2011, the Ad hoc Committee of the Select Committee agreed on the methodology to be used in the compilation of the Ward, District, Provincial and National Thematic reports.

Whereas, the Select Committee meeting of the 13th of May 2011 ratified and adopted the agreement.

Whereas,pursuant to the agreement, disagreements arose regarding implementation and interpretation of the agreement as related to the compilation of the District, Provincial and National Reports.

And whereas, the Management Committee called upon the Three Co Chairpersons to formulate an agreement to resolve this impasse.

NOW THEREFORE THE PARTIES AGREE AS FOLLOWS:

1. That effect should be given to the resolution of the Ad hoc Committee as ratified and adopted by the Select Committee on the 13th of May 2011.
2. For the avoidance of any doubt it is hereby recorded that both the qualitative and quantitative approaches are going to be used in the compilation of the District,Provincial and National Thematic Committee Reports.
3. Where it becomes necessary to ascertain views on the basis of their superior frequencies those views enjoying superior frequencies shall be clearly marked while those having inferior frequencies shall also be marked separately.
4. In respect of questions requiring scoring, the preponderance of views shall be based on the cumulative frequencies of those views. The number of meetings per ward shall be the denominator of the frequency fraction. For example, if there are 8 meetings the frequency denominator shall be 8. Where there are 7 meetings the frequency denominator shall be 7 [eg.4/8 and 4/7 respectively]
5. In respect of questions requiring listing, the folowing shall apply:
   i. All responses shall be captured.
   ii. The frequency of the issues raised at each ward meeting shall be recorded.

Arms of State

CHILDREN'S PARLIAMENT

2. ARMS OF THE STATE

The Children's Parliament suggested that Executive powers be vested in the: President; King; President and Prime Minister and Prime Minister only with other views agreeing to have both appointed by a popular vote through a general election and the Prime Minister to be appointed from a party with a majority in Parliament. It was further expressed that All Ministers should be MP's and that they be appointed by the President; By the Executive on Merit and by the Prime Minister respectively

It was suggested that there be two houses of Parliament while the other view was that there be one house of assembly. There was a divided opinion on MP's who are appointed. It was further acknowledged that MP's should not be allowed to cross floor with their seats, however there was a divided opinion on the same issue

There should be Parliamentary seats reserved for Women and the Disabled whilst there was a divided opinion on Parliamentary seats to be reserved for: Traditional Leaders; Disabled and Special interest groups.

The need to add a constitutional court to the current setup of the court system was outlined with another view advocating for the maintenance of the status quo.It was further suggested that the President appoints Judges on merit while others suggested that they be appointed by an independent commission

Labour

24. LABOUR

The constitutional provisions that were raised by the children's parliament are in six categories i.e. remuneration, health and safety, leave, employee benefits, employment contracts, pensions and retirement respectively. It was suggested that teachers be adequately remunerated. All civil servants to be paid salaries that are above the Poverty Datum Line (PDL). Teachers' incentives should be banned and must be paid by the Government. Regarding health and safety, the constitution should enshrine the workers' rights to friendly working conditions, compensation for injury at work and the observation of health and safety regulations. The constitution should guarantee employee rights to vacation leave, fully paid maternity leave and paternity leave. Workers must have 12% of company profits and employment contracts should clearly stipulate working hour's i.e. up to 8 hours a day. Workers to have the right to pension.

Federal and Devolved are the two systems mentioned. The community said yes to Provincial Governments.

Views mentioned on Type of Government are Provincial Governments, Provincial Assembly reporting to central government, Elected Provincial Councils and devolved system. They felt that they should be appointed by the President, Parliament, on merit and with a proposal that Governors be elected by councillors, electorate and by proportional representation.

The community aired out that there should be devolved structures/Decentralise government offices and do away with chiefs.

In terms of Tenure the community felt that the Governor and Councillors voted for should have one 5 year term, the Provincial Governor should serve a maximum two 5 year terms, the Head of State and MPs 5 years and Local Government 4 years. Officials elected to be non-partisan.

A local government institution will govern the affairs of its community subject to national and provincial governments. Office bearers i.e. elected Councillors or Mayors should have the necessary qualifications/competence/potential capacity. There should be provision of a moderator and a deputy.

Reseacher Reseacher Reseacher

An Act of Parliament will provide for the establishment and powers of the local government institution, including by-laws and regulations and levy rates and taxes.

On functions of Provincial and Local Governments the community has a feeling that there should be formulate policies that raise revenue in their areas, enact and enforce by-laws, development and maintenance of infrastructure, attract investors, promote peace, spearhead development (social, economic and infrastructural) and social amenities.

On Administration Provincial Governments should craft their own budgets, taxation powers and do revenue collection. They should practice a devolved system of local Governance.

The suggested number of Provinces was 10, 5 and 8, determined as follows; as it is/status quo, not named on tribal grounds, current names are fine, Manicaland, Mashonaland, Matabeleland, Midlands, Masvingo plus one, Eastern, Western ,Southern, Northern and Central and Geographical demarcation.

8. TRADITIONAL INSTITUTIONS

Traditional leaders (Izinduna, Sabhuku, Abalisa) should be in the constitution and their court systems to be recognised and respected.

In as much as for the Selection/Appointment it was the community's feeling that women should also be appointed traditional leaders and that all traditional leaders should be trained by the judiciary and educated to a minimum education standard.

In respect of functions, duties and responsibilities of traditional leaders, it was also felt that there should be preservation of culture, tradition, history and heritage. Traditional leaders should preside over village courts, submit, report cases to magistrates courts for checking, intervene on family disputes, enforce traditional and customary laws, deal with communal land issues, be custodians but not administrators of land and law, manage natural resources and promote Zunde Ramambo. Traditional leaders should also be included in provincial and local governments, apolitical and impartial.

12. PUBLIC FINANCE

In respect of Public Finance and revenue collection in particular the people mentioned the following that revenue should be collected through taxes and duties and levies. As for the management the people have the feeling that there should be a central bank that should be given limited borrowing powers and exercise transparency.

In terms of supervision and Oversight people mentioned that there should be a Board of Directors/Governors, overseeing by the Ministry of finance, Reserve Bank of Zimbabwe and Parliament.

When formulating the budget the grassroots should be consulted and its details should be published in all languages. Management of same should be apolitical and tender system should be transparent.

Apart from the above and on accountability and transparent issues there should be an Act of Parliament, annual audited reports, a report by the Finance Minister to parliament quarterly, and an Independent audit.

The functions of the RBZ and Monetary Policy in particular, the community mentioned the following; control of inflation, regulate local currency, taxes and interests rates. Other functions of the RBZ as they are mentioned by the people are advisor to government, lender of last resort, local bank supervision, promotion of economic development and quasi fiscal activities.

The community mentioned that the RBZ Governor should be appointed by Parliament, President, Ministry of Finance, on merit and the person should be apolitical.

The community further highlighted that the Central Bank should be independent, have autonomy, have an Independent Commission/Board, be under the Ministry of Finance and should publicise government expenditure.

2. ARMS OF THE STATE

The views captured from the institutions on Executive powers indicate that it should be vested in the Executive President, Prime Minister, President and Cabinet, President and one Vice President, Cabinet, Separation of powers/Executive, Judiciary and Legislature.

Details into types of leadership highlighted that the Institutions felt that there should be President or both President and Prime Minister.

On appointment issue the Institutions mentioned that there should be a general election for both the President and Prime Minister with an additional view that the Prime Minister should come from a party with majority in Parliament.

In question of whether Ministers should be MPs, the Institutions pointed out that there should be MPs and others not. It was the Institutions feeling that Ministers should be appointed on merit and or by the President and Parliament.

They further felt that the Constitution should enshrine the right to have one or two houses of Parliament, but they disagreed on the appointment of MPs and the right of MPs crossing the floor with their seats. There was a divided opinion on the issue of reserved seats for women and traditional leaders but agree on disabled's favour.

Apart from the above and on how our Court Systems should be organised the Institutions, highlighted that the System should remain as is, and Judicial Service Commission. The appointment of Judges as it was put by the Institutions the officials shall be appointed by the President and Judicial Service Commission, Parliament and Judicial Service Commission and Attorney General.

3. SYSTEMS OF GOVERNMENT

Unitary and Devolved are the two systems mentioned. The Institutions appeared divided on the issue of Provincial Governments. They want local elected Governors and Provincial Councils or Governors appointed by the Parliament.

The Institutions indicated that they want a Devolved structures or decentralised government offices starting from Traditional Leaders, Councillors/MPs/Provincial Administrators/Governors.

The Institutions also want elected Local Governments with necessary qualifications /competence/potential capacity, which are appointed by Parliament, but maintain the current set up which govern the affairs of their communities subject to national and provincial governments.

An Act of Parliament will provide for the establishment and powers of the local government institution, including by-laws and regulations and levy rates and taxes.

In terms of development they are to spearhead development (social, economic and infrastructural), social amenities, borrow funds for development of their areas and create employment.

Furthermore the Institutions indicated that the Local Government should advise central government, bring business of government closer to the people/implement government policy, deal with all governance issues, craft their own budgets/taxation powers and do revenue collection, be given adequate resources to run their constituencies, distribute land, have a devolved system of government at local level, ensure natural resources benefit their communities and to ensure equitable distribution of the Provincial budget.

The number of Provinces suggested by the Institutions are 10, 5 and 4, to be determined as currently constituted or in the case of five; Manicaland, Mashonaland, Matabeleland, Midlands, Masvingo, and or cardinal points (North, East, West, South).

NATIONAL REPORT

ELECTORAL SYSTEMS

VERSION 2

At provincial level, the views expressed with regard to the Electoral Systems thematic area were as follows: On the FIRST PAST THE POST concept all provinces recorded the three responses which are strongly agree, strongly disagree and divided opinion. The same trend prevailed on the other 2 concepts which are: PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION and HYBRID except that, for the HYBRID concept, Matabeleland North recorded nothing on the "strongly disagree" response.

SENATE CHAMBERS

1. FOUNDING PRINCIPLES AND PREAMBLE

Issues raised on founding principles and the preamble are that the constitution stipulates that land and natural resources as the natural resources as the country's heritage, that traditions and culture should be respected, liberation history of the country, respect of the national anthem, flag, emblems, shrines and national events. The supremacy of God to be enshrined in the founding principles. Peace, security and tranquility and defense. The rule of law and good governance should be provided for in .the constitution. Participants felt that there be recognition of traditional leaders, equality before the law, democratic principles, free and fair elections, post-independence internal conflicts e.g. murambatsvina, gukurahundi, to be in the preamble. They also suggested should condone racism, tribalism and oppression.

3. SYSTEMS OF GOVERNMENT

On systems of government to be used in Zimbabwe participants in the Senate Chamber suggested two systems of government, i.e. unitary and devolved state respectively. A divided opinion was expressed on the existence of provincial governments whilst other views advocated for the status quo to be maintained. It was suggested that Provincial Governors should be appointed by the President, President in consultation with Parliament while some suggested that they be elected. Provincial governments' composition to be as follows traditional leaders, councilors/MPs/Provincial Administrators and Governors. There was a general consensus that local governments be part of the system of governments and these are to be elected and their functions include, but are not limited to spearheading development, creating employment, service delivery, addressing people's grievances, ensuring equal distribution of resources, providing overall administration as well as maintaining the status quo. It was suggested that the Mayor should be elected and in turn appoint Executive Commissioners. It was expressed that the incumbents for local and provincial governments' posts have the necessary qualifications, competencies or potential capacity. On the number of provinces, participants in the Senate Chamber suggested that there be ten and five provinces respectively and these are determined by population density and the status quo to be maintained.

9. TRANSITIONAL MECHANISMS

Views raised in the Senate Chambers expressed the need for handover takeover period to be within 24 hours; 3 months and 2 days respectively. Further suggestions on transitional mechanisms are that there should be 2 five year Presidential terms with other views suggested that the terms be unlimited. Presidential lower age to be 40years with no upper age limit. The President to be sworn in by the Chief Justice.

12. PUBLIC FINANCE

The Consolidated Revenue Fund shall have custody at the RBZ External borrowing to be authorized by Parliament which plays an oversight role on public finance. National budget to be drawn from provincial budget through grassroots and stakeholders consultations with parliament. There must not be any spending outside national budget. Management of the budget should guarantee equal and equitable distribution of resources to provinces. Accountability of public finances to be through an act of parliament and government borrowing to be approved by parliament and has to be transparent. Monetary policy to control inflation. Other functions of the RBZ are that it is the lender of last resort and granting of loans. RBZ Governor to be appointed by parliament, the President and other views suggesting that the appointment, be done by a commission. Supervision and regulation of public finance to be done by Parliament, an Independent commission or Ministry of finance.

13. WAR VETERANS

Definition of a war veteran to include war collaborators, ex-detainees and those who gave logistical support, those who fought the war from 1890-1980 and the first, second and third chimurengas respectively. War collaborators must be recognised and respected and get monthly pensions and all should be compensated. There must be government welfare, free education, health. There should be a war veteran commission and war veterans should have the right to land. Concerns raised in this thematic area are that they must be non-partisan/apolitical and should not harass civilians.

14. LAND

Views raised in the Senate Chambers are that land should remain state land; land reform is irreversible and must continue. Land tenure to be by way of 99 year leases and title deeds. Land must be owned by Zimbabweans and there has to be equitable distribution of land. There must be a land audit, no multiple farm ownership (one men one farm policy), land commission, land not to be sold, Government to give agricultural support, with land benefiting locals. Compensation should be paid and traditional leaders to allocate land. No discrimination on land distribution. Communal lands must be reserved.

15. NATURAL RESOURCES

Issues raised in the Senate Chambers on natural resources are that the Zimbabwean constitution provides for the following: the need for traditional leaders to be given power to control and monitor resources, all minerals and natural resources to be processed locally, infrastructure development from natural resources proceeds, decentralisation of processing zones for employment creation and the creation of an independent environment. It was further suggested that environmental offenders should be prosecuted and poaching must be prohibited.

Views raised on empowerment are that projects must benefit all Zimbabweans; there must be majority ownership of companies by locals, and natural resources to benefit people in that area. It was also suggested that all displaced persons must be compensated. Local communities must be given the right of first refusal to the 51% shareholding in the implementation of the Indigenization Act. Natural resources to be beneficiated locally for employment creation. There must be 51% local ownership of resources and foreigners getting 49%. Traditional leaders should allocate land. 18. MEDIA

Concepts that were raised on the Media Thematic area are Press freedom; Regulation; Content; Access; Diversity and Plurality; Languages and Media Development respectively.

On press freedom, it was suggested that there should be freedom to news coverage; Freedom of expression; Right to free press; Freedom of practitioners to be guaranteed; independent media to be guaranteed; journalist should have the right to media; media should be independent; free airwaves to be guaranteed; media to be free from political control; freedom of information to be guaranteed and the control of press freedom by the state.

Regarding media regulation, it was suggested that an Independent Media Commission be set up and that Media be registered. It was further proposed that media registration should not be difficult; and that Foreign radio stations be embraced. The need for licensing scrapping of censorship laws and truthful reporting was also raised.

The constitution to guarantee access to media with wide coverage including in rural areas and that the right to setup community stations and newspapers. On diversity and plurality it was suggested that media plurality in all local languages be promoted. It was further expressed that suggested that media should be non-tribal. In as far as media development is concerned, it was proposed that media equipment should be expanded and the promotion of community radio stations be guaranteed.
